REBELS ADMIT CAUSE FAILS

Sinn Fein Chieftains in Dublin Surrender to British Troops.

FOLLOWERS COME UNDER WHITE FLAG

Forces Lay Down Arms at Foot of the Parnell Monument.

London, May 1.—(1:45 p. m.)—Official announcement was made this afternoon that all rebel leaders in Dublin had surrendered.

CONFESS CAUSE IS LOST.

Rank and File Cast Arms at Foot of Parnell Monument.

Dublin, Sunday Evening, April 30.—(Via London, May 1, 10:20 a. m.)—Rebels of the rank and file followed the example of their leaders this morning and confessed the cause of the Irish republic was lost by laying down their arms at the foot of the Parnell monument in Sackville street and surrendering to British troops. About 450 of them who had fought since Monday in this central area, marched out from their strongholds under the white flag and gave themselves up. A few irreconcilables continued sniping from lairs, difficult to locate on roofs or among rafters of buildings nearby. Soon afterward a rebel lieutenant, wearing a heather green uniform and carrying a white flag, came in with a guard of ten men from the adjoining county of Meath to learn the truth about rumors of a general surrender.

Pearce Admits Collapse.

The party marched off to the castle and learned from K. H. Pearce, who was named provisional president of the Irish republic, that the movement had collapsed and was advised to resist no longer. The lieutenant and his escort then started out to parley with the rebels in the country districts in an effort to induce them to lay down their arms.

James Connolly, one of the leaders of the uprising is said by government officials to be a prisoner, wounded, in the castle.

A correspondent of the Associated Press visited the entire area of the disturbance today. The desolation and destruction showed how severe was the fighting while it lasted. Any effort to describe the ruined center of the disturbance can give only a general idea of the havoc, which, however, looks more extensive than it actually is, owing to the amount of debris

Passing down from headquarters near the entrance to Phoenix park on North Circular road to the Four Courts district, one found that every window of the law courts had been shattered. The rebels had held the building in force for a week. Valuable law reference books and furniture were utilized to barricade windows, and through the interstices between the bulky volumes the rebels sniped without cessation day and night and were fired on in turn until they were compelled to evacuate the premises.

Dented With Bullet Marks.

Houses all around were dented with bullet marks. Some of them were barricaded with thick oaken planks which were marked with bullet holes. Over Wine Tavern bridge there were similar scenes. This morning the streets were full of curious persons who were glad to have the opportunity to be about after their long detention in their homes dur-

KERN UNABLE TO MUSTER A QUORUM

Washington, May 1.—Because of the absence of several senators, Majority Leader Kern was unabel to muster a quorum of the senate steering committee today for framing a "clean-up" legislative program and the meeting will be held tomorrow.

The aim is to get the important features of the pending slate enacted into law before the national political conventions and in this the minority in congress is expected to co-operate. The calling up of the Philippine independence bill under a special rule providing for its disposition in one day marked the beginning of the "clean-up" campaign in the house. With this bill disposed of it is planned to hurry up action on other measures, including the Porto Rican, District of Columbia, diplomatic and consular, shipping, fortifications, rural credits, naval and revenue bills.

LAMAR SEES HIS LAST CHANCE PASS

Washington, May 1.—The supreme court today affirmed the conviction of David Lamar, "Wolf of Wall street," in the New York federal courts on charges of impersonating Representative A. Mitchel Palmer J. P. Morgan and others with intent to defraud. Lamar is under sentence to serve two years in the penitentiary and today's action is the final word in the courts.

The court, through Chief Justice White, decided the congressman is an officer of the United States within the meaning of the statute against the impersonation of an "officer of the United States." That was the main point of which Lamar rested his case. Other points, principally those relating to jurisdiction and legal practice, were decided against him.

ONLY 198 HOURS OF SUNSHINE IN APRIL

There were only 198 hours of sunshine during the month of April as compared with 254 hours the same month in 1915, according to the official figures compiled at the local weather station.

During the month there were 2.89 inches of precipitation as compared with 1.58 last year, 3.25 in 1914; 2.54 in 1913, 2.44 in 1912. The greatest rainfall in twenty-four hours was 1.34 inches on April 25 and 26.

The highest velocity of the wind was forty miles on April 17. The prevailing direction of the wind was southwest. There were 2.8 inches of snow during the month.

NEW LABOR PAPER.

Federation of Labor to Have Weekly Publication of Its Own.

The Worker is the name of a new weekly publication which has just made its appearance. The Worker is the official organ of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor and will be published Friday of each week by the press committee of that organization.

The editors explain that it is not their intention to cover the work done by the daily papers, but that the labor forces of the city have a certain class of news that "we cannot burden our local papers with, even though they have been willing for the most part to publish whatever we have asked."

EIGHTH GRADE PUPILS OF EMMAUS SCHOOL PLANT SHRUBS AT CHURCH AND SCHOOL GROUNDS.

COAL GOING UP? SURELY

JUST HOW MUCH NOT FIGURED OUT

Philadelphia, May 1.—Anthracite operators here today said that the prices of prepared sizes of coal will have to be increased to the consumers as a result of the agreement that has been reached with the mine workers in the hard coal fields. What the amount of the increase will be will not be known until the details of the new agreement have been worked out. New freight rates on anthracite coal will have to be figured in the proposed increased prices.

S. D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, chairman of the operators' general conference committee, said the new agreement would involve a general wage increase of slightly more than ten per cent or between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 a year.

The general committee of the anthracite operators met here today, heard the report of its sub-committee which negotiated the agreement and formally ratified the new wage scale.

DETAILS GIVEN OUT.

New York, May 1.—Details of the settlement of the anthracite coal controversy as a result of the negotiations which have been going on for weeks between the operators and the miners were made public here today by the operators. The agreement, involving increased wages, shorter hours and virtual recognition of the union is as yet unsigned, but since it has met with the approval of the sub-committees which have been in session here it is not anticipated that it will be rejected at the miners' convention at Pottsville, Pa., tomorrow. The agreement will be retroactive until April 1, and will avert a threatened strike which would throw some 176,000 employes into idleness.

The agreement contains no mention of the closed shop or the check off system, which have been points of dispute during the negotiations. Regarding the former, however, it was pointed out by the operators the agreement will, when approved by the convention, be signed by John P. White, president of the mine workers, and by other officials of the union and that this is in effect recognition of the union, giving the miners the right to organize in order to better their conditions. Its provisions are to be continued until May 20, 1920.

EARL FOSTER LEADING INDIANA FLY-SWATTERS

Columbus, Ind., May 1.—Earl Foster is leading in the fly-swatting contest among the 600 school children of Columbus. He has a total of 2,660 flies to his credit, according to Melvin Houg, principal, who is in charge of the contest.

The eighteen highest in the contest have a total of 20,852 flies. The contest probably will be closed Friday.

NEW PROHIBITION LAW TAKES HOLD

Georgia Statute Will Be Strictly Observed, is Belief.

Atlanta, Ga., May 1.—The new prohibition law, which became effective at midnight, will be strictly observed by the so-called locker clubs and by the liquor interests throughout the state, it is generally believed here.

Beer saloons, which previously prohibited operating on Sunday, sold their last drinks Saturday night, but in Savannah, Atlanta and other larger cities, clubs were allowed to remain open on Sunday as usual and dispensed alcoholic beverages until 11 or in some cases 1 o'clock last night. No reports had reached here early today of any disorder marking the passing of the beer saloons, which were allowed, under previous prohibition laws, and the locker clubs furnished no more than a good natured joviality as the last drinks were dispensed. The new law, which was enacted last December, makes illegal the sale of any beverages containing more than one-half of one percent. of alcohol, limits to two quarts of liquor, or 48 pints of beer, or one gallon of wine every thirty days' shipment to any individual within the state and prevents the advertising of liquor in the state.

GERMANS SINK A TROOP SHIP

TEUTONS RENEW VERDUN ATTACK

Paris Declares New Offensive Costs Germans Heavy Losses.

Berlin, May 1.—(By Wireless to The Associated Press via Sayville.—It is reported from Saloniki that a German submarine has torpedoed a large transport.

It is said the transport was torpedoed off Kara Burun, ten miles east of Saloniki. This is the second instance in which a transport is reported to have been torpedoed near Saloniki.

This report is contained in a dispatch from Zurich, which credits this news to the Greek newspaper Nea Alithia, of Saloniki.

MASSES ARE MOWED DOWN.

New Offensive at Verdun Costs German Forces Heavily.

London, May 1.—The Germans have renewed the aggressive in force northwest of Verdun, delivering a massed attack on the positions recently captured by the French, north of Dead Man's hill, and counter attacking also a trench they had lost north of Cumieres. In both cases the assailants were repulsed, Paris declares, their masses being mowed down in large numbers in the Dead Man's hill assault.

Indications that further German efforts are impending are furnished by announcement that hill 304, west of the Meuse, and positions in the Vaux sector, northeast of Verdun, are being incessantly bombarded.

WAS IT $7,000,000 OR MERE $100,000?

Will Contest to Determine What Eno Intended to Give University.

New York, May 1.—Whether the late Amos E. Eno intended to leave $100,000 or more than $7,000,000 to Columbia university by his will of June 18, 1915, is the question before the surrogate in a will contest begun by his heirs over the division of his estate estimated to be worth from $15,000,000 to $19,000,000.

Owing to the failure of one of the attorneys in the case to appear today the trial was indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Eno left four wills in the last of which he bequeathed his residuary estate to Columbia. His heirs assert he did not know the extent of his fortune and that he believed he was giving the university less than $100,000. They also contend that Mr. Eno was not mentally in a condition to know how to dispose of his estate. Should the will be sustained Columbia university will receive $7,000,000 to $11,000,000.

The heirs who are contesting it are: Wm. P. Eno, Mrs. Antoinette E. Wood, Mary E. Pinchot, Gifford Pinchot, Amos R. E. Pinchot, Professor Henry Lane Eno and Lady Antoinette Graves. Each received a substantial sum under the will they are contesting but were remembered to a much larger degree in a will drawn by Mr. Eno in 1914.

38 ALARMS DURING APRIL; LOSS SMALL

The proverbial April showers which Fort Wayne enjoyed so abundantly this year had their pleasing and displeasing features. A pleasing result of the frequent downpours is that the fire loss for the past month in the city was kept very low. Thirty-eight alarms were answered and the monetary loss amounted to $1,955, the smallest amount in many years for this month.

There was only one large blaze and that occurred on Easter Sunday evening when the residence of Mrs. Lemley, 1517 Green street, was gutted by fire. A score of the blazes of the month were caused by sparks from the chimney and involved only minor losses. Five alarms were answered on April 27, the largest number of any one single day.

WILL NOT BE SETTLED NOW

WILL HOLD BUT ONE MORE CONFERENCE

Washington Says Negotiations Up to Date Have Been Satisfactory.

El Paso, Texas, May 1.—Major General Frederick Funston announced at noon today that only one more conference would be held with the Mexican representatives on the military questions now existing between this country and Mexico. He said it would be brief. Gens. Scott and Funston are awaiting a reply from Washington before setting a time for the conference.

Gens. Scott and Funston worked far into the night preparing reports and a code message was dispatched to the war department just before daybreak. It is understood the army officers have asked permission to take up the question of withdrawing troops from Mexico with Gen. Obregon, minister of war of the de facto government brought to the fore at the conference of Saturday.

That the conferences here will finally settle the withdrawal question is not believed.

CALLED SATISFACTORY.

Washington, May 1.—After an exchange of messages between Gen. Scott and the war department on his conference Saturday with Gen. Obregon, Mexican minister of war, officials said today the negotiations up to date had "been satisfactory." While Gen. Obregon has urged that the American troops be withdrawn, President Wilson, they said, has no intention of granting the request at the present, and is hopeful that an agreement will be reached for co-operation between American and Mexican troops in the pursuit of Villa and other bandits. Gen. Scott has been instructed to continue to press for such an agreement.

Definite final proposals have not yet been reached in the border conference, it was authoritatively stated at the war department. A long code dispatch from Gen. Scott arrived early today. Secretary Baker, of the war department, expected to send supplementary advices to Gen. Scott, to reach him, if possible, before his second conference with Gen. Obregon. While it was officially ad-

LAST MINUTE NEWS

PROVIDES 180,000 AS ARMY'S PEACE STRENGTH

Washington, May 1.— A regular army of 180,000 men at peace strength has practically been agreed upon by senate and house conferees on the army bill. The bill as it passed the senate fixed the peace strength at 250,000 men.

TORPEDO MISSES SHIP BY BARELY TEN FEET.

New York, May 1.—The French passenger steamer Patria, which arrived here today from Naples and Palermo, reported that on her last outward bound voyage at 10 a. m. on April 5 she was the target of a submarine torpedo attack in the Mediterranean. The torpedo missed the ship by about ten feet the officer said.

Fort Wayne Will Show Substantial Increase

While the taking of the school enumeration in Fort Wayne will not be completed before another week or ten days, it is reasonably certain that a substantial increase will be shown over last year. Decreases will be shown in both Wayne and Washington townships, however. In Washington township there were 645 children between the ages of six and twenty-one this year as compared with 663 last year.

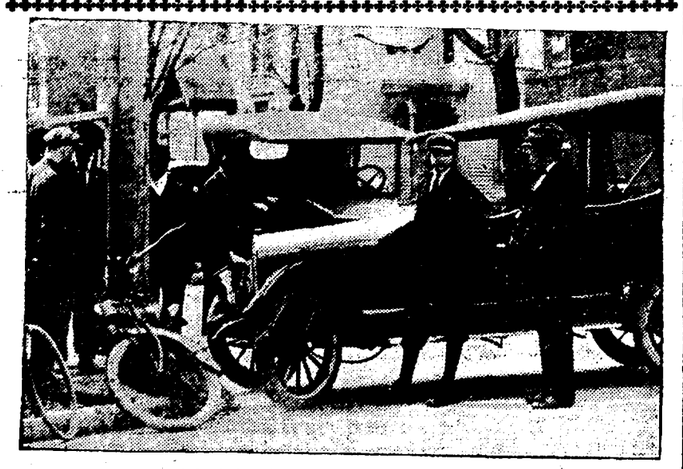
MOTORCYCLE RIDER IN MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH.



When an automobile belonging to the Wayne garage and driven by Carl Kiester, 119 Clinton street, ran into C. Delegrange, of Harrison street, as the latter was riding his motorcycle at Ewing and Jefferson streets, at 10:45 Monday morning, Delegrange and his machine were crushed against a telephone pole at the curb. The motorcycle was crushed to pieces and Delegrange escaped with a smashed nose and some bruises about his legs. The automobile fenders and headlights were broken.

ing which they were deprived of food until the authorities made provision for them. The supplies thus brought in were ample.

Down Cork Hill and King Edward streets strong guards of troops are still in evidence and every passerby is challenged.

The city hall had been occupied for several days by the rebels and even at this time snipers in houses in the vicinity were shooting at intervals.

Seven Hundred in Jail.

As the correspondent approached the castle a party of more than 100 captured members of the Sinn Fein marched by under an escort toward Richmond jail where more than 700 are now held. Many of the men were in green uniforms. One wore the uniform of the Irish volunteers and others were in civilian clothes. Numbers of them were wounded and suffering, but most of them held up their heads defiantly.

The soldiers escorting them were men who had fought all through the uprising and were even more bitter against their rebellious fellow countrymen than the troops brought over from England. This feeling seems to be shared by most of the population of Dublin.

St. Stephens Green, where the rebels entrenched themselves as soon as the movement was begun on Monday, was almost deserted. Around Trinity college and the old Irish parliament quiet reigned. The officers' training corps quartered in the college had done much to suppress the uprising.

Great Damage Done.

Great damage was done in Sacksville street and adjacent thoroughfares such as Middle Abbey, Abbey Mary and Henry streets. Only a few girders of some houses remain. Along the east side of Sackville street, from Henry street to O'Connell bridge, the buildings are battered beyond recognition. The postoffice is merely a smouldering framework. The stone Young Men's Christian Association building on the same side was perforated by eight shells, the Catholic club by two and the blind institution by two.

Bodies of slain rebels were being carried away in groups by soldiers, many of them having been shot several times.

When the authorities gave orders that the people might enter the streets today looting began. This was stopped shortly when the troops cleared the streets again and arrested every one who did not move promptly. In the debris was found a printed proclamation issued in the name of the provisional president of the republic, the text of which follows:

"The Provisional Government to the Citizens of Dublin:

"The provisional government of the Irish republic salutes the citizens of Dublin on the momentous occasion of the proclamation of a sovereign independent Irish state, now in course of being established by Irishmen in arms. Republican forces now hold the lines taken up at 12 noon Easter Monday and nowhere, despite the fierce and almost continuous attacks of British troops, have the lines been broken through."

Unofficial advices from Constantinople say that the Turks estimate at 20,000 men the losses of the British during March and April in Mesopotamia, where Gen. Townshend last week was forced to surrender his beleaguered army of some 10,000 men at Ku-el-Amara, on the Tigris. More than 500 British and Indian officers, including four generals, were taken at Kut.

Sinking of merchant vessels of the allies continues, the latest victim being the steamer City of Lucknow, of 3,669 tons.

A dispatch from a Constantinople news agency says the British troops at Kut-el-Amara had more than £1,000,000 in cash.

"General Townshend offered to surrender the town of Kut-el-Arama, with all his artillery and more than £1,000,000 in cash, on condition that he receive military honors," the dispatch says. "The Turks declined, whereupon the British surrendered unconditionally." The Turkish commander in chief, Halil Pasha, permitted Gen. Townshend (the British commander) to retain his sword.

mitted that Gen. Obregon had "suggested" withdrawal from Mexico of the United States expedition, officials said these overtures had not been in the form of a demanw, that no peremptory or unalterable position had been taken by either side. General Scott, is was explained, had made counter suggestions to Gen. Obregon, proposing co-operative military measures.

That the conferences have not reached a deadlock was also stated on official authority. No measures have been taken on behalf of the United States, it was asserted, which preclude an amicable settlement.

Mexican Ambassador Arredondo will confer with Secretary Lansing this afternoon.

Instructions sent to Gen. Scott by Secretary Baker after conference with President Wilson and with Secretary Lansing are understood to make plain that whatever is agreed upon at the conference with Gen. Obregon, Gen. Carranza's minister of war, must not be based on any immediate recall of Gen. Pershing's forces.

Pigs Given Baths on Ranch Owned by Daughter of "Lucky" Baldwin

By M. C. Larkin.

Sierra Madre, Cal., May 1.—A ranch where pig pens are palaces, where pigs get baths once a week, where blooded cows are protected from flies by screen-paddocks—such a place is Santa Anita Rancho, owned and run by Anita M. Baldwin, daughter of the late E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, famous millionaire turfman and picturesque pioneer of the early-day West.

Santa Anita Rancho—3,600 acres—home ranch of "Lucky" Baldwin, headquarters for the vast 70,000-acre domain that stretched 12 miles in one direction by five in the other, lies in the fertile San Gabriel valley at the foot of the steep Sierra Madre mountains which threaten to topple over in the ranch.

Located on the rim of this now shrunken holding is "Arcadia," famous old race course where some of the country's best running classics have been staged. Arcadia has gone to rack.

"It will never be rebuilt," says Mrs. Baldwin, "for I do not approve of horse racing—at least not as conducted today.

Of the tremendous principality that once constituted Santa Anita Rancho, approximately 18,000 acres are left. Much of this is now selling at a price ranging from $1,000 to $6,000 an acre. But Santa Anita Rancho, the home of Baldwin, vacant, hid amid the trees, yet spic and span, a monument to the genius and foresight of its departed owner, will remain intact. And Mrs. Baldwin will farm it.

"It is a matter of sentiment with me, this ranch life," said "Lucky" Baldwin's daughter. "I am trying to carry out my father's ambition with Santa Anita, in perhaps a more modern way than he would have done."

To make it a model stock ranch is Mrs. Baldwin's ambition. Nothing but registered stock finds place at Santa Anita. Holstein cows, Berkshire hogs and fine Poland Chinas, thoroughbred English race horses Arabians and best blooded Percherons that weigh a ton when three years old—such is the stock Mrs. Baldwin is specializing in. She is crossing the Arabian with the English thoroughbred for polo ponies and cavalry mounts, thus producing a steed entirely new, fleet of foot and with phenomenal endurance.

"My ranch," says Mrs. Baldwin, "must be practical and artistic."

Geraniums grow around the piggery, which is scrubbed every day, and peacocks strut about, spreading their gorgeous plumage. The nostrils of the visitor are not offended by the filth-smell with which most pig sties reek. The pigs are dipped once a week to prevent disease.

Every new building on the ranch is of reinforced concrete, of mission-style architecture, fireproof and sanitary, designed by Mrs. Baldwin.

The management of Santa Anita Rancho is largely directed from an office on the 13th floor of a building in Los Angeles, 16 miles away. Here, behind a desk in much the fashion of a general directing an army, sits Mrs. Baldwin, her finger on the pulse of every department at the ranch. She knows the record of every animal, its physical condition and all pertaining to it by merely referring to the charts that the foremen of the various departments have turned in. Telephones communicate with every department. Needed information is supplied on demand over the wire. In case of sickness a veterinarian is at hand for any animal on the ranch.

Afternoons Mrs. Baldwin spends in the office; mornings on the ranch. She has personal knowledge of all that goes on, in addition to the reports of her various bosses. The hog boss is an expert; the dog boss is like him; also the dairyman, the hostler who handles the percherons, the man who handles the jacks and mules, and all the rest of them.

In time Mrs. Baldwin hopes to have 10,000 thoroughbred hogs, 500 Holsteins and as many registered horses as she has pasturage for.

Mrs. Anita M. Baldwin, owner of Santa Anita Rancho. "Failsworth White Knight," world's best English bull; prize Arabian stallion and Poland China sow and litter, three types of the many thoroughbred animals on her ranch.

Her start is the best in the world. Her kennels house 40 dogs, among them the world's best English bull, "Failsworth White Knight;" the best male and female of the Airdale breed—"Tintern Tiptop" and "Cherrytree Queen." A dairy not yet two years old has already broken the state record for seven days production of butter fat from one cow, and more records are forthcoming.

"Although sentiment and not love of agriculture made me a farmer," said Mrs. Baldwin, "I find I like it very much. I have always been a great lover of horses—a love inherited, perhaps, from my father. I would rather handle animals than to deal with most people. It is more satisfactory."

Mrs. Baldwin possesses rare musical talent. She wrote the incidental music for Richard Walton Tully's "Omar the Tentmaker." On a recent visit to the ranch the famous playwright tried to induce Mrs. Baldwin to give up ranching and turn to music.

"Wasting your time," is the way he expressed it, "and the world is being deprived of a great composer."

EVERY WATCH TICK COSTS THEM $1,041

Warring Nations Are Paying Tremendous Price for Belligerency.

By Milton Bronner.

New York, May 1.—Every time the second hand of your watch ticks, the war has cost the warring nations of Europe something over $1,041. It is costing them $3,750,000 an hour, $90,000,000 per day and $650,000,000 per week.

By August 1 next, when the second year of the war will have ended, the gigantic conflict will have cost $45,000,000,000. These figures are presented in a special booklet on the war which the Mechanics and Metals National Bank of New York City will issue early in May.

According to the bank's figures, if warfare lasts until August 1, it will have cost Great Britain $11,600,000,000. The cost to Germany will have been a bit less than that and the figures for France will have been $9,250,000,000.

The total military expenditure of the warring nations for the first year of the conflict was $17,500,000,000. For the second year it will be 28 billions.

The aggregate of these amounts, according to the booklet, is a sum three times greater than the entire capitalization of the railways of the United States and four times greater than the total deposits of all our national banks.

Two years of the war will have cost six times more than our civil war, 40 times more than the amount of the national indebtedness of this country and 120 times more than the cost of the Panama canal. According to the computations made by the bank statisticians Great Britain's war expenditures are now $25,000,000 per day. The daily war cost of France is $18,000,000 and to Russia $15,500,000.

Discussing loans, the booklet says that loans of permanent character made by the entente reached a total of more than $12,000,000,000 while Germany and Austria borrowed $11,700,000,000. Large as these sums were, they financed little more than one-half the cost of the war, 20 billions having been obtained by temporary financing, taxation, issuance of paper money and other expedients. Thus at the same time that formal war loans offered to the people have gone beyond any credit operations known before, the money markets have been resorted to on a scale surpassing all precedent and resources of the central banks of the warring nations have been drawn upon to a large degree.

The financing thus far has been accomplished with comparative ease and without violently affecting rates in the money markets. Means to regulate these markets have been found, both in the issuance of paper money and in the elimination of all industrial financing that might be competitive with government loans.

ASKS DISSOLUTION DECREE.

Washington, May 1.—The government today filed a motion for a final dissolution decree in the anti-trust suit against the American Can company in the federal district court at Baltimore. It demands that corporation's property be disposed of and that it be enjoined from acquiring any interest in more than one concern taking over can company plants.

THEY TAX CLASSES TO EDUCATE MASSES

Costa Rica Has a Rather Interesting Theory of Taxation.

By Roger W. Babson.

San Jose, Costa, Rica, May 1.—I must not close my letters from Costa Rica without a word concerning Alvarola Gonzolez, the president. Gonzolez is a progressive of the best type.

I have some time interviewed the presidents of most of the republics south of us, but seldom a man equal to Gonzolez.

The presidents of most of the South and Central American countries are aristocrats from rich families. There is very little taxation of land in these countries because the old families, which control the most of the land, take care to have one of their own people for president.

The president of Costa Rica, however, has come from the middle class.

In Latin-America, 10 per cent. of the people are rich; 15 per cent. are of the middle class, and 75 per cent. are very poor. Gonzolez is a young progressive, who has worked himself up to the highest office in the land, by industry, foresight, courage and good habits.

At the time of my writing he was devoting all his attention to the study of taxation. He believes that there is enough in the world for everyone who is willing to work; but the trouble is with the inheritance and taxation laws which keep men from equal opportunities.

He believes there is prosperity enough, but that it is not properly distributed.

He questions whether the solution will come through labor unions, which he thinks seem to raise prices as well as wages.

So far as I can learn the progressives of Costa Rica believe that the solution lies in better education for the masses, taxing the land owners to pay the bill.

If this means a practical industrial training and a form of taxation which the classes cannot pass on to the ultimate consumers, I say "Amen."

ANDERSON HAS ANNIVERSARY.

E. G. Anderson, well known tea and coffee merchant, observed an unusual anniversary on Monday. It was just seventy years ago on this date that Mr. Anderson located in Fort Wayne. He likes the city so well, too, that he hopes to remain another seventy years, a desire in which his numerous friends will most cordially join him.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN IS MAKING PROGRESS

Plans Are Rapidly Going Forward for the Start on May 16.

Plans are rapidly going forward for the big campaign for a modern city Young Men's Christian association to be conducted May 16-26. The probability of including a new home for the railroad men increases the magnitude and importance of the movement. It will be the largest and most important campaign ever undertaken in the history of Y. M. C. A. work in Indiana.

In this day and generation the Young Men's Christian association is recognized and appreciated as one of the most vital foctors in making for efficient manhood. It will be the purpose and constant aim of such an organization in Fort Wayne to cater to all the legitimate needs of every man and boy in the community and make the institution a home and a help to all the young men of Allen county without any distinction as to wealth, social position, political or religious affiliation.

Fort Wayne now stands alone in Indiana as much the largest city without a city Young Men's Christian association and is conspicuous throughout the the entire country as being one of the largest cities in the United States without such organized work.

The steady growth of Fort Wayne makes it still more imperative for a Young Men's Christian association in full operation. Manufacturers weigh, as never before, the moral and constructive forces in a community, when seeking new locations, and some have even passed cities otherwise well qualified to locate in one having a Young Men's Christian association. They find that even flowers in their factory yards increase the efficiency of their employees. Men cannot live as they should without elevating influences, and those thoroughly organized and made permanent, such as that now contemplated, benefit the entire community directly and indirectly beyond estimate. Our city is essentially an organism; it may grow along the line of least resistance or along the lines of steady upbuilding. The proper display of public enterprise and co-operative effort at this time will make possible a $250,000 or $300,000 association plant and place Fort Wayne conspicuously in the forefront among cities of similar size.

To raise $250,000 or $300,000 in Fort Wayne at any time is no insignificant task, but the present incentive is exceptionally strong for a combined effort and a generous demonstration of self-sacrifice and public spirit. Other cities have succeeded, notwithstanding serious obstacles; WHY NOT FORT WAYNE?

LOSES RACE WITH DEATH.

Rensselaer Man Expires Just as Hospital is Reached.

Lafayette, Ind., May 1.—Charles A. Gallagher, 41, of Rensselaer, Ind., lost in a race with death yesterday. He was visiting at the home of his sister in Remington when he was taken violently ill with hemorrhage of the stomach. Physicians advised that the only chance of saving his life was by an operation and he was placed in an automobile and rushed to a hospital in this city. As the automobile carrying the afflicted man entered the hospital grounds he died.

RAILROAD AUDITOR RESIGNS.

E. L. Mitten Succeeds E. P. Clawson on Evansville & Indianapolis Line.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 1.—E. P. Clawson, who has been auditor of the Evansville & Indianapolis railroad since it was placed in the hands of W. P. Kappes as receiver some time ago, has resigned, to take effect today, and E. L. Mitten, of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, has been appointed to succeed to the place. While Mr. Clawson's resignation was said to be due to ill health, it is reported that he will accept a similar place with an eastern railroad.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

NOBLE COUNTY PIONEER DIES.

Wolf Lake, Ind., May 1.—Jonas E. Mayfield, an aged pioneer resident of this place was buried here Sunday. The deceased was born in Ohio, February 17, 1834, and was age 82 years 2 months and 12 days at the time of his death. He was a son of John and Romy Mayfield, and when nine years old moved to Noble county with them. He spent his early life at home and when a young man was united in marriage to Matilda Grimes, who survives. To this union five children were born, three of whom survive: Bert Mayfield, of Wolf Lake; Ernest Mayfield, of this city, and Mrs. Jasper Goppert, of Thorncreek township. Besides the children one brother, James Mayfield, of Fort Wayne, and one sister, Mrs. Jane Carrier, of Noble county, also survive him.

KENDALLVILLE ENUMERATION.

Kendallville, Ind., May 1.—There are 1,174 persons of school age in Kendallville, three less than a year ago, according to the enumeration just completed by Mrs. H. E. Seibert. The report of Mrs. Seibert is now on file with the school board, and the board in turn will file a report with the county clerk. From this number of school children the amount of school funds to be apportioned to this city will be determined. Of the children of school age 557 are females and 615 males; colored 2. Of the 1,174 school children, 944 are attending school. There are 222 children employed in regular occupation, 112 males and 110 females; eight are unemployed, five males and three females.

Woman Victim in Loveless Triangle

FRANK VETRI.

MRS. JOSEPH CASTELLO.

Frank Vetri, a deaf mute, who the police say confessed he slew Mrs. Joseph Costello, also a deaf mute, is the prime factor in the strangest "loveless triangle" case the New York police have ever hed to deal with.

With no apparent qualms of conscience, Vetri told the police how he "eloped" with Mrs. Castello to New Haven. Her husband was there and watched the couple in their rooms.

Vetri is credited with saying that at a signal from the husband, who lurked in a closet, Vetri battered his woman companion over the head with an iron bar and left her for dead. Being a mute the woman could only struggle in silence.

"Castello didn't love his wife and wanted to get rid of her." That is all the excuse for the crime Vetri is said to have offered. "I knew him at the deaf mute school and was a friend of his. So I was willing to put her out of the way."

CHURCH DEDICATION.

Middlepoint, O., May 1.—Yesterday was a glad day for the United Brethren people of Bethel church, four miles north of here, the occasion being the dedication of their new $8,000 church. Dr. J. M. Phillipi, editor of the Religious Telescope, of Dayton, O., assisted by Rev. M. R. Ballinger, conference superintendent, were in charge of the services. The building is a brick, modern in every respect, and reflects great credit on the people of that community. The trustees are Adam Miller, George Snyder, G. W. Wagoner, A. R. Evensole and Arthur Cauder, who, with the noble pastor, Rev. R. E. Tussing, have worked with a will for the completion of this beautiful church.

WHITLEY TEACHERS WED.

Columbia City, Ind., May 1.—Lloyd Sheldon Crouch and Miss Mildred Kime were quietly united in marriage Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Kime, on north Washington street, by Rev. J. Thomas Bean. Only relatives and close friends of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony which was simple and impressive. More than usual interest attaches to this wedding, owing to the prominence of the contracting parties. Both the bride and groom have wide acquaintance in this county, as they have taught school and taken active parts in the social life of this and surrounding communities.

ACQUITTED OF BOOTLEGGING.

Hartford City, Ind., May 1.—Another trial on a charge of bootlegging has ended in favor of the defense. The jury in the case of the state against Ralph Mullins, charged with selling whisky to Arthur Clark, deliberated for three hours and rendered a verdict of not guilty. The jury took ten ballots. Following the outcome of the case, Prosecutor Sprague dismissed a second affidavit which was pending against Mullins, in which he was charged with selling intoxicating liquor to Grant Sebring.

STROKE MAY PROVE FATAL.

Warsaw, Ind., May 1.—Asbury Cook, councilman of the Third ward, lies in a critcial condition at his home as a result of a stroke of paralysis which came upon him early Thursday morning. Mr. Cook's condition has been serious since he was stricken. Relatives have been summoned. Mr. Cook is past 70 years of age but has been active in his personal affairs and in looking after the interests of the city and his ward. He has had little sickness in recent years and seemed to be in the best of health until suddenly stricken Thursday morning.

AUBURN'S SLOGAN IS 10,000.

Auburn, Ind., May 1.—"Auburn, 10,000 population in the next five years," is the new slogan of the Auburn Commercial club. Enthusiasm in the club is reaching a high pitch and at the "get together" meeting and supper at the Coliseum nearly every member of the club old and new was present. The membership of the organization now nears the 300 mark, over 150 new members having been added in the campaign for new members which started several weeks ago.

HELD ON GIRL'S COMPLAINT.

Bluffton, Ind., May 1.—Roy Creek, a young man living in Chester township, is under arrest here on a warrant issued from the court of Squire J. R. Rinehart following the filing of paternity proceedings in which the relatrix is Miss Ida E. Fear, a Blackford county young woman. She is represented in the case by Attorney Ash G. Emshwiller, of Hartford City.

SLOW FILING EXPENSE ACCOUNTS.

Van Wert, Ohio, May 1.—Up to date there has been only a few of the candidates at the last election who have filed their expense accounts with Clerk of the Election Board D. J. Gunsett. Under the provisions of the law, candidates are allowed until May 5, or 10 days after the election in which to file their accounts and in case this is not done, they forfeit their right to election.

DIES ALONE IN HIS HOME.

Auburn, Ind., May 1.—Stricken with apoplexy while alone in his home near Newville, John DeLong, aged 72, a pioneer of DeKalb county and a veteran of the civil war, was found dead on the steps of the cellar in the residence of his wife and daughter, when tey returned from Newville. The deceased was widely known and respected. He was a soldier in company A, Eighty-eighth Indiana volunteers, during the war of the rebellion and a son of Colonel DeLong, in whose honor DeLong post G. A. R., of Auburn, was named. He was a member of the U. B. church in Newville and was a member of the Masonic lodge and the Eastern tSar.

BALKED BY BROTHER.

Suitors of Kansas City Heiress Can Get No License to Wed.

Kansas City, Mo., May 1.—Fearing some one might attempt to marry his sister, who is reputed to have an income of $300 a month from Oklahoma oil lands, Andrew A. Dunlap, 2708 Quindaro boulevard, requested Judge John T. Sims of the Wyandotte county probate court not to issue a marriage license in case she applied for one. The sister is Queen Victoria Jackson. She is 17 years old and one-eighth Creek Indian. She recently came here to reside with her brother. "Seven men tried to get my sister to marry them when her land holdings became valuable," Dunlap told Judge Sims. "She is too young to marry."

"Growing For You"

By Will Seaton

JENNY LEE came slowly down Mile street from the Herrick house on the hill, where she had been sewing all day. The evening was so warm that the coat she had needed in the morning felt uncomfortable now, and she had thrown it back on her shoulders. She was late in getting home because she had stayed to tea. In Westmore a seamstress is entitled to two meals as well as to a dollar, which in Jenny's case was a real godsend.

As she walked Jenny thought dreamily of the pretty things she had worked upon all day—the sheer, lace-trimmed linens which Bess Herrick was to wear under her wedding gown. Jenny had always made Bess Herrick's clothing, and, although the beautiful satin wedding gown was beyond her skill, she was fashioning the things that went with it. She had even seen the gown itself, which had arrived that day from the city—a pearly robe with a veil like morning mist. But it was less the dress she remembered than the lifted radiance of Bess's young face as she cried: "Oh, Jenny, don't you wish you were me?"

Jenny Lee was tired tonight—tired in body and spirit. She dragged along like a bird with both wings broken. Mile street streamed with lighted cars, whose occupants were cooling off after the heat and stress of the day. Jenny had to wait a long time at a crossing before she could get sufficient courage to pass over. Then she moved down a shabby, old, quiet street which grew darker and quieter and shabbier the farther she went. At the very end was her house.

Two generations of Lees had occupied the house before it came to Jenny. It was a little gray house like a hornet's nest. On either side of the yard were palings, but the front was open to the street. Here crowded Jenny's flowers, some of which were descendants of her grandmother's posies. Soft waves of perfume rose into the night air. They came forward to greet Jenny. She could distinguish the odor of spice pink, blush roses, and white nancies. She loved best the white nancies for an old, sweet, simple reason of her own. As she went up the narrow path she reached out and broke a bit from the nearest white flower cluster and pressed it to her face. Its sweetness and the memory of Bess Herrick's wedding dress set her heart aching.

Jenny opened the door. The close, cosy breath of her home breathed upon her. The room was not more than gray dark, for the moon was floating up like a white globule. Jenny took off her hat. She started to take off her gray coat, and then she changed her mind. She also removed the chimney from the lamp and started to strike a match, but changed her mind about that also.

"I'm always changing my mind," she thought. "It has been my curse."

She dropped down into the nearest chair and submitted herself to reflection. "I wish I hadn't seen that dress," she thought. "I wish they hadn't asked me to make those bridal things. It brings it all back. It has seemed all day as if—" A sob came into her throat. She tried to swallow it. "Why, if he was right here in the room with me he couldn't be any nearer than he has been all day."

The small, warm room choked her. A puff of air came in at the open door, freshly scented with the night's distillations. The room became very dark in the corners, but across the floor under the window the moon's white glance grew. Jenny sat staring at it. "It's a pretty night," she thought. "I guess I won't light up at all. I guess I'll just go to bed by the moonlight."

She rose to close the door, but paused to look out. The flowers seemed to sigh, the moonbeams to beckon. "I might sit on the porch a few minutes," she thought, "I'm not very sleepy."

On either side the little old-fashioned latticed porch was a wooden settee. Jenny sat down. With her hands folded, she looked wistfully at the flowers which breathed and rocked in the moonlight. She looked until she ceased to see or think or move. She had fallen asleep.

Slowly, as if she were being pulled out the depths of languor, she opened her eyes. A shred of dream clung to her. She seemed to hear a voice and to behold a face which long years before had passed out of her life. The moon was right over the house, and its light came down in a broad white flood. Under it the flowers stood still, as if waiting for something to happen. Something had happened. A man stood half way down the coal ash path bending over the tangle of white nancies. His hat was in his hand. He stood motionless as if he had forgotten himself. His face, the curve of his head the square line of his spare, trim shoulders had almost a photographic clearness to Jenny's staring eyes.

She knew, of course, that she was asleep and dreaming. She dreamed that John Mortimer stood there in the moonlight gazing at the flowers he had always admired. Oh, if she might die before she awoke! Ah, but she was awake all the time! This man moved. She rose to her feet. He came toward her. She heard him say, "They said I should find her here." Then she advanced fully into his view.

"I am here," she said.

They stood looking at each other, half bewildered, half curious. She saw him hold out his hand and she reached forth her hand to meet it. This brought them a little nearer still.

"Well, it is a long time since I was here last," he said.

She nodded. "Twenty-one years next month. The 17th, Thursday."

"Yes. I hadn't forgotten. The trumpet vine has grown some. That's about the only change I see." He gazed at her eagerly.

"About the only change," Jenny replied. She sank down upon the step and he took his seat beside her. They gazed at the garden in silence.

"I notice you're still growing white nancies," he remarked at last.

This seemed to drag Jenny out of her daze. "Yes," she replied.

"I carried one of those flowers with me clear to Argentina," he said. "It was that brought me back—partly." He drew forth his pocketbook, opened it and showed her a carefully preserved, pressed flower. "It's gone wherever I've gone for twenty-one years. I guess it's been a kind of talisman. You see, they didn't grow white nancies down there. So I kept this one. And now I've brought it back. Funny, isn't it?" But the catch in his voice did not sound as though he thought so. "Jenny," he asked, tentatively, "did you ever wish that—that you'd gone with me that time?"

"Oh, John!" Her voice came in a sob. "If you knew how I have wished! God only knows what made me change my mind. I wanted to go with you, but that night—" She shivered. He put his arm about her and drew her gently nearer. "That night," she went on, more bravely, "it was just such a night as this. Remember? The white nancies were all out and it was all so sweet and familiar and cosy. I couldn't bear to leave it. And father and mother were coaxing me to stay. I never did have much mind of my own, and when they said that if you really cared you would stay with me instead of making me go with you—"

"I guess there was some truth in that," he said sadly. "I was wild for adventure, and I didn't understand all I was asking you to do. I have since. But I never heard. I thought probably you'd married. And then I said to myself: "I'll just go back and look at the white nancies anyhow."

He kissed her tenderly. Jenny's face was sweeter than any flower under the moonlight as she lifted it to his. "John," she murmured, "the white nancies—I—I've kept them growing—for you!"

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING

Proverbs 6:1-15.

1 My son, if thou be surety for thy friend, if thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger,

2 Thou art snared with the words of thy mouth, thou are taken with the words of thy mouth.

3 Do this now, my son, and deliver thyself, when thou art come into the hand of thy friend; go, humble thyself, and make sure thy friend.

4 Give not sleep to thine eyes, nor slumber to thine eyelids.

5 Deliver thyself as a roe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

7 Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler,

8 Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest.

9 How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleep?

10 Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep:

11 So shall thy poverty come as one that traveleth, and thy want as an armed man.

Let the Auto Drivers Help.

City authorities in their attempt to find the best solution of the traffic problem involved in the parking of automobiles in the down-town district have no easy task confronting them, and they should be given the fullest co-operation by car owners and car drivers. Disposition of the hundreds of cars that are parked in the business district daily has become a very serious matter by reason of the narrowness of Fort Wayne's streets and the practice of allowing many of the cars to be parked for many hours at a time. In some streets double lines of autos left standing at the curb narrow the space left open for traffic to a degree that not only produces marked congestion but adds a definite element of danger. This danger is tremendously increased, too, by the possibility of alarms of fire and the necessity for the fire apparatus making hurried runs through the narrow lanes between the machines. A moment's reflection will bring home a full realization of the seriousness of the situation.

There is now being put into effect a new police regulation governing the parking of cars that is designed to permit the use of but one side of a street at a time for this purpose. To "play fair" in the matter the cars will be parked for a time on one side of the street, and then for a similar period the opposite side will be used, signs at all times designating the parking space for that particular day. The new system may prove successful, and it may prove a failure. It has not been completely worked out as yet, but it contains some elements of promise and there is the hope that it will help to eliminate to some degree the congestion and the traffic danger which is clearly apparent. The question is one in which the public is as deeply concerned as is the police department. Let the public lend its assistance gladly and without complaint in giving the new system a thorough trial and making it as effective as possible.

It is eighteen years ago today—May 1, 1898—since Admiral Dewey won his epoch-marking victory over the Spanish fleet in the Philippine islands, utterly wiping out his foes without the loss of a warship and with scarcely the loss of a man. The intervening years have brought us somewhat of trouble and much of responsibility in the orient, but the achievement in development and progress there has been a wonderful demonstration of American benevolence and American efficiency. And Admiral Dewey's achievement remains an enduring tradition of the American navy—cherished in a history that embraces some of the most brilliant achievements of all the world's sea fighters.

Judge Deery, in the city court at Indianapolis, Saturday summed up an impressive truth in a few words when he addressed three youths who were before him on charges of gaming. "The prisons are full of men who started out in life thinking they could make an easy living with dice and cards," said Judge Deery. "The coroner's records are full of cases of men who committed suicide when they finally learned that they could not make easy money by gambling. The only place dice will lead you to is ruination." Judge Deery spoke, too, from a position which gives him unusual opportunity to observe. He knows definitely the conditions of which he was speaking.

The Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange will this week hold its annual banquet, and it may be pardoned if it indulges in a bit of justifiable pride in its accomplishments. The Real Estate exchange has in many ways demonstrated its value to the community. It is first, foremost and always a consistent booster for the city. It has standardized the real estate business locally, brought it to a higher plane than it had heretofore enjoyed and infused tremendously the spirit of optimism and civic pride and progress. Fort Wayne owes much to her real estate men.

California women vote without any dictation and are amply equal to managing their affairs, declares a writer on political conditions in that state. And who believes there would be any occasion to dictate to woman regarding the vote? Will anybody contend that the rank and file of women are not as well qualified to exercise the right of franchise intelligently as are the rank and file of the male voters?

Colonel Roosevelt has come out squarely for nation-wide woman suffrage, declaring his belief that the time has come for a greater and truer nationalism in this country, and that one important step in that direction is to give the woman the right of the ballot. Colonel Roosevelt can get no argument out of The Sentinel on this question. He's right about it.

It is given out at Washington that congress has reached a sort of understanding that it will practically knock off work during the two weeks the national conventions are held at Chicago and St. Louis. But could you seriously expect anybody to keep his mind on statesmanship at such a time as that?

Harmless and docile they look in their serapes and sombreroes, only their beady eyes peering from the mufflings that hide them and make them look piteous and lazy.

But put them on a horse and hand them a rifle—they become bloodthirsty brigands, with hatred of the "gringoes" in their veins and the lust to kill Americans in their hearts.

These are the type of Mexicans that crept silently up to sleeping Columbus, tethered their horses behind a rocky hill and sneaked up the dry ditch under the railroad tracks into the heart of town.

These are the men whose cry of "Viva Mejico! Viva Villa!" brought terror to Columbus and sent men and women scurrying from their homes to be shot dead in the village streets.

ADVERTISING RELIGION.

(Kansas City Star.)

One big thing Billy Sunday is certainly going to accomplish in Kansas City. For the next few weeks he is going to make religion a first page story. He is going to make it the thing most thought about and talked about. He is going to force it on the attention of tens of thousands of persons who have given it no attention before.

In so far as the spirit of real religion permeates the city it will have its outward effect in making Kansas City a better place to live in—a place where people give attention to a fuller measure of justice, to better sanitation and living conditions, and to getting rid of unwholesome conditions that tend to demoralize the community.

"What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy, and "to walk humbly with thy God?"

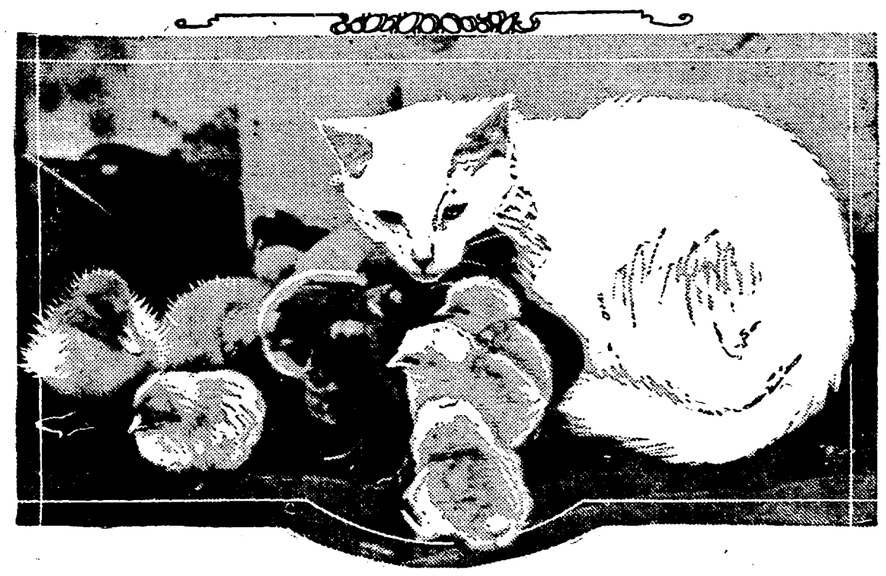
"BABY CAT" MOTHERS INCUBATOR CHICKS AND DUCKLINGS.



"Baby Cat," a prize Angora, on the ranch of Robert Bungey, near Venice, Cal., is having her paws full, so to speak. A short time ago "Baby Cat" lost her entire family. It is rumored that her kittens were put in a sack with a rock and drowned.

Anyway, after a short period of grief, "Baby Cat" turned her affections to twelve little chicks and two ducklings that had just been liberated from an incubator. At first her maternal ministerings were scorned by the brood of chicks and the ducklings. With natural instinct they feared her. But "Baby Cat" finally succeeded in convincing the fluffy little "peepers" that she was earnest and sincere in her desire to mother them, so the tiny brood permitted itself to be adopted.

Now with all the care of a hen this cat mothers the chicks. She will not eat the food put before her until her family has had its fill. And she will not permit any other feline to come near, nor even her old friends the bird dogs.

At the least sign of danger the chicks and ducklings seek safety with the cat just as they would with a natural mother. At night they cuddle into her long fur and sleep. "Baby Cat" is young and the family of kittens she lost was her first.

Bungey, her owner, who is a well known sportsman, says he expects to see some fun when the chicks reach the wandering age and the ducks go swimming.

DREAM OF LOVE IS AN AWFUL NIGHTMARE

Ashtabula Man Finds Chicago White Socks Too Much for Him.

Ashtabula, O., May 1.—"I am 37 years old, blonde complexion and hair the same. I will wear a blue serge tailor-made suit, short skirt and white shoes. The skirt will just come to the shoe tops, and white hose will be peeping out. I will be chewing gum and carrying a black bag. Meet me at the postoffice between 4 and 5 o'clock."

With these words, "Mrs. Annie Thompson, widow, general delivery, Chicago, Ill." favored Jedediah Silverton, 58, Ashtabula county farmer, with a tryst which Jedediah fully expected to net him a bride.

The Ashtabulan let his spring planting "go Gallagher" and hied away to the Windy City. One hour before the appointed time, Jedediah was at the trysting place, kicking up his heels and eating lemon drops from a paper bag lest he betray his nervousness.

At 7 p. m. he entered the south Clark street police station and gave vent to his feeling to Lieutenant McCauley as follows:

"I jes' wanted to tell the town marshal that the bunco game is still flourishin.' They all had short skirts and white shoes. I counted 724 of 'em, by ginger. In all my born days I never saw so much stockin'. I've got to say one thing for the Chicago wimmen—they've got mighty slick ankles."

Fred O'Conner, the Pittsburg Dispatcher, has returned from a visit with his parents in Valparaiso.

It is astonishing to note the number of bicycles ridden by ladies in this city.

The magnificent new fountain in McCulloch park has been completed and is ready for the water.

Mrs. Franklin P. Randall has returned from a visit to Kansas City, being accompanied home by her son, David J. Randall.

Messrs. William Meyer and Louis Heilbroner will attract thousands of people to this city by their Fourth of July celebration, which promises to be one wonderful affair.

Charles, the young son of A. J. Lang, of DeWald & Co., was struck in the mouth by a foul tip, while playing ball, and several of his teeth were knocked out.

The board of school trustees will receive bids at once for two new school buildings—one at Huffman and Franklin streets and one at Clinton and Pontiac streets. Both must be completed by August 20.

Judge Joseph Brackenridge, one of the most distinguished jurists in Indiana, died yesterday at his home, 77 West Wayne street. He was born in 1823 in Brooklyn, Ind., and came in 1830 to this city with his parents. He received his early education and studied in the office of his uncle, Robert Brackenridge, being licensed in 1846 to practice at the bar. He was married in 1861 at Ypsilanti, Mich., to Eliza J. Walpole, who, with their children, Will P. and Robert E. Brackenridge, of this city, and Mrs. Edith Carey, of Omaha, survive the husband and father. Judge Brackenridge had been for many years chief counsel here for the Pennsylvania railroad, served as prosecuting attorney and judge of the common pleas and the criminal courts of this county. He was a democrat, a prominent Mason and a member of the Berry street M. E. church.

Here is a scene in the courtroom at Deming, N. M., when seven of the Villistas who raided Columbus and were captured by United States troops, were sentenced to death by Judge Edward L. Medler for the murder of American citizens.

One of the Mexicans, badly wounded, had to be brought to court on a cot. One limped on a crutch; one's head was bandaged so his face hardly could be seen.

PITTSBURG IS TIED UP BY CAR STRIKE

Pittsburg, May 1.—Thousands of persons were compelled to either walk or ride in automobiles or big drays to work today as a result of the strike of street car men, which began shortly after midnight. Operations were completely suspended on all lines of the Pittsburg Railways companies in Pittsburg and vicinity and the Washington and Charleroi interurban lines, as well as on the Beaver and Washington local lines. President J. D. Callery announced that no attempt to operate cars would be made today.

The Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroads put on an extra local train in order to handle the increased crowds, while all the down town department stores and other business houses sent automobile delivery trucks to various sections of the city to gather up their employes.

The strike order was issued by T. J. Ward, president of the street car men's union, promptly at midnight and shortly after negotiations between the employes and officials of ths company had been broken off. Members of the executive board were dispatched to the various car barns and motormen and conductors were instructed to finish their runs and then bring in their cars. No disorder marked the start of the strike and within two hours after the order had been issued traction service had been tied up. In order to be ready should the officials of the company desire to reslume negotiations, members of the union committee remained at the labor temple throughout the night.

The strike affects 3,200 conductors and motormen and about 800 other employes of the company. The men first demanded 30, 35 and 38 cents an hour for respectively the first, second and third year's service, but later yielded to 30, 33 and 36 cents. The company refused to pay more than 32 cents as a maximum wage, two cents above the present rate.

John Dickson, former farm manager for the Indiana School for Feeble-Minded Youth, has been engaged to take charge of the Illinois farm of Thomas Wilson who, according to recent press dispatches, has risen from a mere office boy to the highest salaried executive in the country.

LOYALTY TO FORT WAYNE TO BE SHOWN

Hundreds Will Attend the Pageant Mass Meeting This Evening.

As an evidence of loyalty and a wish to do everything in their power to advance the interests of Fort Wayne, their home town, hundreds of men, women, boys and girls will assemble this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Shrine hall, West Main street and Maiden lane, in response to the general invitation to meet Donald Robertson, the pageant master.

All who are willing to take part on the production are urged to attend.

On this occasion Mr. Robertson will address the entire company concerning the greatness of the coming pageant and point out the way in which the people may have an active and necessary part in making it one of the most memorable events of the kind in the history of municipal pageants.

An Appeal to Loyalty.

Frank E. Stouder, chairman of the pageant committee, asks that all who feel the spirit of home pride welling up within, and who are willing to "boost" Fort Wayne, shall come to the mass meeting tonight. What is needed right now to make the pageant a glorious success is loyalty and hard work. The opportunity to show the one and do the other is now offered, and it is hoped that no one will pass it up. The children, as well as the older people, will be welcomed at the meeting tonight—that is, those who are of such age as to enter into the work with an understanding of its meaning and its responsibilities.

Building the Exposition.

Today Contractor Louis C. Delagrange and a force of workmen will begin the big task of transforming the baseball park and the surrounding territory into a suitable place for the holding of the great Industrial exposition. Mr. Delagrange's work will consist of the removal of long stretches of the present high-board fencing and the rebuilding of others to enclose the enlarged area; the construction of the exhibition booths, platforms, bandstands and other necessary equipment to care for the exhibits and the crowds.

A Mile and a Half of Booths.

Some idea of the magnitude of the task undertaken by the contractor may be gathered from the statement that the twenty-foot booths, if placed end to end, would stretch out to the extent of about eighteen city squares, equivalent to a mile and a half in length. With these handsomely decorated and fitted with live, sprightly exhibits—many of them showing the processes of manufacture of the goods displayed—the exposition will be a magnificent showing of Fort Wayne's place in the world of commerce, education and municipal advancement.

No Cheap Shows.

To the detriment of the welfare of the Industrial exposition, the word seems to have gone forward to the effect that carnival shows are to be a feature of the exposition. Such is exactly the opposite of the truth. The following assertion, which the Indiana Historical Commission is circulating throughout the state, is proof of the falsity of the thought:

"'Remember one thing! The Centennial celebration is no carnival.' This timely admonition from Chairman E. C. Miller, of Allen county, anent the approaching Fort Wayne celebration, should be taken as a keynote throughout the state. In reference to insistent promoters of cheap shows, he says: 'These clamoring would-be invaders are informed that Centennial week will not be marred by the presence of anything of a cheap or tawdry nature.'".

This is the Centennial idea. One twenty-five cent admission ticket takes the spectator into the exposition grounds and there he sees not only this mile-and-a-half of splendid Fort Wayne exhibits, but there is provided a large number of the highest-grade outdoor circus attractions. The association selects these acts themselves. The people who come to present them are paid by the association to put on the entertainment. The entertainments will be selected by representatives who will go directly to the concession people and make their choice after assuring themselves of the excellence of the attractions.

CHAMPION JERSEY IS DEAD.

Franklin, Pa., May 1.—"Passport," champion Jersey milker of the United States, owned by former Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, is dead here. Her record was 19,694.8 pounds of milk a year.

COMMITTEES NAMED FOR TENT MEETINGS

Rev. J. A. Nipper Speaks at [illegible] Men's Christian League.

At a men's mass meeting at the First Baptist church, Sunday afternoon, a large number of committees were named and other arrangements were made for a series of union tent meetings to be held here the latter part of June and the first of July, on the site of the Lyon tabernacle, northwest corner of Ewing and Main streets.

The following committees were named: On place, E. A. K. Hackett, chairman; C. H. Worden, Prof. F. M. Price, S. F. Bowser and James Menefee; on equipment, Charles Easley, chairman; Theodore Mann, Frank Poole, J. O. Brown and E. M. Osborn; publicity, Robert Bradley, chairman; F. Y. Gross, E. H. Clifford, Roy Woodhal and J. W. Bair; finance, Clinton R. Willson, chairman; Robert Bradley, sr., J. B. Mills, F. W. Miles and J. M. Thiebolt; delegations, E. H. Hughes, chairman, to fill his own committee; ushers, W. N. Ballou, Geo. Meiers, Earl Ege, M. J. Bacheldor and Fred Duryea.

The general committee for the meetings is composed of Rev. O. E. Tomes, chairman; Rev. J. A. Nipper, W. N. Ballou and C. J. Hutchinson. Fred Todd is chairman of the committee on arrangements for a flying squadron to be named to announce the meetings in every church, Men's Bible classes and Young People's societies from now on until June.

Rev. Nipper Speaks.

Rev. O. E. Tomes told of the purpose of the union revivals and was followed by Rev. J. A. Nipper, the principal speaker of the afternoon.

Rev. Nipper spoke on "Fort Wayne's Greatest Need." His text was "Jesus Entering Jerusalem." Mark xi:11. He declared that the greatest need of every city is to be in a good spiritual condition.

"When the Men's Christian League was organized it was to do a two-fold work, religious and civic, and we have shown our power along civic lines, and one thing we must not do, and that is to be a lopsided-organization; we must do something to show our power along spiritual lines; we must be constructive as well as destructive," he said.

"When Jesus entered Jerusalem, He was that city's greatest need, which is also true of this city," he continued. "If we, as a form of nature, will obey and will make Him the center of attraction, and will make a sacrifice, Jesus will make a successful entry into our city whether the weather is hot or not, as it is up to us to regulate the temperature of this meeting," he said.

The speaker told of two procession records in Luke; one a procession of death, and the other a procession of life, which is in connection with the young man that died within the gates of the city of Nain and told how Jesus represented the procession of life, and the man the procession of death, and that when life came in contact with death, death was made alive, and said that the Men's Christian League was that procession of life, and should go out next June to meet the procession of death, speaking of those that were dead in trespass and sin, and that if they, as a form of nature, would obey and make sacrifice and make Him the center of attraction, could be that procession of life, and by coming in touch with the procession of death, could make those that were dead in trespass and sin alive in Christ.

TRIBUTE PAID TO DECEASED MEMBERS

Memorial Services Are Held by Local Order of Moose, Sunday.

Fitting tribute was paid Sunday afternoon to deceased members at the annual memorial services held by Fort Wayne lodge, No. 200, Loyal Order of Moose, in the auditorium of the new home at Wayne and Webster streets. Dictator James E. Ford, after opening the lodge in full form turned the meeting over to the degree team, of which James A. Majors is captain. The members of the degree team were seated in a semi-circle in front of the dictator's station and as the names of the deceased members were read by Secretary David C. Stout, members of the team left their seats and approached the altar, dropping carnations upon the holy bible and then took seats in different parts of the lodge room, leaving the chairs vacant. A. M. Groves delivered the address eulogizing the deceased brothers, and Harry H. Hilgemann the general eulogy.

K. of C.'s at Decatur.

Forty-seven candidates were given the three degrees at the joint initiation of candidates from Decatur and Huntington councils at the former place, Sunday. Fort Wayne Knights made the trip on a special interurban car. The second degree was conferred by the Fort Wayne team under the direction of Deputy Grand Knight C. Byron Hayes, and the third degree by District Reputy Stephan A. Callahan and staff, of this city. Members of the order were present from all the surrounding towns.

Lodge Notes.

The Northern Indiana Fraternal congress of the Tribe of Ben Hur will be held at Kendallville Wednesday and Thursday, May 3 and 4.

The Mooseheart legion initiated a class of candidates at the new Moose hall Saturday evening.

The Odd Fellows of Fort Wayne celebrated the ninety-seventh anniversary of the founding of the order in this country Saturday evening in the hall of Fort Wayne lodge, No. 14, at Wayne and Calhoun streets.

Fifty-one candidates were initiated Saturday evening as members of Wayne council, No. 57, Junior order, United American Mechanics. The work was given by the degree team from the Marion council.

Delegates to the state convention to be held at Evansville, May 9-11, will be named this evening at a meeting of Charles A. Zollinger camp, No. 36, United Spanish War veterans, which will be held at the office of Adjutant W. C. Cleary, 1519 Calhoun street.

RURODE'S FASHION LETTER

WORTH READING

NEW YORK has broken forth in the most extraordinary eruption of shoes! Any bright spring matinee day, on Fifth avenue about the luncheon hour is the best vantage point in time and location to observe it—and it demands to be seen! High shoes, low shoes, pumps and spats, white shoes, yellow shoes, biege shoes, brown shoes, tan shoes, black shoes, pale gray and drab shoes—shoes of every conceivable combination and shade of kid, but chiefly shoes of white and light shades.

And it is not a local eruption. It is an all-American showing of rather wide extent, for New York has a sample of every section of the country just now—a city packed, jammed with people from everywhere. For Americans are all in America this year, and flocking North from the Southern resorts. Any day, now, is Fifth avenue's "At Home" day, where you can see the Fifth avenue throng at its smartest, most typical and bewildering best.

Distracting thoughts arise within me when I gaze upon this eruption of shoes and consider, as every woman shopper must, whitherward are we rushing in this gallant charge of extravagantly-clad feet. Because all this smart footgear of the season is costing tremendously. Shoes have gone up in every particular—in importance to a woman's toilet with the fashion in short skirts, in height of cut to meet the short skirts, and in price as the result of the extreme rise in the price of leather.

Speaking of how much it is costing this season for women's clothes, do you realize why you had to pay so much more for your spring suit? Think of the yardage of the smart new skirts! Then do a little sum in arithmetic, multiplying the increased price of dress goods by the increased yardage required for the new styles, and you have the answer!

And, to speak of the styles, according to the custom of dressmakers madame has finally insisted on her waistline, and the custom dressmakers are dressing women of all ages with due regard to the natural curves of the figure, the waistlines being indicated with adorable girdles.

The stylish curve of the season, as shown by the high-class custom made clothes, is admirably illustrated in the new Redfern corset models. I find my own new Redfern delightful, so much more comfortable than the old slip-shod styles, it supports so snugly and nicely, yet gives so readily to every move I make.

This is a season of silks, and although the cold weather has been loath to release any of the latest spring suits to a shivering public yet a proportion of the new taffeta and black satin suits have been seen abroad. The cloth suits made an earlier appearance, and if anything is to be noted not heretofore set down, it is that the flare of the hips in the new plain-tailored models is seen everywhere and is the one most conspicuous difference between last season's spring suits and those of 1916.

Taffeta and soft silks, plaid and printed, appear in the new dress, with much Georgette crepe combined, and the hips are emphasized by much fullness or trimming features. The skirts are very voluminous and puffy, and the quaint pinked ruchings and shirrings and smockings and little rufflings take one back to grandmother's leisurely days when there was time for the setting of many stitches. Today—Tra, la, la! That's what you pay for in those darling little frocks from the Fifth avenue shops—increased cost of material, increased yardage of the new styles, plus the setting of many stitches—labor.

These be parlous days for the shopper!

But there are the loveliest things to be seen in the shops that you actually can't resist; some of the new silks, for instance. The smart, handsome gros grain with satin coin spots as big as a dollar, in plain, smart colors, is the very latest appeal.

And the blouses that are so very porky and stylish and cost more than a frock—some of them—especially the new Russian blouses in silk and the jaunty little coatees! The new stand-away neck effect which Paris thinks so charming and is putting into so many models is not extending to the blouses to any extent, though you see ever so many very extreme ideas along that line in the dresses.

The prettiest idea in neckwear for wear with handsome blouses is straight from Paris and is sold at the jewelry counter. It is a little cravat of velvet, satin or moire, with a band around the neck, the knot and ends of the six-inch four-in-hand beaded with silver or cut steel or decorated with a filigree. And there is a new girdle which is merly a chain of Chinese beads connected with silver links.

Millinery runs to sport hats in gorgeous and conspicuous colors and designs to match the awning-stripe skirts and the silk sweaters—some of it in rose-colored straw hand painted in stripes or flowers, and some of it bright orange and of satin, to select two startling types—or to the most sombre of shiny black tailored hats of Lisere or Milan straw with stiff little bows or rosettes or cockades of ribbon or some bit of feather novelty very nifty and severe. Half of the new hats are big brimmy sailors, sometimes turned up a bit on one side, and the other half are toques and helmets, close shapes that loom right up into the air with a very wide, stiff ribbon fluted or ruffled or plaited into a standing flange of black trimming on one side or all around. The modifications show an increasing use of flowers covering the crown of the hat or little tufts of ostrich stuck askew here and there on the brim of an otherwise severely plain rolled shape of stiff straw.

And the new circular veils, the pattern designed from the center out and with a border, are the final touch of elegance to the millinery. And expensive! The hat is a mere item compared to the veil.

The brain of woman could not have conceived a season ago the infinite variety of uses to which ribbon has been put in the spring fashions. Evening gowns, in many cases, are no more than a few yards of wide ribbon and a few yards of lace combined with three or four ounces of silver sequins. And some of the prettiest blouses and afternoon frocks are literally made of ribbon. But it is the use of ribbon in trimming hats, in neckwear, and in the unconsidered trifles that complete the toilet that there is an amazing ingenuity shown.

Eighteenth century fans and lognons and vaporish vanities are coming to tea at the Plaza via the twentieth century limousines, and shops are showing them in a profusion of exquisite fancies that need fear no duplication in cheaper styles.

The very latest loveliness is colored neckwear—but before it is quite a fashion it has become a notorious popularity!

Yours faithfully,

New York, April 29, 1916. ANNE HEATON CHANNING

In the latter city Mrs. Thieme and son will meet Mr. Thieme and nephew, Ralph Thieme, on their return from a business trip to the West Indies.

A party of ten young women who dined at the Wayne hotel on Sunday evening and afterwards entertained themselves at the New Palace theater were Misses Loretta Fletcher, Louise Glusenkamp, Cecilia Oddou, Emma Lade, Cecelia Creahan, Della and Edith Heck, Mamie and Hattie Wild and Bess Stouffer. The young women have been bowling a series of games in the alleys at St. Paul's Lutheran school hall and the losers were hosts.

Miss Florence Lang's recital on a week from tomorrow is interesting many people aside from her personal friends, as they are anxious to see what her long study in Chicago has done for her. Miss Lang is quite confident of her ability as she spent many months during the first of her Chicago lessons learning how to breathe and how to "place" her voice. To teh astonishment of Miss Lang's friends and somewhat to her own, her voice, which had been apparently a pure contralto in timbre and range, developed into a soprano of the dramatic type.

A pretty birthday party on Saturday afternoon was Miss Winona Yohannan's at her home, 1306 Fisher street. There were eighteen girl friends and they had all the popular things for a party such as a cake, ice cream and even more substantial dainties. Games were played and when each guest departed she had a basket of candy that had been given as a favor. The children were Thelma Dailey, Helen Howison, Gladys Lurch, Lucile Myers, Valette Strader, Hazel Velvick, Maria Dill, Burnell Bennett, Lottie Digman, Thelma Long, Ila Menefee, Menetta Smethers, Ruth Shrider, Florence and Eleanor Bruns, Ruth Wagoner and Freda Gerdom.

The musicale and masquerade party held on Saturday afternoon in Minuet hall by the Minuet club and students of Prof. Marcels Thompson, was a great success. Two young students who played were Lloyd Grosvenor and Russell Cooper. More advanced piano pupils were Miss Hortense Grimme, who played the C sharp impromptu by Chopin, and a concert etude by MacDowell, and Miss Hilda Dibble, whose numbers were the D flat waltz, by Weniawski, and an air de ballet by Moszkowski. Leslie Popp, accompanied by F. C. Church, sang. After the musical program Mr. Trier took charge of a dance program that lasted an hour. Games, roses for favors, refreshments were other pleasures of the afternoon.

Miss Helen Guth entertained a number of her friends Saturday evening at her home. Progressive bunco furnished the chief diversion of the company during the evening. At a late hour delicious refreshments were served. Music was furnished by Miss Eathland Sannel and Carl Kierspy. Prizes at progressive bunco were won by Mrs. John Swaidner, Miss Bertha Trautman and Messrs. Fred Einseidel and Edward Ream. Those who participated in the good time were Misses Selma Bleich, Louise West, Esther Degitz, Virginia Rogers, Bertha Trautman, Ida Trautman, Eathland Sannel, Osely Dellinger, Helen Weikert, Helen Einseidel, Messrs. Charles Beck, Fred West, Alfred Schelper, Gamer Marschner, Andrew Einseidel, Carl Kierspy, Hugh Bleich, Fred Einseidel, Edward Ream and Mr. and Mrs. John Swaidner and Mrs. H. Klinger.

Sollberger—Stauffer.

A wedding of Saturday, April 29, took place at the home of Mr. Claude Geddys, when Miss Velda Stauffer, daughter of Mr. Daniel Stauffer, who lives near New Haven, and Mr. Fred Sollberger, son of Mr. John Sollberger, a farmer near Woodburn, were married at 6 o'clock. The wedding dinner was served on Sunday at the home of the bride's parents.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Success Is Spelled 'Hard Work,'" Says Arleen Hackett.

William Faversham, who will be seen at the Majestic Tuesday evening in his new play, "The Hawk," is surrounded by a splendid company, with Miss Arleen Hackett as leading woman. Miss Hackett comes from the Puritans of Cape Cod, went into lyceum work and then upon the stage with the Henry W. Savage Opera company. Following this she had a long course in stock companies through which she played a great variety of roles.

"I have come to the conclusion," said Miss Hackett recently, "that the secret of success in any walk in life is hard work. With me it has been work, work, work, ever since I began to earn my own living. I have seen girls come and go in the theatrical business. Some of those who came stayed, but they were the ones who were willing to work, work and then work some more. The other sort—those who were looking for an easy way to earn a living—seldom lasted over two seasons; occasionally they would be seen for three and then they would disappear."

"Any Man's Sister" Is a Special Play for the Ladies.

Modern melodrama, as exciting and as full of life and action as that which held the attention of the public some years ago, is coming back again, but not with its old crudeness and baldness. The modern melodrama is thrilling, but it is not impossible. It is truer to life, and its characters are more vividly drawn. A specimen of the new idea in this sphere of amusements will be seen at the Majestic for three days starting Thursday, when "Any Man's Sister" will be offered with Blossom Baird at the head of a select company. This play is in four acts, and the fads and foibles of the present day are shown as in a mirror. There is not a dull or prosaic moment in the four acts, and the story is spiced with excellent humor.

TAKES BIRTHDAY CAKE TO SCHOOL AND CELEBRATES WITH CLASS

Robert Gardner, of the Jefferson kindergarten, brought a big cake to school Monday morning and announced that he would have a party for the children in his room. The Sentinel camera man flashlighted the kiddies as they were at the table. In the group are Dorothy Swaidner, Janet Bauer, Mildred Piquinot, Clara Cramer, Arthur Wellman, Sally Niezer, Junior Drayer, Robert Gardner, Victor Yergens, James North, Ruth Grage, Florence Koegel, Nick Tosconi, Gertrude Keberle, Janet Michaelson, Clifford Knepper, Bonnie Miller, Mildred Beyerlein, James Heit, Paul Auman, Lena Johnson, William Lotz, Fred Buhiman, Ted Erick, George Saal, Loren Schranz, Richard O'Dowd, Joseph Gribbens, George Seemeyer, Dolores Langhor, Alberta Horn, Marian Henry, James Wilmoth, Robert Christen, Raymond Chadwick, Emma Averill, George Tomes, Jack Weil, Elroy Ramsey, Mildred Butts, Dorothy Gifford, Jack Kith, Marjory Hobrock and Glen Yagerlahner.

AT KEITH PALACE

A NIGHT IN THE PARK.

A Clever Idea in Staging Singing Act at Palace.

With a great fountain throwing a big spray of real water, occupying the center of the stage, the singing skit, "A Night in the Park," at the New Palace is given a scenic investiture that is decidedly pleasing to the eye. A male quartet with the assistance of a girl render a half dozen popular airs, indulge in some comedy pranks and close with a nifty idea in which a girl rolls a huge white ball over the top of the fountain and seemingly is lifted by the power of the water several feet in the air. It is a master stage picture.

Senator Francis Murphy's comical political speech, built along the lines of a Dooley discourse translated into germanized English, is another riot of fun on this bill. Miss Grace Ayres and her midget partner execute a score of difficult and graceful roller skating feats as an opening number. Wilson and Wilson, a team of dusky darkies, are presenting a merry bit of African comedy, entitled "The Bandman and the Band." One of these does a neat turn in his imitation of a camp meeting exhorter. The Ching Wung Wha troupe of Chinese magicians, tumblers and balancers have some mystifying stunts. One of them eats a half dozen burning paper tapers and then swallows a lighted candle and several bundles of cotton, finally pulling reams of paper out of his mouth between exhalations of blue smoke.

AT THE EMPRESS

"BOSS OF THE RANCH."

Temple Players Today and Tomorrow at Empress Theater.

A typical western melodrama, "The Boss of the Ranch," will be the offering of the Temple players for the first half of the week, and will be seen tonight and at two performances tomorrow at the Empress theater. The troupe will move back to their own stage Wednesday night, but three splendid shows of "The Boss of the Ranch" will be given at the Empress during the two days interim, with matinee and reception tomorrow.

The action of the play takes place on an Arizona ranch with cow boys, Mexicans and frontier characters represented in the cast. Miss Olive Blakeney, as Florence Curtis, the boss of Bar Z ranch, has the leading female role, which she plays admirably. Miss Ethel Hamerick, as Madge, little sister of Frank Marvel, the ranch foreman, has a part especially adapted to her vivacity and winsomeness. Miss Zula Ellesworth, as Arabella Marshall, and Maurice Jenkins, as Doc Rye, a cow puncher, convulse the audiences with their love-making. Fred Ford has been cast for Richard Huntley, a cattle thief operating under the guise of respectability, while Moque, a Mexican, treacherous and a tool of Huntley, is played by Charles K. Franklyn. The scenes portray the front yard and kitchen of the ranch, and are especially staged for the cattle country. The drama is wholesome and of a type of the west that is not overdrawn. It is one of the best played in stock at popular prices and Fort Wayne theatergoers are assured that the Temple players at the Empress today and tomorrow and present a show worth while.

AT THE TEMPLE.

ELMENDORF TRAVELOGUES.

Great Educational Feature at Temple for Two Days.

Beginning this afternoon with two performances at 2 and 4 o'clock, the great Elmendorf travelogue pictures, something new and entirely different, will be seen at the Temple theater for two days. The shows tonight and Tuesday night will begin at 7:15 and 9 o'clock, with two matinee performances in the afternoon. By this arrangement all classes of Fort Wayne people, large and small, will be afforded an opportunity to see the most wonderful telephotographs in color and motion pictures ever shown in this city of this character.

The topic selected is "Ceylon," which is really a visit to the other side of the world, or better still, to have the wonders of nature unfolded as though by some magic art on the screen, with the aid of camera and brush.

As an educational factor the Elmendorf hours of travel can only be really appreciated when seen and heard. The attraction comes to Fort Wayne with the enthusiastic endorsements of educators and tourists everywhere, and is the most complete and instructive method of transporting the wonders of the other side of the world in fascinating art. "Travel Without Trouble" is the slogan of the management.

A special school children's matinee has been arranged for this and tomorrow afternoons at 4 o'clock, an hour which will permit of their attendance without interfering with school attendance.

BOSTON MAN NOMINATED.

New York, May 1.—Arthur E. Reimer, of Boston, Mass., was nominated for president of the United States and Caleb Harrison, of Chicago, was nominated for vice president by the socialist labor party, in convention here last night. Both nominations were unanimous.

A resolution was passed urging employes to organize industrially "on the principles of the workers of the International Industrial union and do all in their power to show the fallacy of craft unionism as exemplified by the American Federation of Labor, which was characterized as a "mere watch-your-job-and-boost-your-pay organization."

A platform was adopted asserting that the present system of "economic inequality" is destructive to the life, liberty and happiness of the working classes, and declaring that the means of production "must be owned, operated and controlled by the people in common."

Marie Antionette had a fancy for draping her willowy figure in bunchy and rather ungraceful hip-draperies, which seem to be perfectly good reason why Miss 1916 should have her dancing frocks draped at the hips.

In borrowing fashions from the queen, Mme. Alla Ripley, noted designer, reduced the baggy puff to a graceful fullness—and the best thing about it is that it's adjustable.

When the "fan" is omitted the gown remains a simple marquisette frock with folds of taffeta flowers trimming the full skirt.

Mme. Ripley gained a striking color effect in this gown by using lavender chiffon over lavender taffeta and these are made over a foundation of blue marquisette.

Nine little children gathered at the home of Mrs. John Neuman, 450 Colerick street, Saturday afternoon in honor of the ninth birth anniversary of her son, Robert Neuman. Mrs. Neuman was assisted by Mrs. J. J. DeWald and Mrs. Ed Koenig.

SAFETY FIRST TRAIN OFF ON ITS JOURNEY

Washington, May 1.—The government "safety first" special train left today for Philadelphia, the first stopping place, on ana educational tour that will take it through all parts of the country. Twelve steel cars carried hundreds of exhibits illustrative of the methods employed by the federal government in saving human life and property both at sea and on land. All of the executive departments who dealt with this work were represented. Estimates of the numbers of killed and injured by accidents each year is placed at 75,000 and over 2,000,000, respectively. Government officials claim that the number of deaths and injuries can be cut in half through safety first methods and the object of the tour is to show this can be done.

POLICE GUARD CHICAGO PLANT.

Deering Harvester Concern Is Surrounded by Officers.

Chicago, May 1.—Police guarded the Deering plant of the International Harvester company today to prevent disorder growing out of the strike of 5,000 workers in the twine factory. The strike has been in progress a week. The company offered the strikers a nine hour day with pay for ten hours but it was refused.

GERMAN LOSSES REPORTED HEAVY

Paris, May 1.—12:01 p. m.)—German troops in dense masses made a violent attack last night on positions captured by the French north of Dead Man's hill, on the Verdun front. The attack was defeated by the French, the war office report says. The Germans, the announcement states, suffered enormous losses.

Two simultaneous counter attacks by the Germans on a trench captured yesterday by the French north of Cumieres were repulsed. At hill No. 304, and in the Vaux region there was incessant bombardments. A French aerial squadron bombarded a supply and munitions station south of Thiaucourt and a camp near Spincourt.

PROMINENT MAN IS WARM IN HIS PRAISE

Edward P. Brooks, foreman of the Horton Manufacturing Co., and a prominent Fort Wayne man who lives at 1002 St. Mary's avenue, highly recommends Tanlac, the Master Medicine, because of relief he gained through its use. Mr. Brooks said:

"I suffered from lumbago in my back, shoulder and arms and I also was in a weakened state, my system being run down by an attack of la grippe. I had pains in my shoulders, back and arms and a stiffened feeling also bothered me. I felt tired and unfit for my work most of the time. The la grippe left me in such a weakened state that I felt bad all the time. Sometimes I'd have headaches that lasted through the entire day.

"A fellow-employe recommended Tanlac and I decided to try it. I have taken about a bottle and a half of the medicine now and I feel stronger and better in every way. The lumbago pains in my shoulders, arms and back have entirely disappeared. I do not have headaches nearly as often now as before and they are not so severe.

"Tanlac has brought me out of a weak and run-down condition and, therefore, I want to recommend it."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, sleeplessness and the like and is fine for relieving the after effects of hard coughs, colds, la grippe, pneumonia and the like.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Wayne and Calhoun streets store of the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun, and Broadway adn Taylor.—Advertisement.

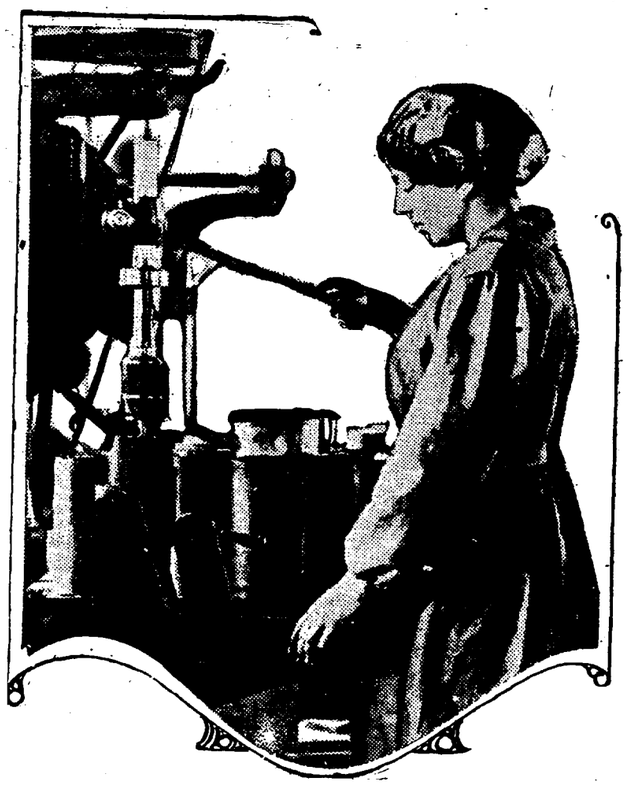
Hammer Eclipses the Sword in Battle for Preparedness

Nation's Industry to Be Organized on Warlike Basis to Make Country Able to Fight—Women May Even Be Called Upon.

WILL IT COME TO THIS?—HERE'S A WOMAN WORKING IN AN ENGLISH MUNITION FACTORY—AS MANY OF HER SISTERS ARE DOING IN LANDS ACROSS THE SEA, PROVIDING SHOT AND SHELL FOR THE FIGHTERS AT THE FRONT AND TAKING THE POSITIONS OF THE OVERTIRED WORMEN WHILE THEY REST ON SUNDAY OR AT NIGHT. WILL THE WOMEN OF THE UNITED STATES BE CALLED UPON TO SERVE IN THE FACTORIES IF THIS NATION GOES TO WAR?



New York, May 1.—Are you prepared, Mrs. Housewife, to drop your dishes after supper Saturday night and hie to the ammunition shop to put in an eight-hour day before breakfast Sunday—in case Uncle Sam goes to war?

That's just about what it would likely mean—that is what women are doing in Europe. These are the days when—

The hammer is mightier than the sword!

And from this day forth the mobilization of the pick and shovel, of the hammer and anvil, of the melting pot and retort, of the draught and blueprint, will decide wars that weapons merely fight.

Uncle Sam's great naval consulting board of experts has seen the light, and is working on plans for the enlistment of American industry should war's catastrophe fall.

Through Howard E. Coffin, auto builder and chairman of the board's committee on industrial preparedness, the warning goes out to America that America must prepare to win wars at home while her soldiers are fighting them in the field.

"No more need the workmen revolt against being cannon fodder," says Coffin, "for if we are organized industrially as we shall have to be to win a great war, the skilled worker will be too valuable to be sent to the front—the lawyers and merchants and bankers will be 'cannon fodder.'"

At the request of the naval advisory board, President Wilson has written the heads of the five national technical engineer societies—the mining, civil, mechanical, electrical and chemical engineers—asking co-operation of these bodies.

As a result each state now has a board of directors composed of five men, one from each branch of the engineering profession, and under these 48 boards are making an industrial inventory—a secret apprisal of the powers of every manufacturing plant so Uncle Sam may know just where he's potentially at.

The Commercial club of Fort Wayne and every other business organization connected with the chamber of commerce of the United States stands behind this gigantic inventory.

"The country is not 'prepared' unless it is able to support a war as well as to fight it," says Coffin.

"Three concerns make practically all the gauges and inspection tools for this country. Two of them are in the seacoast cities; all in New England. To produce 200,000 shells a day would require in this class of tools alone 17,000,000 to 20,000,000 instruments—and it would take five years to furnish this equipment!

The naval consulting board's plan is:

FIRST—To obtain and keep up to date an accurate census of the country's manufacturing plants.

SECOND—To have these plants equipped with the necessary tools and kept in practice by making a small amount of munitions each year in time of peace.

THIRD—To enlist skilled workers in the government service in the munition factories rather than at the front.

PATROLS WILL TAKE MASCOTS TO BUFFALO

Miscellaneous Assortment of Animals to Accompany the Shriners.

Buffalo, May 1.—The work of getting ready for the annual session of the imperial council of nobles of the Mystic Shrine has progressed to a stage where officers of Ismailia temple of this city which is to act as host are assured that not only will the gathering be one of great magnitude but also its stated events will be moved with smoothness and precision. George K. Staples of this city, general chairman of the convention committee, predicted today that upwards of 100,000 visitors will be attracted by the convention. Most of these will be nobles and their wives and families, coming from the 139 temples of this country, Canada and Mexico.

Everything in connection with the Shrine annual meeting looms big in figures. The attendance will bring a multitude of people together. The uniformed patrols with their bands will make a creditable army, nearly 5,000 uniformed men and almost as many bandsmen. The sums that will be spent by visiting delegations on their special train equipment, traveling expenses and other outlays will run into the millions. Buffalo will disburse a $100,000 entertainment fund. One San Francisco temple is spending $75,000 on a special train journey. The Chicago temple will lease the largest passenger steamer on the Great Lakes for the trip to Buffalo, quarters while here and the return trip. The boat and supplies is to cost it $40,000. Other temples from various parts of North America have equally elaborate plans for the 1916 pilgrimage.

Many patrols will bring mascots with them. One from the desert region of the southwest will have a flock of camels. That from El Paso, Texas, will bring 100 burros. If shriners from El Paso can be prevailed upon to do so they will ride the burros in the big parade of the session, in which, it is estimated, anywhere from 20,000 to 50,000 Shriners will participate. A Calgary temple has secured a buffalo from one of the few remaining herds, which happens to be owned in that locality. It will be presented to the Buffalo zoo when the convention is over. Representatives from the Shrine temple at Honolulu will bring some animal typical of the Hawaiin Islands. They have written that it will be one suitable for the ceremonial sessions of Ismailia temple of Buffalo and will be donated to it, but that it isn't a goat.

The imperial council session will be held July 11, 12 and 13. Most of the hotel space in Buffalo and at Niagara Falls, which is a suburb conveniently reached, has been leased by agents for visiting temples. General Chairman Staples and Potentate John T. Claris of the Buffalo shrine, however, have found that there is always room for one more and are continuing to book accommodations for visitors.

"TIZ" FOR SORE, TIRED FEET--AH!

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen, aching, tender, sweaty feet. No more soreness in corns, callouses, bunions.

No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "Tiz." "Tiz" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "Tiz" cures your foot trouble so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never, hurt or get sore and swollen. Think of it, no more foot misery, no more agony from corns, callouses or bunions.

Get a 25-cent box at any drug store or department store and get instant relief. Wear smaller shoes. Just once try "Tiz." Get a whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents. Think of it.—Advertisement.

SPENCERVILLE NEWS.

Spencerville, Ind., May 1.—On Thursday evening, April 27, at 6 o'clock, the commodious home of Mrs. Cora Steward was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Mr. Roscoe G. Walter and Miss Jennie L. J. Steward were united in marriage by the Rev. J. C. Valentine, of the Methodist Episcopal church, assisted by Rev. A. K. Mumma, of the English Lutheran church. Promptly at 6 o'clock Miss Zona Horn, from the piano, sounded forth the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march and the wedding party proceeded down the stairway to the west parlor, taking their places under a pink and white canopy. The impressive ring service was used, little Ercil Steward, son of William P. Steward, and nephew of the bride, dressed in white, carrying the ring. Mr. William P. Steward gave the bride away. Miss Hazel Steward, cousin of the bride, was a very charming bridesmaid in pink. Mr. Henry Walter, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride, who is a pretty girl with dark hair, looked most beautiful in a flesh colored gown of crepe de chine, georgette crepe and silver and carried a large bouquet of pink and white roses. After congratulations, an elegant three course supper was served in the dining room to sixty guests. At the bride's table, with its huge white bridal cake and radiating pink ribbons, were seated, besides the bridal party, Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Valentine and Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Mumma. When the bride threw her bouquet Miss Hazel Steward was the fortunate young lady. The groom, who has for several years been a successful teacher in the Harlan school, is now manager of the Steward oil interests of Laporte, Ind., where he has a bungalow waiting for his bride. The bride has for six years taught the primary grades of the Spencerville school with marked efficiency. The bride was a member of the M. E. church and Sunday school and the groom was the superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday school and a member of the Lutheran church.

NEVER TOUCHED IRVIN.

Chicago Boy of 9 Qualifies for Charmed Life Class.

Chicago, May 1.—When Irvin Bunke, 9, 92 Center street, departs this life it probably will be because nine automobiles and twelve freight trains ran over him and he was hit by lightning. Irvin was on his way home when he fell in front of a Halsted street car. Scores of pedestrians and persons waiting for cars saw the car pass over the boy's body. While the motorman was wringing his hands and the crowd was still gasping and waiting for the fire department, ambulance corps, and patrol wagon to come and lift the car off the mangled remains of the boy a couple of men crawled under the car and pulled Irvin out. Except for a slight bump on his head he was O. K.

Excitement and interest without parallel continue to feature the grand automobile campaign of The Fort Wayne Sentinel, and as each day brings us nearer and nearer the close, the excitement increases in proportion. Throughout the city of Fort Wayne and surrounding territory earnest and ambitious young women enrolled as candidates are eagerly pursuing votes and subscriptions, which, added to their total votes, will bring them still closer to victory. Victory—which means the possession of one of the handsome automobiles and other handsome prizes which will be awarded by this paper to those who have shown themselves entitled to them. Every prize is being eagerly sought by some candidate. To many, of course, the prospect of winning one of the four luxurious automobiles is the big thing of their lives, and they are not going to allow a single thing that will add to their chances of winning it to be overlooked.

With others, it is the $100 diamond ring. These handsome awards have their own circle of admirers, and these young women have fully determined that nothing but one of these beautiful rings will make them happy. Handsome stones, specially mounted in the Tiffany settings, they are prizes worth every bit of effort that will be put forth in their securing—worth far more effort than could possibly be exerted in winning them. These beautiful rings have been purchased and are now on display in well known local jewelry stones, where they can be seen by the candidates and their friends.

Beautiful are the $75 upright phonographs that will add so much to the sum total of their happiness, and these instruments surely will mean unlimited pleasure and enjoyment to those who win them. No home is complete without a phonograph, and when such a prize as those we are going to award is offered for a little pleasant effort on your part you should allow no stone to remain unturned that will make you more certain of winning one. In addition to the above named prizes, a ten per cent commission will be paid to non-winners on all new subscription money turned in by themselves.

Every candidate entered has four chances to win one of the handsome automobiles—the Paige "Fairfield Six" 1916 Model touring car, the Overland "Six" 1916 Model touring car, the Saxon "Six" 1916 Model and the Pullman 1916 Model. The four candidates polling the hghest number of votes, regardless of district, will be awarded the four automobiles.

But seven weeks yet remain of the contest, and every moment is rapidly growing in importance. Before long it will be too late to do the effective work. If you really desire and appreciate one of these awards, NOW IS THE TIME TO SHOW YOUR EARNESTNESS! Canvass your section thoroughly and do not allow a single subscription to escape you. It might be just the one you neglect to secure now that will turn your hopes of victory into defeat, but by making each minute of your work bring you its full value of votes you will make certain you have done everything possible to cause victory to perch upon your banner.

A very important thing for every candidate to remember now is the special offer. To each and every candidate who secures and turns in $25 in new subscription between the dates of April 25 and May 10 a SPECIAL EXTRA BALLOT OF 100,000 VOTES will be given, in addition to the votes they will secure on the subscriptions themselves. Extra vote ballots will be issued after the offer closes and sent to the candidates by mail direct and may be voted at any time during the campaign.

CAMPAIGN GINGER.

Hustle, plus votes, equals a Sentinel automobile. It adds pleasure, divides time, subtracts commonplaces of life and multiplies your friends.

Have you noticed how many votes a year's subscription will bring?

Use the "First Subscription Coupon" when you get your first subscriber. It is good for 15,000 extra votes.

"Why so many automobiles?" asked a fair candidate yesterday. "I can't for the life of me decide which one I wanted most."

People help those who help themselves.

The Contest Department telephone number is 173. When in doubt ring us up.

It is easier to ask questions than to correct mistakes.

"Where do you live?" was asked a business man the other day.

B. M., (whose daughter is a Sentinel candidate) absent mindedly, "In District Four."

The date on the free coupon changes each day. Be sure they are in before they expire.

Helps Uncle Sam Find Employment for Needy Women

Mrs. Pauline E. Barfield, who is helping Uncle Sam find jobs for women and girl workers. She is at the head of a newly created bureau in San Francisco, dealing entirely with feminine unemployed, one phase of the proposed reorganization throughout the country of the Federal Free Employment Bureau by Commissioner-General of Immigration Caminetti.

Mrs. Barfield has charge of the employment of women through the bureau in a zone covering the northern district of California. She has been in federal service six years and was formerly a clerk in the department of commerce at Washington.

The establishment of similar bureaus in 17 yarge cities of the United States is indicated by general instructions from Commissioner Caminetti. It is a move on the part of the government to make the lot of working women a little easier and freer from the designs of unscrupulous employment agents.

WILL MEAN IMMENSE SAVING.

Discovery of Much Importance to Steel Manufacturers.

Pittsburg, May 1.—A process for extracting ferro alloys of manganese and silica from slag which it is claimed will resul tin an immense saving to steel manufacturers has been discovered by George A. Hayes, Zwickley, Pa., and George D. Lain, of Elmira, N. Y., students at the Carnegie institute of technicology. Ferro manganese and silica are essential elements in the manufacture of steel but since the start of the European war both have greatly advanced in price, the former from $75 to $400 a ton.

WILL LAST SIX MONTHS.

Newark, N. J., Begins Celebration of 250th Anniversary.

Newark, N. J., May 1.—Six months' celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of this city by Robert Treat in 1666 began today with the ringing of bells, blasts from all the whistles in the city, the firing of guns and a military parade. Formal ceremonies with addresses by the governor and mayor will be held this afternoon, and a musical festival will begin tonight. Arrangements have been made for thirty-five parades to be held before October in connection with various conventions.

WILL CONTINUE TUESDAY.

Bazar Given by Turner Ladies for German Red Cross Great Success.

The bazar given under the auspices of the committee of ladies from the various German societies at the Turner hall will continue over Tuesday. The money and other donations are for the benefit of the German and Austrian war sufferers and the response has been most generous. Nearly two thousand visitors attended the bazar on Sunday afternoon and evening. Over one hundred were the guests of the bazar committee for dinner and over five hundred ate supper at the Turner hall, nearly three hundred being turned away owing to lack of space.

It was again necessary to operate the Pennsylvania freight house Sunday. The preceding Sunday the warehouse was closed, but for the nine Sundays before that one it was in operation.

Inventor Offers Services Free to All Unable to Pay

Guido, Blenio, inventor, manufacturer, chemist, gold medal winner for fire-proofing processes; who made the San Francisco fair safe from flames; who says that California has untold deposits of minerals of incalculable value, offers to test and analyze ores for any man unable to pay an assayer's fee.

"I want to see the great deposits of minerals, which lie in large bodies in the southeastern part of California especially, developed and put to commercial use. I want to see new industries built up and the field for labor broadened. I want to see factories established, men at work, happy homes. I am more than willing to do my share."

Guido Blenio is a man of international reputation, having won highest award at every world's exposition for his method of fire-proofing. He is a contributor to magazines and a naturalized citizen who believes firmly in "America first—and last."

FEMININE FRILLS—IMPORTANT
Concerning the Accessories of Fashion for Summer, 1916.

What is it that gives one costume the subtle air of being complete to the last turn?

And what does that other lack that leaves it cold to the observer's eye?

Just those delightful feminine frills and fantasies which we can all do without—but which are the "breath of life" to the woman who knows how they weave smartness, illusion, mystery, if you like, into the simplest or most elaborate of costumes.

There is an exquisite little showing of these "accessories after the fashion" in a really marvelous completeness and variety, displayed at divers places in the store.

There'll Be Lace or Embroidery on Every White Frock This Summer

Fashion says the Summer gown must be lace trimmed. Lace edged ruffles and lace flounces will be much in evidence, following the quaint styles of years ago.

And embroideries, in their sheer daintiness, will be equally popular. Many new novelties are now being shown, both in all-white and delicate colored effects.

This May White Sale offers wonderful opportunities for buying these exquisite laces and embroideries at unusual savings.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

BOWSER EMPLOYES GET HANDSOME INCREASE

Fifty Hours Weekly Work Schedule and Increase of 7½ Per Cent.

An increase in wages of 7½ per cent recently granted the empioyes of the Bowser Oil Tank works will become effective today, simultaneously with the inauguration of a fifty hour per week schedule decided upon following a vote taken among the empioyes of the concern.

The Bowser company have a co-operative plan among their help, whereby each month every shop employe of the company receives a dividend according to the total efficiency rendered in work well and intelligently done. This dividend accrues from this good service which has served to greatly reduce the number of complaints from the purchaser of the Bowser goods, which saves the company a great deal of annoyance and expense. This dividend is not a part of the salary, but an addition to it.

Since this new plan has been adopted the employes have a congress, senate and cabinet, after the fashion of the United States government, whereby all of the employes, from the man who pushes the wheelbarrow to the factory manager has a say through the vote of his brother workman, who is his representative or congressman, as to what he wants and does not want.

The congress is composed of 42 representatives, and the senate has 42 members. The cabinet is composed of the executive officers of the company.

Each of these bodies have a meeting once a week, and are working out some splendid things for the betterment of their conditions, having, as they have, the hearty co-operation of the firm they can bring about some important results. One of the things recently started by them, in addition to a sick and accident benefit fund, which they now have, is a $1,000 insurance for each employe, and an old age pension fund, which has the hearty endorsement of the Bowser company, who have officially informed this body that as soon as they have their plans perfected and are ready for business, that S. F. Bowser & Company would contribute $10,000 to their treasurer to start off with, thus putting the insurance and old age plan in full swing from the very start.

This is looked upon as a great encouragement to the employes in getting a home, and after it is partly paid for, should anything overtake the husband, the insurance will enable his wife to secure the home to herself, and all of her husband's hard earnings and endeavors in this direction will not be lost, thus the employes greatly appreciate this move, and the hearty co-operation that it is receiving from the firm. And other things along this same line will be worked out that will be beneficial to all the employes.

The Bowser company has been in operation for 31 years this spring, and no firm in the state of Indiana has furnished their employes with steadier work than has the Bowser company, and but few firms have the reputation of treating their help as well as the Bowser company, and with it they pay wages that will compare favorably with any concern in this part of the country. Therefore, any building up that the men may do along any line of betterment is upon an enduring foundation and will be an effort to their own advantage, and will not be hindered by running short of work, reduction of force, laying off, and so on, as the Bowser company in the future expects, if anything, to be more aggressive than they ever have been heretofore.

PENNSY PENSION LIST.

Receives Fifty-three Recruits During Month of April.

"Information," the news pamphlet issued by the publication department of the Pennsylvania, under date of April 29, contained a fine picture of Albert G. Estry, the retired Western division passenger conductor, and a brief record of his remarkable record. "Information" also stated that during the month of April thirty-nine old employes east of Pittsburg and thirteen on the lines west were placed on the "honor roll," as the pension list is called. Mr. Estry was the only one from the Western division. Six of the pensioners worked more than a half century each, their combined services footing up more than 305 years. There are now on the roll of honor of the Pennsylvania 4,567 men and women. Since January, 1900, when the system was established, more than $12,600,000 were paid to pensioners.

AN OLD-TIME PAPER.

Engine Performance Sheet of Thirty-Eight Years Ago.

A relic of old times on the Pennsylvania is an engine performance sheet during the month of March, 1869, received at the office of T. W. Demarest, superintendent of motive power, this morning. The sheet told of the performance of engine 196, which was probably one of the best of her day, which durin gthe month consumed 8,700 cords of wood in her travels over the line between Crestline and Chicago. On the maragin of the sheet were the names of all of the engineers on the road at that time. The list contained the names of a number of well known engineers who have been dead some years. Other names were of men now living, but on the retired list.

GEORGE FEUCHTER RESIGNS.

George Feuchter, who was serving his third term as president of the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen union, resigned at the last meeting, owing to the press of business which would not admit of the attention the office demanded. H. F. Schwartz, the past president, was elected as Mr. Feuchter's successor.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Smith were guests of relatives at Green Springs, O., yesterday. Mr. Smith is chief clerk to Nickel Plate Supt. W. N. Williams.

Labor union people anticipate a big meeting here May 30, when Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, will be present and deliver an address. Plans are also under way to have another prominent labor leader present at the meeting.

REMEMBERED RETIRING FOREMAN

As he was about to leave the shops for his home Saturday, Fred S. Zurbick was surrounded by the men at the east car shops, while one of their number speaking in behalf of all presented him with a beautiful stick pin and an umbrella. Today Mr. Zurbick assumed the duties of foreman of the refrigerator department of the Pennsylvania shops at Chicago, a nice promotion which carried with it a handsome increase of salary. Mr. Zurbick was employed at the east car shops ten years, the past three in the capacity of assistant foreman. He is regarded a most capable employe and is popular with the men with whom he is associated.

TRAVEL TO LAKE BEGINS.

Over 100 people, mostly fishermen, went to Rome City yesterday to spend the day on the lake, the number being the largest of the season so far. Many went to the lakes over the N. Y. C. line also, but travel to those resorts does not begin properly until next Sunday, when a new time card becomes effective. Under it the train now leaving the city for the north at 8 o'clock daily except Sunday, will become daily and will leave Sunday morning at 5 o'clock. Tickets for this traffic will be to Pleasant Lake, Angola, Fremont and Ray, near which stations are located the lakes.

NICKEL PLATE PROMOTIONS.

Four Nickel Plate men are affected by resignations and promotions which became effective Monday. The promotions are brought about by the resignation of E. B. She was walking on the tracks between streets and failed to heed the warning whistle of the engineer. The train was in charge of Conductor M. Thomas and Engineer S. O. Middleton.

Friday a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Nestel at the St. Joseph hospital. The proud father is a switchman in the Wabash yards. Mr. and Mrs. William F. Poyser, the former the foreman of the carpenter department of the Wabash shops, are the grandparents of the little one and take as much pride in her as do the parents.

The Decatur, Ill., papers Sunday published the rumor that Jesse F. Patterson, superintendent of the Peoria divisio nof the Vandalia, with headquarters in Decatur, would be promoted and transferred to the Michigan division, with headquarters at Logansport, succeeding the late Superintendent Campbell. The rumor could not be verified here.

FALLS DEAD WHILE OVER THE WASH TUB

"Will you please come over to my house? My mamma is lying on the floor and won't talk to me."

The child was out of breath and excited and Alice Harkenrider knew something was wrong. She hurried over to the home of John Landstofer, two miles east of Sheldon, and found Mrs. Landstofer, 35, cold in death. Mrs. Landstofer was doing her family washing when stricken. Her five-year-old daughter was the only person in the house at the time. The child saw her mother fall to the floor and tried to get her mother to talk to her. When she wouldn't she rushed from the house to the nearest neighbor. She was dead when found by Miss Harkenrider about 11:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Coroner J. E. McArdle and Deputy R. B. Garmire conducted an inquest Monday afternoon and found death had been due to organic heart trouble.

The services will be in charge of the Masons and Rev. S. E. Boyer will officiate. Interment at Lindenwood.

The deceased was well known in Fort Wayne. He was a civil war veteran and a member of the K. of P. and Masons. He is survived by two sons and a daughter, Charles, of Decatur, Ill.; Nathan and Ellen, of Somerset, Ky. A sister, Mrs. Cassie Sweet, of this city, also survives him.

ELEVATION PLANS ARE DUE TUESDAY

Pennsylvania Railroad is Expected in With Its Proposals.

The board of works expects that the revised plans for track elevation at Lafayette and Hanna streets will be submitted by the officials of the Pennsylvania railroad Tuesday, that being the end of the fifteen days from April 17, when the road acquiesced in the extension of time given by the board. A. O. Cunningham, chief engineer of the Wabash railroad, called on the board Monday, but imparted no information relative to his railroad's plans for elevation at the same streets.

CLEAN-UP ESSAYS COME IN.

It was expected at the office of the city health department that before Monday night not less than one hundred compositions would be submitted by school children in the competition for the prizes offered by Mrs. Josephine Nesbitt for the best essays on the clean-up campaign she is conducting in Fort Wayne. All the compositions must be submitted by Monday night and must give the best reasons for clean yards and alleys and beautified premises. A committee of newspaper men will be asked to judge the compositions and make the awards. A total of $5 dollars will be divided among the writers of the six best compositions.

PARK BOARD HEARING.

The principal business before the park board, Monday afternoon, was a hearing on the resolution for building sidewalks and grading the park strips on Rudisill boulevard from South Wayne avenue to Broadway. It was not though before the session began that there would be much objection to the improvement. The park board will accept an invitation from the Fort Wayne Shop Baseball league to ride in the big parade that will inaugurate the Shop league season next Saturday afternoon.

PLANTED IN 1842.

A pear tree planted by Johnny Appleseed, to whose memory a monument will be erected Friday in Swinney park by the Indiana Horticultural society, is still standing in the St. Joseph hospital yard and bears fruit every year.

According to Mrs. Endora Boyles, 814 West Main street, the tree was planted in 1842, at which time the property belonged to Mrs. Boyles' father, the late L. J. Ferry, which has since been acquired by the St. Joseph hospital.

SPECIAL CAR TO KOKOMO.

DEATH NOW CLAIMS WIDOW OF SUICIDE

Mrs. Fannie Seaton, whose husband, caretaker at the T. F. Thieme suburban home, committed suicide two weeks ago, died in St. Vincent's hospital, New York city, Sunday night. Mrs. Seaton, who was 52 years of age, had been a resident of Fort Wayne two years and was a fine woman who made many friends here. She was a member of the Baptist church.

It is presumed to be the critical illness of his wife that led the husband to commit suicide.

IN THE CHURCHES

OPENING OF MAY DEVOTIONS.

Solemn Services Mark the Event in Four Catholic Churches Sunday.

Solemn services marked the opening of the May devotions in four of the Catholic churches of the city Sunday. These services were held in St. Mary's, St. Paul's, Precious Blood and St. Peter's churches. The order of the services was the procession of little boys and girls, singing of the Litany of the Blessed Virgin and May day hymns in her honor, the recitation of the rosary and the act of consecration to the Mother of Jesus and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Similar services will be held at the Cathedral next Sunday evening, beginning at 7:45 o'clock. May devotions at St. Patrick's church will be held every morning after the 8 o'clock mass. At St. Hyacinth's church devotions will be held each morning during the month after the 8 o'clock mass and on Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock.

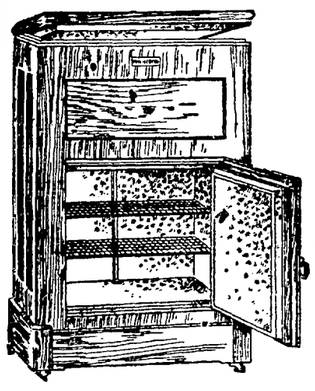
Dressers Delight the Eye and Purse

What woman is there in Fort Wayne who doesn't specify to her husband that her dresser must not only provide a fund of conveniences, but must be beautiful as well. We know that and have met those requirements to a nicety in our new spring stock. Massive beauties every one, in any wood and finish your heart could desire. Scores of models of all kinds in plain, standard patterns to harmonize with any other pieces; and many in the popular period styles that prevail in every up-to-date modern home. Look at these prices; come in and make your selection.

Why You Should Not Think Of Keeping House Without a Fox Refrigerator



HOW MUCH does your husband earn?

HOW MUCH can he afford to give you to keep house?

CAN YOU AFFORD TO waste a part of his hard earned cash? NO! of course not. Neither do you want to. BUT YOU CAN'T HELP IT if you haven't a FOX REFRIGERATOR in the house.

What you CAN SAVE by the use of a Fox Refrigerator is a BIG REASON for having one—BUT surely you would ENJOY YOUR MEALS more when you know that ALL THE FOOD which is spread before you has been taken care of in a SANITARY MANNER and that it has NO TAINT of disease brought by flies.

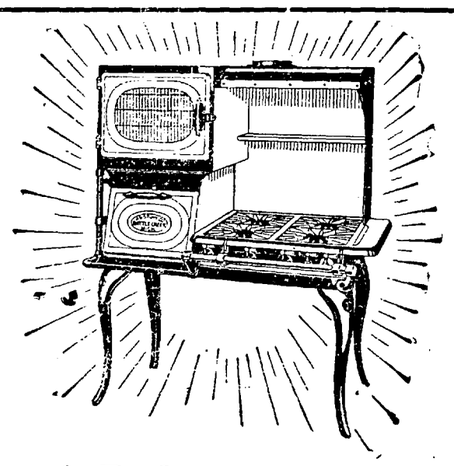
Chiffoniers that Please and Prettify

"Man wants but little here below," but he wants that little to be handy when he wants it and right where he expects to find it. That's the reason no bed room is complete without a chiffonier to care for the conveniences of the man around the house. Many women like them too for the additional room they provide for her wearables. But the chiffonier is essentially a man's piece of furniture. We have the man's viewpoint and have met it to the best of the capacity of the furniture market in chiffoniers. All sizes; all degrees of beauty; all woods; all finishes; all prices.



The A-B Gas Range Never Needs "Blacking"

The ordinary gas range looks nice while new, then the temporary finish wears off and it means a lot of hard, nasty work to black and polish the range. The A-B Gas Range has a rust-proof, permanent enamel finish that does not wear off, it looks like "new" all the time. If the stove becomes dirty simply wash it off like you would a china dish. The nickel is made with the special A-B "Always Bright" finish. This is just another of the many excellent points that make the A-B the favorite gas range. Come and inspect the entire line.

SHOP LEAGUE RUSHES PLANS FOR OPENING

SATURDAY SEES START OF FORT WAYNE INDUSTRIAL BASEBALL LEAGUE SEASON

The shop league stars on its last week of preliminary work today and Saturday afternoon starts the season with a great parade and celebration. The leaguers are holding daily meetings and are preparing to launch the season with a whoop that will be heard in every corner of the city.

The umpires and score keepers get together Tuesday evening and the managers meet Thursday night, each team will hold either one or two meetings and Mart Cleary and Secretary Ora Goff are holding daily sessions getting into shape for the season.

The Electric works and Dudlo play Saturday at Foster park, the Western Gas and Bowsers at Weisser park and the Pennsy and Turners at Lawton park. A big automobile parade will precede the games.

JOSEF CHRISTIAENS AT WHEEL OF SUNBEAM RACER, EQUIPPED WITH AVIATION MOTORS.

Indianapolis, May 1.—Josef Christiaens has sailed from London with an English-made Sunbeam car to compete in the sixth international sweepstakes race of 300 miles at Indianapolis May 30. No end of red tape had to be discarded in order to get the British military authorities to permit this driver and car to come to the states

Christiaens has been in the military service of the entent allies ever since the war started. He is a Belgian and drove to sixth place here two years ago.

There is unusual interest attached to his car by engineers in all of the American automobile factories. It is known that progress in aviation motors has developed with greater strides during the war, due to the demand of expediency than would have come about in ten years with ordinary commercial stimulants.

The motor in this Sunbeam car, it is said, incorporates the latest that has been learned in construction of aviation motors. This type of motor, because of its lightness and other constructional features is considered best for racing purposes and American automobile engineers believe future sensational changes in American-made cars will be based on what the war has done to improve aviation motors.

The first chance that the American engineers have had to benefit by these improvements will be the opportunity to see, study and watch Christiaen's car at the Indianapolis race.

Christiaens has fought in the trenches, but later was in the aviation corps, and has won many medals for bravery.

DUSTMAN IS CITY HORSESHOE PITCHING CHAMPION. BOWMAN BROTHERS COP DOUBLES

In the finals in The Sentinel horseshoe pitching tourney Louis Dustman and Walter C. Hartwick finally eliminated all other players and then Dustman defeated Hartwick 21-16 and 21-10.

In the doubles the Bowman Brothers defeated Wilkie and Miller in the finals after the two pair had eliminated all others running. It is interesting to note that both first prize winners, Dustman and the Bowman brothers, are city men, and that Hartwick, who won second in the singles, is also a city man. Wilkie and Miller held up the country's end as the only country pitchers to finish in the money.

"Chinese Typhoon" Is Jimmy Howe

Jimmy Howe, Champion Chinese Bantamweight of the World.

Portland, Ore., May 1.—From the hop fields of eastern Washington has come a little Chinese typhoon.

His name is Jimmy Howe.

Jimmy is champion Chinese bantamweight of the world, and is regarded as the fastest of the oriental boxers who have recently gravitated to the ring.

A stolid little fellow and a demon for punishment, Jimmy seems to have been born to wear the mitts. In the hop fields of Pasco, where he grew up, the youngster used to vary the monotony of work by indulging in shadow bouts, much to the amusement of his staid elders.

He had witnessed a boxing exhibition or two at Walla Walla, and from then on he cherished but one ambition.

Charlie Jost, veteran heavyweight of the northwest, gave him his chance. He had noticed Jimmy shadow boxing in his excitement over a fast mill, and took the Chinese bantam in tow.

His proud old mother, living at Pasco, Wash., and reputed to be worth close to a million, is very indulgent with her Jimmy, for the boy always carries a bank roll large enough to choke an elephant.

Recently "Fighting Billy" Murray, the famous California middleweight, has taken Howe as his protege and is teaching him a few new tricks.

The "typhoon" is 19 years old, and has the aggressiveness of a cornered wildcat.

HIS MEMORY COMES BACK.

Young Man Finds Himself After Long Trip From Detroit.

New Orlenas, May 1.—A story of loss of memory and identity and of wanderings from place to place for two weeks until he found himself here, was told by Earl E. Devlin, 28, who said he was a son of a millionaire automobile manufacturer of Detroit. He said that two weeks ago he felt an inexplicable desire to travel. He knew he boarded a train at Detroit, but from that time until he recovered his memory here he said his mind virtually was blank. Newspaper accounts of his disappearance brought back his memory, he said.

NOTHING DOING ON "FRATS."

Announcement was made several days ago that a high school fraternity was to be reorganized soon but Prof. Justin N. Study states that the school board will not allow it since all college fraternities and educators think of high school fraternities as a dertiment to the community and to the members themselves. The state law also does not allow it.

Mart Cleary has announced his shop league officials and it is interesting to note that several old time leaguers are among those present. Wedler, Oscar Griebel and John Dornick have been boosters since the first meeting of the organization called six years ago. The umpires are Frankie Mason, John Dornick and Art Slade, and the scorers Griebel, Lutz, McGinnis and Wedler.

The Bowser team defeated Concordia 5 and 0 Saturday afternoon in a match marked by consistent Bowser slugging.

Miss Margaret Curtis, three times winner of the national golf championship, is now in France assisting in the work of the associated charities in alleviating the suffering of war refugees in the French capital. Although she has little spare time, Miss Curtis hopes to play golf occasionally, and her sister Harriot, also a former national champion, has forwarded a set of golf clubs to her headquarters in Paris.

Will Dig Up Body of Girl to Look for Money in Wooden Leg.

St. Louis, Mo., May 1.—Charles Koerner of Detroit, will have the body of Miss Elizabeth Hauck exhumed at Alton to look for money which he thinks she may have concealed in her wooden leg. When she died Sept. 15, $700 was found in her clothing. Koerner, who is her guardian, thinks she had more money.

Miss Hauck was 35 and was formerly in the millinery business here, which was started with part of the $3,000 she received from a railroad company for the loss of her leg twenty years ago.

At Age of 86 Mrs. Brauntmeyer Prepares Dinner for Guests.

Mrs. Charlotte Brauntmeyer celebrated Sunday at the home of her daughter, the seventy-third anniversary of her leaving Switzerland, and her son, Charles Brauntmeyer, 1228 Ewing street, celebrated the fifty-fourth anniversary of his birth. The two anniversaries were held jointly and were enjoyed by a number of relatives. A sumptuous dinner which Mrs. Brauntmeyer prepared was served. Mrs. Brauntmeyer is now 86 years old, and was an orphan 13 years of age when she started across the Atlantic to find a new home in America.

The Joy Of Forgiveness

By Elsie Endicott

AUNT MARY! Aunt Mary! the slapsorts have come—I mean the shortsnaps. O, dear," she laughed gayly, "what am I saying. I mean the—"

"Helen, come in. Sit down, think over carefully what you intend to say before beginning a remarks. You are trying to tell me that the snap-shots which you took of the house and garden have arrived from the photographers?"

"Yes, yes, and they're ripping, Aunt Mary!"

"Do you mean they are torn, Helen?" Angry tears rushed into the girl's eyes. "You know I don't mean any such a thing," she stammered. "You're only being hateful and sarcastic—and I—"

"Helen, you are not to address me in such a manner. You forget yourself. You are too excitable, too boisterous, you laugh too much, talk too much. You irritate men constantly. Try and cultivate moderation, quietness."

"But, Aunt Mary, I don't want to be always quiet and never to laugh like—" She bit her lips suddenly but her little chin shot out defiantly.

"Helen, you are alarmingly nervous this morning. I see now that I made a great mistake in permitting you to attend the little party last evening; it was unwse of me in the extreme." Her dark blue eyes which were meant to be sweet and gentle, grew cold, her lips set sternly. "During the remainder of your visit," she went on, "I shall not permit you to remain up later than 8 o'clock each night. I see that I shall have to discipline you as I should a child, since you persist in behaving as such."

The girl's face went white. Her eyes blazed. She turned abruptly to the window and gazed out unseeingly.

Her eyes smarted with suppressed tears. Her little hands clenched themselves upon her breast. She was fighting—fighting hard for control; not for worlds would she have broken down then before her aunt.

All the beauty of the day suddenly faded.

So happy she had been, so eager. Now she felt chilled, depressed.

Turning, she went over to her aunt. "You can look at the old slap-snorts alone, I—" she stopped, horrified, aghast!

Not a muscle of the woman's face changed. All sense of humor seemed frozen within her.

"It is emphatically as I said," her voice cut. "You need sleep! Go to bed at once!"

For one bewildered moment Helen stood there. Then her face cleared, her little shoulders straightened themselves. With head erect she walked slowly toward the door.

On the threshold she turned. Her aunt's eyes were upop her. She looked straight into them with a clear, merry comprehensive look which had in it an element of deep, understanding pity.

Two afternoons later came a caller.

Fifteen years had elapsed since John Reed's last visit to his old home town. During that time success had come to him, but happiness not.

Always his heart wandered back to the little town and Mary. She had been so sweet, so gentle. He had loved her so. Never had he understood what had come between them.

If he had only known it, much less had Mary understood.

Simply another case of the meddlesome third person.

The ache in his own heart has made him wonderfully sympathetic: had broadened and sweetened him.

On the day of his arrival in the little town he went determinedly to call on Mary. He loved her still.

The door of the house stood open. From within came voices.

A bit of mischief left over from his boyhood suddenly came to life. Going in quietly he tiptoed along the hall toward the room which had lived in his memory all the years.

Suddenly he stopped, balancing himself against the wall. Someone was speaking. The voice was astonishingly hard and cold. He shivered!

"You are a most unpleasant child! Like a rough, boisterous boy you run through my house whistling, singing loudly! Now you have awakened me! You are hopeless! Never have I met such an absolutely irritating, disagreeable child! I cannot understand why your mother sent you here to me—it was an imposition—an—an incomprehensible thing for her to do.

"Mother thought you were lonely," the girlish voice faltered. "She said—she and dad—that you had no one but us to love you. They—they thought you might love me. I—I tried—I" the sweet voice broke pitifully.

John Reed's face grew tense. His hands clenched. He wanted to shake—to hurt the woman of the cold voice.

He felt no slightest compunction over his peculiar position—listening there. Rather he felt compelled to stay—something held him.

For a moment only did the sound of sobbing come from the room. Then—

"Oh," came a broken, heart-stirred voice. "What a wicked, wicked woman I have been. Little girl, I do love you. You crept into my heart the day you came. But I—I wouldn't let you stay," the voice faltered—then went on. "I saw in you myself as—as I was years ago; it hurt—my heart hardened—grew bitter. I've hated other people's sunny faces—their happiness. I let the wicked hate come into my life. But I loved him so, child—and he went away—and all the world went black—black—black!"

"I've wanted to be hard and cold—I've longed to hurt. But O, I'm so sorry now—so sorry! Her voice ceased with a little choking sound.

For a moment the man knelt there. Then the woman raised her face from the pillow.

"Mary, Mary, beloved!" In his voice was all the power and wonder of 15 years' faithful love.

Then his arms went around her—with one hand he gently drew the wet face against his own—with the other he smoothed back the soft hair from her forehead in the old, dear way.

She looked into his eyes bravely. "John," she said, her voice sweet and gentle. "Heaven has forgiven me. Heaven is good!"

SAYS WE BECOME CRANKS ON HOT WATER DRINKING

Hopes every man and woman adopts this splendid morning habit.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice the drinking of phosphated hot water before breakfast, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons in the bowels which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and refreshing effect upon the system.—Advertisement.

STOCK YARDS KNOWS ALICE MASARYK WELL

Will Deeply Mourn if Bohemian Girl is Executed for Treason.

Chicago, Ill., May 1.—If they kill Alice Masaryk, as they're threatening to do, in Austria, for "treason," there will be widespread mourning in one of the most thickly populated districts in Chicago!

For around West Forty-seventh street in the stockyards district, where Miss Masaryk resided at the University settlement while preparing to write her history of Bohemia, the girl from Prague is remembered and loved by hundreds of lowly immigrant women—Poles, Lithuanians, Slovaks, as well as the Czechs from her native land.

Women all over America are signing petitions for Miss Masaryk's release.

"Miss Masaryk's personality was impressive," says Miss Mary E. McDowell, head of the settlement. "She was so simply and genuinely democratic, at home with the Slavic neighbors, the unskilled workers in the packing industries. She listened to their troubles, and they all talked freely with this beautiful, sympathetic girl. She came to America to know at first hand the Slavic immigrant.

"She was as a little child with the children. She organized a 'cleaner club,' and with rake in hand went into the alleys. In the evening she would perhaps make a public address on Bohemian history or literature. She organized a club of young Bohemian women for the purpose of keeping alive the highest ideals of the Bohemian nation.

"Miss Masaryk was philosophical and constructive in her thinking.

"She was a force for peace and good order during the stockyards strike of 1905, and helped influence the strikers toward peaceful holding out for better wages and conditions.

"Miss Masaryk had a typical Slavic face that lightened to brilliancy when she was speaking. She was called beautiful by those who loved her and and her ideas."

WORE WHITE DRESS FOR LUCK.

Mrs. Sarah L. Haler Has Some Ideas on the Subject of Marriage.

Columbus, Ind., May 1.—Mrs. Sarah L. Haler, age forty-nine, of Indianapolis, believed her second marriage would be luckier if she were married in a white dress. For that reason E. H. Kinney, local justice of the peace, had to provide a dressing room. It was the first time in his experience as a "marrying squire" that a prospective bride had demanded a place to change her clothing after she appeared for the ceremony.

Mrs. Haler and Charles White, an Indianapolis machinist, one year older than his bride, came here from Indianapolis to get married. The marriage license application blank showed that each had been married once before. Mrs. Haler said she lived in Indianapolis but when she was informed she had to be a resident of Bartholomew county to get a marriage license here she readily consented to move. Then she made oath that she lived in Columbus and there was no further hitch about issuing the license.

MOTHERS! SWAT THE FLY BEFORE IT KILLS YOUR BABIES—WARNING OF THE MOST FAMOUS WOMAN FLY FIGHTER.

(This is the second story of a "Swat the Fly" series in which Dr. Jean Dawson, America's champion woman fly fighter, will tell Sentinel readers how to rid the city of the greatest of all disease carriers and greatly reduce sickness in fly season.—Editor.)

By Dr. Jean Dawson.

America's Most Famous Woman Fly Fighter.

Flies kill little babies, therefore it is the mother's duty to kill the fly first.

It has been found that infants' diseases and deaths, formerly thought due to other causes, are due to the common housefly. The baby, it's food and the utensils used in preparing it, should be carefully protected from flies.

Many mothers have stood and laughed at a fly's antics as it crawled over the face of a sleeping baby. They did not know the feet of the insect were scrawling the word "Death."

If you have not been able to rid your home of flies, then do sentry duty over your baby as it sits in its high chair eating. If a fly buzzes near, swat it before it can plump down on baby's food.

Ten chances to one such a fly has been promenading on a manure pile or on a heap of uncovered garbage, and its hairy legs and feet are swarming with disease germs.

BE SURE TO KEEP FLIES AWAY FROM THE BABY.

If the fly manages to walk over baby's food or fall headlong into baby's glass of milk these germs are then swallowed by the child.

A fly can also transmit these germs to your child's food in its excrement, commonly called "Fly Specks," for disease germs pass unchanged through the fly's alimentary canal.

In other words, both the interior and exterior of the fly is charged with deadly disease germs.

As many as 550,000,000 germs have been found on one fly caught in a filthy district.

In fly season the deaths of infants from diarrhoeal diseases rise accordingly. Tests have shown that a rate of 28 children's deaths in January, when there are few flies, will jump to more than 175 deaths in July and August when flies are numerous and swarming from filth to the baby's food.

These deaths generally are reported as caused from "summer complaint." it were better if called by its true name—Fly Complaint.

(Dr. Dawson's third lesson in "Fly Fighting" will appear in The Sentinel tomorrow.

A Symbol of Health.

The Pythagorians of Ancient Greece ate simple food, practiced temperance and purity. As a badge they used the five pointed star, which they regarded as a symbol of health. A red five pointed star appears on each package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and still fulfils its ancient mission as a symbol of health. If you are troubled with indigestion, biliousness or constipation, get a package of these tablets from your druggist. You will be surprised at the quick relief which they afford. Home was robbed Tuesday evening, presumably by same gang of boy robbers that was released by our kindly city police court recently. MOTION PICTURE PRODUCERS BEGIN FIGHT AGAINST ARBITRARY CENSORS

Some Companies Use the Screen in Appeal Against the Boards that Cut Films Which Are O.K.'d Elsewhere

THE question of censorship each day becomes more serious to the motion-picture porducers. That it has reached the point where something will have to be done—either the establishment of a federal board and the elimination of the state censors—is evidenced by the bitter fight many of the producing companies are making.

Not infrequently in the motion-picture theaters will occur a scene in which the father or husband, rescued from death, will clasp his baby daughter, or his wife or his sister in his arms. Then will flash upon the scene the following bit of sarcasm:

Permitted by the Censors

And the faintest suggestion of a kiss, which immediately fades into darkness, will be shown. So quickly is the kiss made, and so artfully has the producer brought home to the public the ridiculous prudery of some censors by immediately covering up the most innocent of kisses with a blank, black space, that one cannot but help feel the anger which the producer harbored while doing it.

"Free speech, free press and a free stage have always been ideals of the American people. Then why not a free screen? Our constitution's most sacred guarantee is freedom of expression. When censorship or any form of it is legalized here, then will begin the end of our democracy."

The Balboa Company says further: "This statement is intended to present the whole censorship controversy to motion-picture spectators in its true light. If it is established the spectators will suffer more than the producers. Hence, the associated picture makers have decided to put the issue squarely to the people in this manner. It is for them to say if they want their amusements censored or not."

Censorship is one of the most aggravating influences the builders of a great industry ever had to deal with. The question of submitting every film made to the opinion of a small body of men and women, to be judged and measured by the personal opinions of these few individuals, has arisen like a specter on the horizon of one of the largest and most beneficent industries the world has ever seen.

It is already seriously hampering the broad and democratic development of the art, and producers declare if the question is not put aside or solved in a sensible manner, there is grave danger that film making will be crippled; indeed, many producers claim that actual ruination is staring them in the face.

If a hundred photo plays were taken at random and compared with a hundred regular stage plays, or a hundred vaudeville acts, the balance will be found to be decidedly in favor of the photo play, when morality and good taste are considered.

Most of the operas are based on crime and immorality, and people of culture and refinement all over the world consider grand opera the highest form of entertainment. Many of the stage successes of today are far below the moral standard of the worst picture plays made, but not a thing is said about censoring them.

Censors of moving pictures have barred that old standby, Ten Nights in a Barroom, because of the number of gin mill scenes, yet this play has been presented thousands of times on the regular stage and by temperance societies and in churches. The censors of Kansas will not allow the Birth of a Nation, which is adapted from The Clansman, a speaking stage play, to be shown in the state.

Is it worse to look upon the pictured scenes of a play than to have the same thing set up and acted out with the addition of the performers' voices to make it doubly harmful, if there is any harm?

Many states have enacted drastic censorship laws for motion pictures, and, in addition to this, are many local boards and a great host of self-appointed keepers of the public morals working without official sanction. Few of these people ever agree on what should be and what should not be eliminated from pictures. What the Censor Board of one city or town will pass unchallenged will be viewed with horror by the next board that applies its rules to the picture.

One of the paid censors of Ohio expressed her delight in the comedy police pictures, and the police official on whose shoulders rested the weighty duty of deciding what should be shown in the picture-show houses of Chicago suppressed all pictures where a comedy policeman was shown in a ridiculous position, although the characters of the officers of the law were so plainly burlesqued that no one could see anything that would tend to ridicule uniformed authority.

The operation of the Censorship Board subject all films to inspection, the good and the bad are all judged, and always for a fee, and the innocent are assessed just as much for being declared good as the guilty are charged for being declared wicked.

The ruling of one board is seldom accepted by another. It is said that the censors in Pennsylvania objected to a news picture of a statue being moved, because the workmen placed a rope around the bronze to swing it to its new position—under the censorship laws that prohibit scenes in pictures of hangings.

Many of the film makers themselves are in favor of logical censorship. Indeed, they have themselves maintained the National Board of Censorship for years, for the purpose of creating a standard and keeping bad pictures out of the market.

Most of the producers consider this sufficient. Others, believing that censorship of some sort is inevitable, favor a board under the control of the Federal Government, with the belief that this would subject the films to but one examination, and eliminate the many state and local boards, which cause great delay and expense.

The majority of producers are opposed to censorship of any kind, and claim that the public should be its own judge. Just the same as it is its own judge as to the kind of books they read.

Below are the opinions of two men who speak with authority—one a producer, and the other a critic and authority on pictures. W. Stephen Bush, editor of the Moving Picture World, who is opposed to any censorship, says:

"Giving all due credit to the right motives of those who are advocating and even clamoring for censorship of moving pictures, one only has to discuss the question with a very few to discover that underneath it all there is not a little of the self-righteous spirit. A little further consideration will develop the fact that the ideas and convictions of no two individuals on all subjects will ever be found to coincide.

"All our educators today are devoting more and still more time and attention to the development of the individual and are realizing that the best system is the one that adapts itself most fully to the peculiar mentality of each unit in the class.

"By what line of argument can it be shown that the development of the enormous moving picture industry should be placed in the hands of a few officially appointed censors, to be measured by their individual yardstick? Who is there in this country or in any other country that is sufficiently free from prejudices and personal likes and dislikes, whose mental and spiritual outlook is so broad and infinite—whose artistic and moral sense is sufficiently developed, to be made the sponsor for the individual tastes of one hundred million American people, and if there were such an individual, would the proper amusement standards of the people of this country be more likely to develop without the exercise of their own individual selection and approval of what they considered helpful, and condemnation of the harmful?

"The only conclusion that we can arrive at on the question is that legalized censorship of any kind is likely to be productive of greater evils than it seeks to overcome.

"We note with great satisfaction that the press is beginning to grasp the danger of censorship as far as its own welfare is concerned. We have always pointed out that censorship of motion pictures is an entering wedge for the curtailment of the freedom of expression in general."

The following is an interview with J. A. Berst, vice president and general manager of the Pathe Exchanges, Inc. Berst is a pioneer in film production and declares for federal censorship.

"The motion picture companies today need a Federal Board of Censorship to protect themselves," Berst declares. "If we don't decide on a Federal Board, local state boards will mushroom over night to throttle the industry.

"It is not my opinion that the producers need censorship to prevent them from making pictures that would offend public decency or that would tend to corrupt the morals of the young, although, it is true that there are some few unscrupulous men in the business who would stoop to the lowest depths to produce pictures not fit to be shown to any audience because of the lure of quick riches. All of the reputable, responsible producing companies today are conscientiously trying to make the kind of pictures the public wants—and the public will never tolerate indecency. True, mistakes are made, but generally they are honest ones.

"If Congress will pass a bill for a Federal Board of Censorship, it will sound the death knell of the local state boards. Some of these boards will continue for a time, but eventually they will have to go.

"The reason that no progress is being made in the present fight in the case of the State Censorships is that neither the public nor the exhibitors are vitally interested. The public doesn't look upon motion pictures as a necessity. They go to them for amusement, but if all the motion picture theaters were closed, there would be no revolution in the United States. The exhibitors are in sympathy with the fight against the Censorship, but they are not interested enough to cooperate with the manufacturers to the extent necessary to accomplish anything."

Enter Dubart—dragging Mabel.
(He gazes in the camera's eye),
She begins to sniff and cry.
While she cuts emotion capers,
Dubart robs her of the papers.

Subtitle:

DUBART, WITH HATE THAT NEVER DIES,
SLAYS MABEL'S DAD WITH POISONED PIES.

Scene 4.

OFFICE of a syndicate,
Enter Dubart—with a plate
Filled with poisoned kidney pies,
Pudgkins eats the pies and dies.
Pudgkins on the floor, in fits,
Dubart robs the safe—exits.

Subtitle:

FOR FEAR THE LAW HIS PLANS MAY BUNGLE, DUBART LURES HER TO THE JUNGLE.

Scene 5.

TROPIC jungle scene—at night—
Dubart—Mabel, faint with fright.
Enter tribesmen, armed with spears,
This increases Mabel's fears.

Scene 6.

FLASH of river scene, with Jack,
Leaving boat for jungless track.

End of Reel One.

Scene 7.

BROKER'S office (same as four),
Pudgkins' body on the floor.

Scene 8.

JACK in camp, near bank of stream—
Hist—hist—hist—he hears a scream.

Scene 9.

(SET exterior)—lonesome church,
Enter sexton—drunken lurch.
Dubart, wearing cloak and mask,
Plies the sexton with a flask.
Near a grave that's newly made,
Dubart slays him with a spade.
(Gives camera look of fiendish glee),
Robs the body of a key.

Scene 10.

MABEL on a leopard's back—
Jungle parts—as enters Jack
(Wearing long-tailed coat and spats).
He kicks the leopard in the slats.
(Heroic pose)—then looks around—
Sees poor Mabel on the ground.
She slowly wakes at frantic call,
(Smiles at camera), tell him all.

Scene 11.

BROKER'S office (same as four),
Pudgkins' body on the floor.

Scene 12.

JUNGLE setting, same as eight,
Jack and Mabel—tete-a-tete.
Enter Dubart—taxicab,
Draws a sword—gives Jack a stab.
Though Mabel pleads and begs in vain,

Scene 13.

RAILROAD track—in distance, train.
Dubart, with Jack in aeroplane,
Descends—binds hero to the rails,
Mabel enters as he sails.
Enter train, with hissing steam,
Mabel sees Jack—utters scream—
(Faces camera)—runs to track—
(Frantic business)—rescues Jack.

End of Reel Two.

Subtitle:

WHEN FOILED IN DASTARD DEEDS, DUBART,
ADDS FALSEHOOD TO HIS CRUEL HEART, AND TRIES BY LIES THE PAIR TO PART.

Scene 14.

BALLROOM (fancy set in four),
Jack and Dubart near the door.
Mabel passes by in waltz,
Dubart hisses, "She is false."

Scene 15.

DUBART in riding clothes (with whip),
Reads a note with sneering lip.
"Prove them cruel words to me
And though it breaks my heart,
No more the haunts of men I'll see,
No more the city's mart,
Back into the jungle's wild
"I'll play a hermit's part."
Dubart folds note with gleeful glance,
Slaps self for joy on riding pants.

DUBART TELLS JACK THE PROOFS THEY SEEK
ARE WHERE THE OLD MILL DAMS THE CREEK.

Scene 16.

THE old mill—evening light—
Dubart and Jack ride in—alight;
Then with many a tug and groan,
They pull the mill down, stone by stone.

Scene 17.

BROKER'S office (same as four),
Pudgkins' body on the floor.
Mabel enters—stops at door,
Sees the body—faints some more.
Dubart enters—(stealthy tread),
(Shows no reverence for dead).
With key he took from sexton's pocket,
He opens desk—steals Mabel's locket.

Scene 18.

CRIPPLED blind man led by pup,
Enters scene with outstretched cup.
Enter Mortimer Dubart,
Stabs the blind man to the heart.
(Gives the camera fiendish grin),
As he searches cup of tin.
Stows the pennies in his purse,
Exits with a savage curse.

Scene 19.

IT IS midnight at the mill,
Jack is working with a will.
Mabel enters—(looking sad)
Mourning for her poisoned dad.
Dubart enters—walking fast,
(On screen), "I have the proofs at last."
(Faces camera with a curse),
Takes the pennies from his purse.
Jack, with firm and manly grace,
Snaps his thumbs in Dubart's face—
Strides to Mabel's side—and there—
Dubart sees they've called his bluff—
Exits—(doing villain stuff).
(Close up) view of mossy bowlder,
Mabel's head on Jack's broad shoulder.

End of Reel Three.

"Mabel's head on Jack's broad shoulder."

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, May 1.—Wheat ran up rapidly in value today, influenced chiefly by wet weather northwest making certain a further decrease in the extent of spring crop seeding.
Opening quotations, which were ¼c off to 7⅞c up, with May at $1.14½ to $1.16¾, and July at $1.15½ to $1.17, were followed by a raise that averaged on a little under the initial top level.
Prices closed firm, 1¾@1⅞c to 2⅞c net higher, with May at $1.16¾ and July at $1.17⅞.
Corn hardened with wheat. After opening ¼c to ½c higher, the market scored some additional gain.
Oats shared in the firmness of other cereals.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, May 1.—Labor troubles probably contributed to the irregular trend of prices on the resumption of trading, although gains far exceeded declines, both as to number and extent. Mercantile Marines were again the central features, the preferred and common soon rising to new records of 93¾ and 26¾ respectively. U. S. Steel and some specialties and such rails as Reading and Erie were higher by fractions to a point. Baldwin Locomotive was the only heavy feature, yielding a point with minor recessions in Mexican Petroleum and a few less conspicuous stocks.
Baldwin speedily made up its loss, likewise Mexicans, but the movement in other quarters of the list became more consuming, Distillers' Securities losing almost three points, with heaviness in Industrial Alcohol. Demand for Marines abated perceptibly, though subject to continuous profit taking, these issues yielded but little. Trading quickened later, the entire list responding to an inquiry for distinctive war shares, chiefly Crucible, Studebaker and other industrials of the same class, with gains of one to three points. Rails were only moderately active but higher. Bonds were steady.
A few high priced specialties rose substantially in the final hour and rails also hardened. The closing was strong.

For Indiana: Partly cloudy and much colder tonight; heavy frost; Tuesday fair, continued cold.
For Ohio: Partly cloudy and much colder tonight; probably rain northeast portion; most west portion if weather clears; Tuesday fair, colder east portion; For Lower Michigan: Rain or snow and colder tonight; Tuesday partly cloudy.

WEATHE RCONDITIONS.

An area of low pressure covers the lower lake region, with loops extending southwestward to Texas. Another low overlies the northwestern sections, and a high area covers the eastern slope of the Rockies, with another high over the great basin. Precipitation has resulted from this pressure distribution over a belt from the lake region southwestward to Texas and New Mexico, and unusually cold weather in portions of the Rocky mountain region, plain states and upper lake region, with frosts along the eastern slope and in northwestern districts.

DEWEY CELEBRATES MANILA DAY AT DESK

Washington, May 1.—Admiral Dewey today is celebrating the 18th anniversary of the battle of Manila bay. No plans had been made for any celebration so far as the hero of the day personally was concerned. As president of the navy general board Admiral Dewey was at his desk as usual today giving personal attention to the duties of his office. A short drive followed by a family dinner and early retirement was to round out the day.

PLANTING AT LINCOLN SCHOOL.

Grass, flowers and shrubbery were planted Monday on the grounds surrounding the new Lincoln school building in Washington township. The work was done under the supervision and direction of Prof. Sauers, a landscape artist from Purdue university. The grounds were graded and put in shape by a delegation of farmers of Washington township last Friday.

ASKS FEDERAL AID TO RELEASE PRISONERS

Bellingam, Wash., May 1.—County authorities here were to seek the assistance of the United States marshal to obtain the release of Capt. A. Costilanovich and seven other Austrian fishermen made prisoners in Hale's Pass yesterday by Lummi Indians and taken captive to the Indian reservation on Lummi island here. The sheriff of Whatcom county was asked to rescue the fishermen who surrendered when surrounded by a band of Indians armed with rifles, but said he could do nothing as the reservation was outside of state jurisdiction. It was believed the Indians would promptly give up their captives if confronted by a federal official. The trouble yesterday was the culmination of a long series of disputes between the Lummi Indians and the state authorities and white fishermen over the Indians' claim to exclusive fishing rights in Hale's Pass.

BLAMES DRINK, BUT IT IS POOR DEFENSE

James Collins, charged with disorderly conduct, told Judge H. Waveland Kerr in the city court, Monday morning, that he was drunk and could remember nothing of what happened, Saturday night, just prior to his arrest. Others had minds that were clearer and related to the court how Collins had beaten a woman, dragged her about on Pearl street and Maiden Lane, made her shriek and led bystanders to believe he was committing murder. So busy was James with his diversion that he never took note that he and the woman came near being ground to bits under the wheels of a freight car that was trying to get into the interurban freight terminal on Pearl street. The crew of the freight car and others took James into the station and held him while a young man ran out and brought in Officer Fred Smith. Collins, and the woman, who gave her name as Emma Johnson, were both charged with disorderly conduct. The case against the woman was dismissed and she was not asked to testify. Collins said he and the woman had been drinking Saturday afternoon and evening in a down town cafe and that he got crazed with drink and did not know what happened. His companion was bleeding from wounds in her head and face when Collins was pulled away from her. Collins begged hard for leniency and blamed everything to drink. He solemnly promised the court never to put his lips to liquor again if shown mercy. The court was so touched by the plea that all it did was to fine Collins $50 and costs and add thirty days at the state penal farm, which will hold him for three months unless he pays his fine.

Mess of Roysterers Fined.

Nina Brown's domicile, 1731 Hanna street, was the scene of a polite social function that was participated in by herself and five gentlemen of the smart set of that region, Saturday night. After the police had landed the week-end party at headquarters in the patrol wagon and taken inventory it was found that Nina and the following among those present had been caught in the net: Messrs. Joseph Smith, alias Tom Demoff, a trans-Balkan refugee of taciturn disposition; "Brick" Crawford, barfly and saloon roustabout of bad repute and mangy appearance; John Wolf, who happened in by accident; John Mud, who evidently got the inspiration for his nom de jure from association with "Brick" Crawford, and Tom Jones, a Weisser Park avenue inhabitant, who showed some indications of personal respectability, but not enough to leaven the whole party. The bunch had been staging a beer party and making a loud noise, whereupon a police squad consisting of Sergeant Dave Blum and Officers Barr and Ueber made an invasion. Nina Brown has been complained of much recently to the police as having numerous men calling at her place. The case against Tom Jones was dismissed and the other five were fined $10 and costs. In posting her cash bond of $50, Saturday night, Nina produced a roll big enough to liquidate the public debt, but it was just a flash. Nina had fifty one-dollar bills—which itself was considered to cast suspicion. The woman is the same who in juvenile court some weeks ago was shown to have been giving her own children intoxicants. She is divorced from the father of the little ones and is remarried. Her present husband is absent. Many foreigners are said by the police to visit her place.

Other City Court Cases.

Joseph Tuosky, who keeps a small store and poolroom on Fairfield avenue, was charged with keeping a gambling device. Officer Bischoff, a new policeman whose uniform has not arrived, dropped into the place clad only in plain clothes and played a slot machine. After winning 20 cents he pinched the proprietor. The case was continued for hearing until later in the week.

Tom O'Hern, a chronic souse, pleaded guilty to intoxication with five previous convictions and drew $50 and costs and thirty days at the state farm, all of which will keep him there three months.

Tom Granger, but recently arrived in town, was making trouble on the street Sunday, refused to heed Officer Krabill's counsel to keep quiet and was arrested. He was fined $10 and costs.

Ralph Bayless was tried for disorderly conduct and his wife testified that he came home Saturday night under the influence of drink and abused her. She said also that he had not been supporting herself and children. The case was continued for judgment until Tuesday and Bayless went to jail. The Bayless home is near the north limits of the city on the Lima road.

Drunks were disposed of in this wise: Gust Leischel, George Green, Oliver Moffat, Charles Richmond, Steve Hannan and Charles O'Brien, turned loose; Frank Smith, $5 and costs; Andrew Ireland, $1 and costs.

Ethel Beck was charged in an affidavit with using profane language in the hearing of others. The case was continued until Thursday.

Albert Wilson was arrested on a charge of receiving stolen goods, the manner being the purchase of junk from some boys. The case will be heard later in the week.

Fred Dammeyer, a bartender in the saloon of Walter Baals, 1413 Hanna street, was tried on a charge of selling liquor to John Krauter, a 16 year old boy, and at the conclusion of the testimony the case was taken under advisement until Wednesday.

Frank Tressler was fined $10 and costs for speeding his automobile on Harrison street at 1 o'clock last Saturday morning, at the same time Harry Brunner was burning up the pavement. Brunner was arrested at the time by Officer Jack Lynch, but Tressler got away.

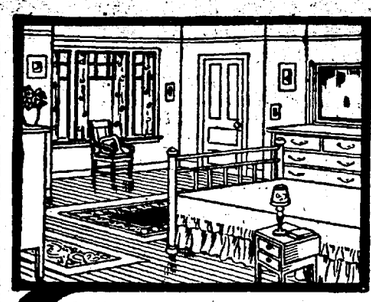
NOTES OF THE POLICE.

George Hecke, 438 East Washington street, reports to the police that a pocketbook containing $46 was missing from his pocket after a brief conversation with a negress Saturday night, near Clinton and Montgomery streets. He believes the wench, who had accosted him, got her hand in his pocket.

The horse and buggy that was stolen from James Kennerk, a farmer residing near Hoagland, while the rig was hitched on Superior street, was found early Sunday morning by the police and taken to a feed barn. It was found standing on the street.



For Every Wall in the House

There's a reason why the nicest homes built now-a-days are using flat wall paint instead of other mediums for wall decoration. For one thing paint is absolutely sanitary. When you finish your walls with you have not only a sanitary wall, but the most artistic and durable wall finish it is possible to provide. We should like to show you the color card illustrating some effects possible to work out with NEU-TONE. Come in right soon and look into this new wall coating proposition.

NEU-TONE
Flat Washable WALL FINISH

REBELS ADMIT CAUSE FAILS

Sinn Fein Chieftains in Dublin Surrender to British Troops.

FOLLOWERS COME UNDER WHITE FLAG

London, May 1.—(1:45 p. m.)—Official announcement was made this afternoon that all rebel leaders in Dublin had surrendered.

CONFESS CAUSE IS LOST.

Rank and File Cast Arms at Foot of Parnell Monument.

Dublin, Sunday Evening, April 30.—(Via London, May 1, 10:20 a. m.)—Rebels of the rank and file followed the example of their leaders this morning and confessed the cause of the Irish republic was lost by laying down their arms at the foot of the Parnell monument in Sackville street and surrendering to British troops. About 450 of them who had fought since Monday in this central area, marched out from their strongholds under the white flag and gave themselves up. A few irreconcilables continued sniping from lairs, difficult to locate on roofs or among rafters of buildings nearby. Soon afterward a rebel lieutenant, wearing a heather green uniform and carrying a white flag, came in with a guard of ten men from the adjoining county of Meath to learn the truth about rumors of a general surrender.

Pearce Admits Collapse.

The party marched off to the castle and learned from K. H. Pearce, who was named provisional president of the Irish republic, that the movement had collapsed and was advised to resist no longer. The lieutenant and his escort then started out to parley with the rebels in the country districts in an effort to induce them to lay down their arms.

James Connolly, one of the leaders of the uprising is said by government officials to be a prisoner, wounded, in the castle.

A correspondent of the Associated Press visited the entire area of the disturbance today. The desolation and destruction showed how severe was the fighting while it lasted. Any effort to describe the ruined center of the disturbance can give only a general idea of the havoc, which, however, looks more extensive than it actually is, owing to the amount of debris.

Passing down from headquarters near the entrance to Phoenix park on North Circular road to the Four Courts district, one found that every window of the law courts had been shattered. The rebels had held the building in force for a week. Valuable law reference books and furniture were utilized to barricade windows, and through the interstices between the bulky volumes the rebels sniped without cessation day and night and were fired on in turn until they were compelled to evacuate the premises.

Dented With Bullet Marks.

Houses all around were dented with bullet marks. Some of them were barricaded with thick oaken planks which were marked with bullet holes. Over Wine Tavern bridge there were similar scenes. This morning the streets were full of curious persons who were glad to have the opportunity to be about after their long detention in their homes dur-

KERN UNABLE TO MUSTER A QUORUM

Washington, May 1.—Because of the absence of several senators, Majority Leader Kern was unabel to muster a quorum of the senate steering committee today for framing a "clean-up" legislative program and the meeting will be held tomorrow.

The aim is to get the important features of the pending slate enacted into law before the national polltical conventions and in this the minority in congress is expected to co-operate. The calling up of the Philippine independence bill under a special rule providing for its disposition in one day marked the beginning of the "clean-up" campaign in the house. With this bill disposed of it is planned to hurry up action on other measures, including the Porto Rican, District of Columbia, diplomatic and consular, shipping, fortifications, rural credits, naval and revenue bills.

LAMAR SEES HIS LAST CHANCE PASS

Washington, May 1.—The supreme court today affirmed the conviction of David Lamar, "Wolf of Wall street," in the New York federal courts on charges of impersonating Representative A. Mitchel Palmer J. P. Morgan and others with intent to defraud. Lamar is under sentence to serve two years in the penitentiary and today's action is the final word in the courts.

The court, through Chief Justice White, decided the congressman is an officer of the United States within the meaning of the statute against the impersonation of an "officer of the United States." That was the main point of which Lamar rested his case. Other points, principally those relating to jurisdiction and legal practice, were decided against him.

ONLY 198 HOURS OF SUNSHINE IN APRIL

There were only 198 hours of sunshine during the month of April as compared with 254 hours the same month in 1915, according to the official figures compiled at the local weather station.

During the month there were 2.89 inches of precipitation as compared with 1.58 last year, 3.25 in 1914; 2.54 in 1913, 2.44 in 1912. The greatest rainfall in twenty-four hours was 1.34 inches on April 25 and 26.

The highest velocity of the wind was forty miles on April 17. The prevailing direction of the wind was southwest. There were 2.8 inches of snow during the month.

NEW LABOR PAPER.

Federation of Labor to Have Weekly Publication of Its Own.

The Worker is the name of a new weekly publication which has just made its appearance. The Worker is the official organ of the Fort Wayne Federation of Labor and will be published Friday of each week by the press committee of that organization.

The editors explain that it is not their intention to cover the work done by the daily papers, but that the labor forces of the city have a certain class of news that "we cannot burden our local papers with, even though they have been willing for the most part to publish whatever we have asked."

COAL GOING UP? SURELY

Philadelphia, May 1.—Anthracite operators here today said that the prices of prepared sizes of coal will have to be increased to the consumers as a result of the agreement that has been reached with the mine workers in the hard coal fields. What the amount of the increase will be will not be known until the details of the new agreement have been worked out. New freight rates on anthracite coal will have to be figured in the proposed increased prices.

S. D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, chairman of the operators' general conference committee, said the new agreement would involve a general wage increase of slightly more than ten per cent or between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 a year.

The general committee of the anthracite operators met here today, heard the report of its sub-committee which negotiated the agreement and formally ratified the new wage scale.

DETAILS GIVEN OUT.

New York, May 1.—Details of the settlement of the anthracite coal controversy as a result of the negotiations which have been going on for weeks between the operators and the miners were made public here today by the operators. The agreement, involving increased wages, shorter hours and virtual recognition of the union is as yet unsigned, but since it has met with the approval of the sub-committees which have been in session here it is not anticipated that it will be rejected at the miners' convention at Pottsville, Pa., tomorrow. The agreement will be retroactive until April 1, and will avert a threatened strike which would throw some 176,000 employes into idleness.

The agreement contains no mention of the closed shop or the check off system, which have been points of dispute during the negotiations. Regarding the former, however, it was pointed out by the operators the agreement will, when approved by the convention, be signed by John P. White, president of the mine workers, and by other officials of the union and that this is in effect recognition of the union, giving the miners the right to organize in order to better their conditions. Its provisions are to be continued until May 20, 1920.

REHEARSAL NOTICE.

EARL FOSTER LEADING INDIANA FLY-SWATTERS

Columbus, Ind., May 1.—Earl Foster is leading in the fly-swatting contest among the 600 school children of Columbus. He has a total of 2,660 flies to his credit, according to Melvin Houg, principal, who is in charge of the contest.

The eighteen highest in the contest have a total of 20,352 flies. The contest probably will be closed Friday.

NEW PROHIBITION LAW TAKES HOLD

Georgia Statute Will Be Strictly Observed, is Belief.

Atlanta, Ga., May 1.—The new prohibition law, which became effective at midnight, will be strictly observed by the so-called locker clubs and by the liquor interests throughout the state, it is generally believed here.

Beer saloons, which previously prohibited operating on Sunday, sold their last drinks Saturday night, but in Savannah, Atlanta and other larger cities, clubs, were allowed to remain open on Sunday as usual and dispensed alcoholic beverages until 11 or in some cases 1 o'clock last night. No reports had reached here early today of any disorder marking the passing of the beer saloons, which were allowed, under previous prohibition laws, and the locker clubs furnished no more than a good natured joviality as the last drinks were dispensed. The new law, which was enacted last December, makes illegal the sale of any beverages containing more than one-half of one percent of alcohol, limits to two quarts of liquor, or 48 pints of beer, or one gallon of wine every thirty days' shipment to any individual within the state and prevents the advertising of liquor in the state.

TEUTONS RENEW VERDUN ATTACK

Paris Declares New Offensive Costs Germans Heavy Losses.

Berlin, May 1.—(By Wireless to The Associated Press via Sayville.—It is reported from Saloniki that a German submarine has torpedoed a large transport.

It is said the transport was torpedoed off Kara Burun, ten miles east of Saloniki. This is the second instance in which a transport is reported to have been torpedoed near Saloniki.

This report is contained in a dispatch from Zurich, which credits this news to the Greek newspaper Nea Alithia, of Saloniki.

MASSES ARE MOWED DOWN.

New Offensive at Verdun Costs German Forces Heavily.

London, May 1.—The Germans have renewed the aggressive in force northwest of Verdun, delivering a massed attack on the positions recently captured by the French, north of Dead Man's hill, and counter attacking also a trench they hal lost north of Cumieres. In both cases the assailants were repulsed. Paris declares, their masses being mowed down in large numbers in the Dead Man's hill assault.

Indications that further German efforts are impending are furnished by announcement that hill 304, west of the Meuse, and positions in the Vaux sector, northeast of Verdun, are being incessantly bombarded.

WAS IT $7,000,000 OR MERE $100,000?

Will Contest to Determine What Eno Intended to Give University.

New York, May 1.—Whether the late Amos E. Eno intended to leave $100,000 or more than $7,000,000 to Columbia university by his will of June 18, 1915, is the question before the surrogate in a will contest begun by his heirs over the division of his estate estimated to be worth from $15,000,000 to $19,000,000.

Owing to the failure of one of the attorneys in the case to appear today the trial was indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Eno left four wills in the last of which he bequeathed his residuary estate to Columbia. His heirs assert he did not know the extent of his fortune and that he believed he was giving the university less than $100,000. They also contend that Mr. Eno was not mentally in a condition to know how to dispose of his estate. Should the will be sustained Columbia university will receive $7,000,000 to $11,000,000.

The heirs who are contesting it are: Wm. P. Eno, Mrs. Antoinette E. Wood, Mary E. Pinchot, Gifford Pinchot, Amos R. E. Pinchot, Professor Henry Lane Eno and Lady Antoinette Graves. Each received a substantial sum under the will they are contesting but were remembered to a much larger degree in a will drawn by Mr. Eno in 1914.

Wilkinson was defeated for re-election a year ago by one vote. Three of the township trustees were unable to be present. Wilkie announced that he would be a candidate in another year.

38 ALARMS DURING APRIL; LOSS SMALL

The proverbial April showers which Fort Wayne enjoyed so abundantly this year had their pleasing and displeasing features. A pleasing result of the frequent downpours is that the fire loss for the past month in the city was kept very low. Thirty-eight alarms were answered and the monetary loss amounted to $1,955, the smallest amount in many years for this month.

There was only one large blaze and that occurred on Easter Sunday evening when the residence of Mrs. Lemley, 1517 Green street, was gutted by fire. A score of the blazes of the month were caused by sparks from the chimney and involved only minor losses. Five alarms were answered on April 27, the largest number of any one single day.

WILL NOT BE SETTLED NOW

WILL HOLD BUT ONE MORE CONFERENCE

Washington Says Negotiations Up to Date Have Been Satisfactory.

El Paso, Texas, May 1.—Major General Frederick Funston announced at noon today that only one more conference would be held with the Mexican representatives on the military questions now existing between this country and Mexico. He said it would be brief. Gens. Scott and Funston are awaiting a reply from Washington before setting a time for the conference.

Gens. Scott and Funston worked far into the night preparing reports and a code message was dispatched to the war department just before daybreak. It is understood the army officers have asked permission to take up the question of withdrawing troops from Mexico with Gen. Obregon, minister of war of the de facto government brought to the fore at the conference of Saturday.

That the conferences here will finally settle the withdrawal question is not believed.

CALLED SATISFACTORY.

Washington, May 1.—After an exchange of messages between Gen. Scott and the war department on his conference Saturday with Gen. Obregon, Mexican minister of war, officials said today the negotiations up to date had "been satisfactory." While Gen. Obregon has urged that the American troops be withdrawn, President Wilson, they said, has no intention of granting the request at the present, and is hopeful that an agreement will be reached for co-operation between American and Mexican troops in the pursuit of Villa and other bandits. Gen. Scott has been instructed to continue to press for such an agreement.

Definite final proposals have not yet been reached in the border conference, it was authoritatively stated at the war department. A long code dispatch from Gen. Scott arrived early today. Secretary Baker, of the war department, expected to send supplementary advices to Gen. Scott, to reach him, if possible, before his second conference with Gen. Obregon. While it was officially ad-

LAST MINUTE NEWS

PROVIDES 180,000 AS ARMY'S PEACE STRENGTH

Washington, May 1.— A regular army of 180,000 men at peace strength has practically been agreed upon by senate and house conferees on the army bill. The bill as it passed the senate fixed the peace strength at 250,000 men.

TORPEDO MISSES SHIP BY BARELY TEN FEET.

New York, May 1.—The French passenger steamer Patria, which arrived here today from Naples and Palermo, reported that on her last outward bound voyage at 10 a. m. on April 5 she was the target of a submarine torpedo attack in the Mediterranean. The torpedo missed the ship by about ten feet the officer said.

MOTORCYCLE RIDER IN MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

When an automobile belonging to the Wayne garage and driven by Carl Kiester, 119 Clinton street, ran into C. Delegrange, of Harrison street, as the latter was riding his motorcycle at Ewing and Jefferson streets, at 10:45 Monday morning, Delegrange and his machine were crushed against a telephone pole at the curb. The motorcycle was crushed to pieces and Delegrange escaped with a smashed nose and some bruises about his legs. The automobile fenders and headlights were broken.

Fort Wayne Will Show Substantial Increase

While the taking of the school enumeration in Fort Wayne will not be completed before another week or ten days, it is reasonably certain that a substantial increase will be shown over last year. Decreases will be shown in both Wayne and Washington townships, however. In Washington township there were 645 children between the ages of six and twenty-one this year as compared with 663 last year.

Monroe, 529 children. Gain of 6.

ing which they were deprived of food until the authorities made provision for them. The supplies thus brought in were ample.

Down Cork Hill and King Edward streets strong guards of troops are still in evidence and every passerby is challenged.

The city hall had been occupied for several days by the rebels and even at this time snipers in houses in the vicinity were shooting at intervals.

Seven Hundred in Jail.

As the correspondent approached the castle a party of more than 100 captured members of the Sinn Fein marched by under an escort toward Richmond jail where more than 700 are now held. Many of the men were in green uniforms. One wore the uniform of the Irish volunteers and others were in civilian clothes. Numbers of them were wounded and suffering, but most of them held up their heads defiantly.

The soldiers escorting them were men who had fought all through the uprising and were even more bitter against their rebellious fellow countrymen than the troops brought over from England. This feeling seems to be shared by most of the population of Dublin.

St. Stephens Green, where the rebels entrenched themselves as soon as the movement was begun on Monday, was almost deserted. Around Trinity college and the old Irish parliament quiet reigned. The officers' training corps quartered in the college had done much to suppress the uprising.

Great Damage Done.

Great damage was done in Sacksville street and adjacent thoroughfares such as Middle Abbey, Abbey Mary and Henry streets. Only a few girders of some houses remain. Along the east side of Sackville street, from Henry street to O'Connell bridge, the buildings are battered beyond recognition. The postoffice is merely a smouldering framework. The stone Young Men's Christian Association building on the same side was perforated by eight shells, the Catholic club by two and the blind institution by two.

Bodies of slain rebels were being carried away in groups by soldiers, many of them having been shot several times.

When the authorities gave orders that the people might enter the streets today looting began. This was stopped shortly when the troops cleared the streets again and arrested every one who did not move promptly. In the debris was found a printed proclamation issued in the name of the provisional president of the republic, the text of which follows:

"The Provisional Government to the Citizens of Dublin:

"The provisional government of the Irish republic salutes the citizens of Dublin on the momentous occasion of the proclamation of a sovereign independent Irish state, now in course of being established by Irishmen in arms. Republican forces now hold the lines taken up at 12 noon Easter Monday and nowhere, despite the fierce and almost continuous attacks of British troops, have the lines been broken through."

Unofficial advices from Constantinople say that the Turks estimate at 20,000 men the losses of the British during March and April in Mesopotamia, where Gen. Townshend last week was forced to surrender his beleaguered army of some 10,000 men at Ku-el-Amara, on the Tigris. More than 500 British and Indian officers, including four generals, were taken at Kut.

Sinking of merchant vessels of the allies continues, the latest victim being the steamer City of Lucknow, of 3,669 tons.

A dispatch from a Constantinople news agency says the British troops at Kut-el-Amara had more than £1,000,000 in cash.

"General Townshend offered to surrender the town of Kut-el-Arama, with all his artillery and more than £1,000,000 in cash, on condition that he receive military honors," the dispatch says. "The Turks declined, whereupon the British surrendered unconditionally." The Turkish commander in chief, Halil Pasha, permitted Gen. Townshend (the British commander) to retain his sword.

mitted that Gen. Obregon had "suggested" withdrawal from Mexico of the United States expedition, officials said these overtures had not been in the form of a demanw, that no peremptory or unalterable position had been taken by either side. General Scott, is was explained, had made counter suggestions to Gen. Obregon, proposing co-operative military measures.

That the conferences have not reached a deadlock was also stated on official authority. No measures have been taken on behalf of the United States, it was asserted, which preclude an amicable settlement.

Mexican Ambassador Arredondo will confer with Secretary Lansing this afternoon.

Instructions sent to Gen. Scott by Secretary Baker after conference with President Wilson and with Secretary Lansing are understood to make plain that whatever is agreed upon at the conference with Gen. Obregon, Gen. Carranza's minister of war, must not be based on any immediate recall of Gen. Pershing's forces.

EVERY WATCH TICK COSTS THEM $1,041

By Milton Bronner.

New York, May 1.—Every time the second hand of your watch ticks, the war has cost the warring nations of Europe something over $1,041. It is costing them $3,750,000 an hour, $90,000,000 per day and $650,000,000 per week.

By August 1 next, when the second year of the war will have ended, the gigantic conflict will have cost $45,000,000,000. These figures are presented in a special booklet on the war which the Mechanics and Metals National Bank of New York City will issue early in May.

According to the bank's figures, if warfare lasts until August 1, it will have cost Great Britain $11,600,000,000. The cost to Germany will have been a bit less than that and the figures for France will have been $9,250,000,000.

The total military expenditure of the warring nations for the first year of the conflict was $17,500,000,000. For the second year it will be 28 billions.

The aggregate of these amounts, according to the booklet, is a sum three times greater than the entire capitalization of the railways of the United States and four times greater than the total deposits of all our national banks.

Two years of the war will have cost six times more than our civil war, 40 times more than the amount of the national indebtedness of this country and 120 times more than the cost of the Panama canal. According to the computations made by the bank statisticians Great Britain's war expenditures are now $25,000,000 per day. The daily war cost of France is $18,000,000 and to Russia $15,500,000.

Discussing loans, the booklet says that loans of permanent character made by the entente reached a total of more than $12,000,000,000 while Germany and Austria borrowed $11,700,000,000. Large as these sums were, they financed little more than one-half the cost of the war, 20 billions having been obtained by temporary financing, taxation, issuance of paper money and other expedients. Thus at the same time that formal war loans offered to the people have gone beyond any credit operations known before, the money markets have been resorted to on a scale surpassing all precedent and resources of the central banks of the warring nations have been drawn upon to a large degree.

The financing thus far has been accomplished with comparative ease and without violently affecting rates in the money markets. Means to regulate these markets have been found, both in the issuance of paper money and in the elimination of all industrial financing that might be competitive with government loans.

ASKS DISSOLUTION DECREE.

Washington, May 1.—The government today filed a motion for a final dissolution decree in the anti-trust suit against the American Can company in the federal district court at Baltimore. It demands that corporation's property be disposed of and that it be enjoined from acquiring any interest in more than one concern taking over can company plants.

Pigs Given Baths on Ranch Owned by Daughter of "Lucky" Baldwin

By M. C. Larkin.

Sierra Madre, Cal., May 1.—A ranch where pig pens are palaces, where pigs get baths once a week, where blooded cows are protected from flies by screen-paddocks—such a place is Santa Anita Rancho, owned and run by Anita M. Baldwin, daughter of the late E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, famous millionaire turfman and picturesque pioneer of the early-day West.

Santa Anita Rancho—3,600 acres—home ranch of "Lucky" Baldwin, headquarters for the vast 70,000-acre domain that stretched 12 miles in one direction by five in the other, lies in the fertile San Gabriel valley at the foot of the steep Sierra Madre mountains which threaten to topple over in the ranch.

Located on the rim of this now shrunken holding is "Arcadia," famous old race course where some of the country's best running classics have been staged. Arcadia has gone to rack.

"It will never be rebuilt," says Mrs. Baldwin, "for I do not approve of horse racing—at least not as conducted today.

Of the tremendous principality that once constituted Santa Anita Rancho, approximately 18,000 acres are left. Much of this is now selling at a price ranging from $1,000 to $6,000 an acre. But Santa Anita Rancho, the home of Baldwin, vacant, hid amid the trees, yet spic and span, a monument to the genius and foresight of its departed owner, will remain intact. And Mrs. Baldwin will farm it.

"It is a matter of sentiment with me, this ranch life," said "Lucky" Baldwin's daughter. "I am trying to carry out my father's ambition with Santa Anita, in perhaps a more modern way than he would have done."

To make it a model stock ranch is Mrs. Baldwin's ambition. Nothing but registered stock finds place at Santa Anita. Holstein cows, Berkshire hogs and fine Poland Chinas, thoroughbred English race horses Arabians and best blooded Percherons that weigh a ton when three years old—such is the stock Mrs. Baldwin is specializing in. She is crossing the Arabian with the English thoroughbred for polo ponies and cavalry mounts, thus producing a steed entirely new, fleet of foot and with phenomenal endurance.

"My ranch," says Mrs. Baldwin, "must be practical and artistic."

Geraniums grow around the piggery, which is scrubbed every day, and peacocks strut about, spreading their gorgeous plumage. The nostrils of the visitor are not offended by the filth-smell with which most pig sties reek. The pigs are dipped once a week to prevent disease.

Every new building on the ranch is of reinforced concrete, of mission-style architecture, fireproof and sanitary, designed by Mrs. Baldwin.

The management of Santa Anita Rancho is largely directed from an office on the 13th floor of a building in Los Angeles, 16 miles away. Here, behind a desk in much the fashion of a general directing an army, sits Mrs. Baldwin, her finger on the pulse of every department at the ranch. She knows the record of every animal, its physical condition and all pertaining to it by merely referring to the charts that the foremen of the various departments have turned in. Telephones communicate with every department. Needed information is supplied on demand over the wire. In case of sickness a veterinarian is at hand for any animal on the ranch.

Afternoons Mrs. Baldwin spends in the office; mornings on the ranch. She has personal knowledge of all that goes on, in addition to the reports of her various bosses. The hog boss is an expert; the dog boss is like him; also the dairyman, the hostler who handles the percherons, the man who handles the jacks and mules, and all the rest of them.

In time Mrs. Baldwin hopes to have 10,000 thoroughbred hogs, 500 Holsteins and as many registered horses as she has pasturage for.

Mrs. Anita M. Baldwin, owner of Santa Anita Rancho. "Failsworth White Knight," world's best English bull; prize Arabian stallion and Poland China sow and litter, three types of the many thoroughbred animals on her ranch.

Her start is the best in the world. Her kennels house 40 dogs, among them the world's best English bull, "Failsworth White Knight;" the best male and female of the Airdale breed—"Tintern Tiptop" and "Cherrytree Queen." A dairy not yet two years old has already broken the state record for seven days production of butter fat from one cow, and more records are forthcoming.

"Although sentiment and not love of agriculture made me a farmer," said Mrs. Baldwin, "I find I like it very much. I have always been a great lover of horses—a love inherited, perhaps, from my father. I would rather handle animals than to deal with most people. It is more satisfactory."

Mrs. Baldwin possesses rare musical talent. She wrote the incidental music for Richard Walton Tully's "Omar the Tentmaker." On a recent visit to the ranch the famous playwright tried to induce Mrs. Baldwin to give up ranching and turn to music.

"Wasting your time," is the way he expressed it, "and the world is being deprived of a great composer."

THEY TAX CLASSES TO EDUCATE MASSES

Costa Rica Has a Rather Interesting Theory of Taxation.

By Roger W. Babson.

San Jose, Costa, Rica, May 1.—I must not close my letters from Costa Rica without a word concerning Alvarola Gonzolez, the president. Gonzolez is a progressive of the best type.

I have some time interviewed the presidents of most of the republics south of us, but seldom a man equal to Gonzolez.

The presidents of most of the South and Central American countries are aristocrats from rich families. There is very little taxation of land in these countries because the old families, which control the most of the land, take care to have one of their own people for president.

The president of Costa Rica, however, has come from the middle class.

In Latin-America, 10 per cent. of the people are rich; 15 per cent. are of the middle class, and 75 per cent. are very poor. Gonzolez is a young progressive, who has worked himself up to the highest office in the land, by industry, foresight, courage and good habits.

At the time of my writing he was devoting all his attention to the study of taxation. He believes that there is enough in the world for everyone who is willing to work; but the trouble is with the inheritance and taxation laws which keep men from equal opportunities.

He believes there is prosperity enough, but that it is not properly distributed.

He questions whether the solution will come through labor unions, which he thinks seem to raise prices as well as wages.

So far as I can learn the progressives of Costa Rica believe that the solution lies in better education for the masses, taxing the land owners to pay the bill.

If this means a practical industrial training and a form of taxation which the classes cannot pass on to the ultimate consumers, I say "Amen."

ANDERSON HAS ANNIVERSARY.

E. G. Anderson, well known tea and coffee merchant, observed an unusual anniversary on Monday. It was just seventy years ago on this date that Mr. Anderson located in Fort Wayne. He likes the city so well, too, that he hopes to remain another seventy years, a desire in which his numerous friends will most cordially join him.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME!

JOHN, GO OUT THERE AND GET NORMAN AND HIS BICYCLE—THAT OLDEST CLAYTON BOY RIDES IT ALL THE TIME AND NORMAN, THE LITTLE GOOSE, RUNS ALONGSIDE—IT'S FIERCE THE WAY THOSE BIGGER BOYS TAKE HIS PLAYTHINGS!

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN IS MAKING PROGRESS

Plans Are Rapidly Going Forward for the Start on May 16.

Plans are rapidly going forward for the big campaign for a modern city Young Men's Christian association to be conducted May 16-26. The probability of including a new home for the railroad men increases the magnitude and importance of the movement. It will be the largest and most important campaign ever undertaken in the history of Y. M. C. A. work in Indiana.

In this day and generation the Young Men's Christian association is recognized and appreciated as one of the most vital factors in making for efficient manhood. It will be the purpose and constant aim of such an organization in Fort Wayne to cater to all the legitimate needs of every man and boy in the community and make the institution a home and a help to all the young men of Allen county without any distinction as to wealth, social position, political or religious affiliation.

Fort Wayne now stands alone in Indiana as much the largest city without a city Young Men's Christian association and is conspicuous throughout the the entire country as being one of the largest cities in the United States without such organized work.

The steady growth of Fort Wayne makes it still more imperative for a Young Men's Christian association in full operation. Manufacturers weigh, as never before, the moral and constructive forces in a community, when seeking new locations, and some have even passed cities otherwise well qualified to locate in one having a Young Men's Christian association. They find that even flowers in their factory yards increase the efficiency of their employees. Men cannot live as they should without elevating influences, and those thoroughly organized and made permanent, such as that now contemplated, benefit the entire community directly and indirectly beyond estimate. Our city is essentially an organism; it may grow along the line of least resistance or along the lines of steady upbuilding. The proper display of public enterprise and co-operative effort at this time will make possible a $250,000 or $300,000 association plant and place Fort Wayne conspicuously in the forefront among cities of similar size.

To raise $250,000 or $300,000 in Fort Wayne at any time is no insignificant task, but the present incentive is exceptionally strong for a combined effort and a generous demonstration of self-sacrifice and public spirit. Other cities have succeeded, notwithstanding serious obstacles; WHY NOT FORT WAYNE?

LOSES RACE WITH DEATH.

Lafayette, Ind., May 1.—Charles A. Gallagher, 41, of Rensselaer, Ind., lost in a race with death yesterday. He was visiting at the home of his sister in Remington when he was taken violently ill with hemorrhage of the stomach. Physicians advised that the only chance of saving his life was by an operation and he was placed in an automobile and rushed to a hospital in this city. As the automobile carrying the afflicted man entered the hospital grounds he died.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

NOBLE COUNTY PIONEER DIES.

Wolf Lake, Ind., May 1.—Jonas E. Mayfield, an aged pioneer resident of this place was buried here Sunday. The deceased was born in Ohio, February 17, 1834, and was age 82 years 2 months and 12 days at the time of his death. He was a son of John and Romy Mayfield, and when nine years old moved to Noble county with them. He spent his early life at home and when a young man was united in marriage to Matilda Grimes, who survives. To this union five children were born, three of whom survive: Bert Mayfield, of Wolf Lake; Ernest Mayfield, of this city, and Mrs. Jasper Coppert, of Thornecreek township. Besides the children one brother, James Mayfield, of Fort Wayne, and one sister, Mrs. Jane Carrier, of Noble county, also survive him.

KENDALLVILLE ENUMERATION.

Kendallville, Ind., May 1.—There are 1,174 persons of school age in Kendallville, three less than a year ago, according to the enumeration just completed by Mrs. H. E. Seibert. The report of Mrs. Seibert is now on file with the school board, and the board in turn will file a report with the county clerk. From this number of school children the amount of school funds to be appointioned to this city will be determined. Of the children of school age 557 are females and 615 males; colored 2. Of the 1,174 school children, 944 are attending school. There are 222 children employed in regular occupation, 112 males and 110 females; eight are unemployed, five males and three females.

FRANK VETRI. MRS. JOSEPH CASTELLO.

Frank Vetri, a deaf mute, who the police say confessed he slew Mrs. Joseph Castello, also a deaf mute, is the prime factor in the strangest "loveless triangle" ease the New York police have ever hed to deal with.

With no apparent qualms of conscience, Vetri told the police how he "eloped" with Mrs. Castello to New Haven. Her husband was there and watched the couple in their rooms.

Vetri is credited with saying that at a signal from the husband, who lurked in a closet, Vetri battered his woman companion over the head with an iron bar and left her for dead. Being a mute the woman could only struggle in silence.

"Castello didn't love his wife and wanted to get rid of her." That is all the excuse for the crime Vetri is said to have offered, "I knew him at the deaf mute school and was a friend of his. So I was willing to put her out of the way."

CHURCH DEDICATION.

Middlepoint, O., May 1.—Yesterday was a glad day for the United Brethren people of Bethel church, four miles north of here, the occasion being the dedication of their new $8,000 church. Dr. J. M. Phillipi, editor of the Religious Telescope, of Dayton, O., assisted by Rev. M. R. Ballinger, conference superintendent, were in charge of the services. The building is a brick, modern in every respect, and reflects great credit on the people of that community. The trustees are Adam Miller, George Snyder, G. W. Wagoner, A. R. Evensole and Arthur Cauder, who, with the noble pastor, Rev. R. E. Tussing, have worked with a will for the completion of this beautiful church.

WHITLEY TEACHERS WED.

Columbia City, Ind., May 1.—Lloyd Sheldon Crouch and Miss Mildred Kime were quietly united in marriage Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. Kime, on north Washington street, by Rev. J. Thomas Bean. Only relatives and close friends of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony which was simple and impressive. More than usual interest attaches to this wedding, owing to the prominence of the contracting parties. Both the bride and groom have wide acquaintance in this county, as they have taught school and taken active parts in the social life of this and surrounding communities.

ACQUITTED OF BOOTLEGGING.

Hartford City, Ind., May 1.—Another trial on a charge of bootlegging has ended in favor of the defense. The jury in the case of the state against Ralph Mullins, charged with selling whisky to Arthur Clark, deliberated for three hours and rendered a verdict of not guilty. The jury took ten ballots. Following the outcome of the case, Prosecutor Sprague dismissed a second affidavit which was pending against Mullins, in which he was charged with selling intoxicating liquor to Grant Sebring.

STROKE MAY PROVE FATAL.

Warsaw, Ind., May 1.—Asbury Cook, councilman of the Third ward, lies in a critcial condition at his home as a result of a stroke of paralysis which came upon him early Thursday morning. Mr. Cook's condition has been serious since he was stricken. Relatives have been summoned. Mr. Cook is past 70 years of age but has been active in his personal affairs and in looking after the interests of the city and his ward. He has had little sickness in recent years and seemed to be in the best of health until suddenly stricken Thursday morning.

AUBURN'S SLOGAN IS 10,000.

Auburn, Ind., May 1.—"Auburn, 10,000 population in the next five years," is the new slogan of the Auburn Commercial club. Enthusiasm in the club is reaching a high pitch and at the "get together" meeting and supper at the Coliseum nearly every member of the club old and new was present. The membership of the organization now nears the 300 mark, over 150 new members having been added in the campaign for new members which started several weeks ago.

HELD ON GIRL'S COMPLAINT.

Bluffton, Ind., May 1.—Roy Creek, a young man living in Chester township, is under arrest here on a warrant issued from the court of Squire J. R. Rinehart following the filing of paternity proceedings in which the relatrix is Miss Ida E. Fear, a Blackford county young woman. She is represented in the case by Attorney Ash G. Emshwiller, of Hartford City.

SLOW FILING EXPENSE ACCOUNTS.

Van Wert, Ohio, May 1.—Up to date there has been only a few of the candidates at the last election who have filed their expense accounts with Clerk of the Election Board D. J. Gunsett. Under the provisions of the law, candidates are allowed until May 5, or 10 days after the election in which to file their accounts and in case this is not done, they forfeit their right to election.

BALKED BY BROTHER.

Suitors of Kansas City Heiress Can Get No License to Wed.

Kansas City, Mo., May 1.—Fearing some one might attempt to marry his sister, who is reputed to have an income of $300 a month from Oklahoma oil lands, Andrew A. Dunlap, 2708 Quindaro boulevard, requested Judge John T. Sims of the Wyandotte county probate court not to issue a marriage license in case she applied for one. The sister is Queen Victoria Jackson. She is 17 years old and one-eighth Creek Indian. She recently came here to reside with her brother. "Seven men tried to get my sister to marry them when her land holdings became valuable," Dunlap told Judge Sims. "She is too young to marry."

"Growing For You"

By Will Seaton

JENNY LEE came slowly down Mile street from the Herrick house on the hill, where she had been sewing all day. The evening was so warm that the coat she had needed in the morning felt uncomfortable now, and she had thrown it back on her shoulders. She was late in getting home because she had stayed to tea. In Westmore a seamstress is entitled to two meals as well as to a dollar, which in Jenny's case was a real godsend.

As she walked Jenny thought dreamily of the pretty things she had worked upon all day—the sheer, lace-trimmed linens which Bess Herrick was to wear under her wedding gown. Jenny had always made Bess Herrick's clothing, and, although the beautiful satin wedding gown was beyond her skill, she was fashioning the things that went with it. She had even seen the gown itself, which had arrived that day from the city—a pearly robe, with a veil like morning mist. But it was less the dress she remembered than the lifted radiance of Bess's young face as she cried: "Oh, Jenny, don't you wish you were me?"

Jenny Lee was tired tonight—tired in body and spirit. She dragged along like a bird with both wings broken. Mile street streamed with lighted cars, whose occupants were cooling off after the heat and stress of the day. Jenny had to wait a long time at a crossing before she could get sufficient courage to pass over. Then she moved down a shabby, old, quiet street which grew darker and quieter and shabbier the farther she went. At the very end was her house.

Two generations of Lees had occupied the house before it came to Jenny. It was a little gray house like a hornet's nest. On either side of the yard were palings, but the front was open to the street. Here crowded Jenny's flowers, some of which were descendants of her grandmother's posies. Soft waves of perfume rose into the night air. They came forward to greet Jenny. She could distinguish the odor of spice pink, blush roses, and white nancies. She loved best the white nancies for an old, sweet, simple reason of her own. As she went up the narrow path she reached out and broke a bit from the nearest white flower cluster and pressed it to her face. Its sweetness and the memory of Bess Herrick's wedding dress set her heart aching.

Jenny opened the door. The close, cosy breath of her home breathed upon her. The room was not more than gray dark, for the moon was floating up like a white globule. Jenny took off her hat. She started to take off her gray coat, and then she changed her mind. She also removed the chimney from the lamp and started to strike a match, but changed her mind about that also.

"I'm always changing my mind," she thought. "It has been my curse."

She dropped down into the nearest chair and submitted herself to reflection. "I wish I hadn't seen that dress," she thought. "I wish they hadn't asked me to make those bridal things. It brings it all back. It has seemed all day as if—" A sob came into her throat. She tried to swallow it. "Why, if he was right here in the room with me he couldn't be any nearer than he has been all day."

The small, warm room choked her. A puff of air came in at the open door, freshly scented with the night's distillations. The room became very dark in the corners, but across the floor under the window the moon's white glance grew. Jenny sat staring at it. "It's a pretty night," she thought. "I guess I won't light up at all. I guess I'll just go to bed by the moonlight."

She rose to close the door, but paused to look out. The flowers seemed to sigh, the moonbeams to beckon. "I might sit on the porch a few minutes," she thought. "I'm not very sleepy."

On either side the little old-fashioned latticed porch was a wooden settee. Jenny sat down. With her hands folded, she looked wistfully at the flowers which breathed and rocked in the moonlight. She looked until she ceased to see or think or move. She had fallen asleep.

Slowly, as if she were being pulled out the depths of languor, she opened her eyes. A shred of dream clung to her. She seemed to hear a voice and to behold a face which long years before had passed out of her life. The moon was right over the house, and its light came down in a broad white flood. Under it the flowers stood still, as if waiting for something to happen. Something had happened. A man stood half way down the coal ash path bending over the tangle of white nancies. His hat was in his hand. He stood motionless as if he had forgotten himself. His face, the curve of his head the square line of his spare, trim shoulders had almost a photographic clearness to Jenny's staring eyes.

She knew, of course, that she was asleep and dreaming. She dreamed that John Mortimer stood there in the moonlight gazing at the flowers he had always admired. Oh, if she might die before she awoke! Ah, but she was awake all the time! This man moved. She rose to her feet. He came toward her. She heard him say, "They said I should find her here." Then she advanced fully into his view.

"I am here," she said.

They stood looking at each other, half bewildered, half curious. She saw him hold out his hand and she reached forth her hand to meet it. This brought them a little nearer still.

"Well, it is a long time since I was here last," he said.

She nodded. "Twenty-one years next month. The 17th, Thursday."

"Yes. I hadn't forgotten. The trumpet vine has grown some. That's about the only change I see." He gazed at her eagerly.

"About the only change," Jenny replied. She sank down upon the step and he took his seat beside her. They gazed at the garden in silence.

"I notice you're still growing white nancies," he remarked at last.

This seemed to drag Jenny out of her daze. "Yes," she replied.

"I carried one of those flowers with me clear to Argentina," he said. "It was that brought me back—partly." He drew forth his pocketbook, opened it and showed her a carefully preserved, pressed flower. "It's gone wherever I've gone for twenty-one years. I guess it's been a kind of talisman. You see, they didn't grow white nancies down there. So I kept this one. And now I've brought it back. Funny, isn't it?" But the catch in his voice did not sound as though he thought so. "Jenny," he asked, tentatively, "did you ever wish that—that you'd gone with me that time?"

"Oh, John!" Her voice came in a sob. "If you knew how I have wished! God only knows what made me change my mind. I wanted to go with you, but that night—" She shivered. He put his arm about her and drew her gently nearer. "That night," she went on, more bravely, "it was just such a night as this. Remember? The white nancies were all out and it was all so sweet and familiar and cosy. I couldn't bear to leave it. And father and mother were coaxing me to stay. I never did have much mind of my own, and when they said that if you really cared you would stay with me instead of making me go with you—"

"I guess there was some truth in that," he said sadly. "I was wild for adventure, and I didn't understand all I was asking you to do. I have since. But I never heard. I thought probably you'd married. And then I said to myself: 'I'll just go back and look at the white nancies anyhow.'"

He kissed her tenderly. Jenny's face was sweeter than any flower under the moonlight as she lifted it to his. "John," she murmured, "the white nancies—I—I—I've kept them growing—for you!"

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING

Proverbs 6:1-15.

1 My son, if thou be surety for thy friend, if thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger,

2 Thou art snared with the words of thy mouth, thou are taken with the words of thy mouth.

3 Do this now, my son, and deliver thyself, when thou art come into the hand of thy friend; go, humble thyself, and make sure thy friend.

4 Give not sleep to thine eyes, nor slumber to thine eyelids.

5 Deliver thyself as a roe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise;

7 Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler,

8 Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest.

9 How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleep?

10 Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep:

11 So shall thy poverty come as one that traveleth, and thy want as an armed man.

14 Frowardness is in his heart, he deviseth mischief continually; he soweth discord.

Let the Auto Drivers Help.

City authorities in their attempt to find the best solution of the traffic problem involved in the parking of automobiles in the down-town district have no easy task confronting them, and they should be given the fullest co-operation by car owners and car drivers. Disposition of the hundreds of cars that are parked in the business district daily has become a very serious matter by reason of the narrowness of Fort Wayne's streets and the practice of allowing many of the cars to be parked for many hours at a time. In some streets double lines of autos left standing at the curb narrow the space left open for traffic to a degree that not only produces marked congestion but adds a definite element of danger. This danger is tremendously increased, too, by the possibility of alarms of fire and the necessity for the fire apparatus making hurried runs through the narrow lanes between the machines. A moment's reflection will bring home a full realization of the seriousness of the situation.

There is now being put into effect a new police regulation governing the parking of cars that is designed to permit the use of but one side of a street at a time for this purpose. To "play fair" in the matter the cars will be parked for a time on one side of the street, and then for a similar period the opposite side will be used, signs at all times designating the parking space for that particular day. The new system may prove successful, and it may prove a failure. It has not been completely worked out as yet, but it contains some elements of promise and there is the hope that it will help to eliminate to some degree the congestion and the traffic danger which is clearly apparent. The question is one in which the public is as deeply concerned as is the police department. Let the public lend its assistance gladly and without complaint in giving the new system a thorough trial and making it as effective as possible.

It is eighteen years ago today—May 1, 1898—since Admiral Dewey won his epoch-marking victory over the Spanish fleet in the Philippine islands, utterly wiping out his foes without the loss of a warship and with scarcely the loss of a man. The intervening years have brought us somewhat of trouble and much of responsibility in the orient, but the achievement in development and progress there has been a wonderful demonstration of American benevolence and American efficiency. And Admiral Dewey's achievement remains an enduring tradition of the American navy—cherished in a history that embraces some of the most brilliant achievements of all the world's sea fighters.

Judge Deery, in the city court at Indianapolis, Saturday summed up an impressive truth in a few words when he addressed three youths who were before him on charges of gaming. "The prisons are full of men who started out in life thinking they could make an easy living with dice and cards," said Judge Deery. "The coroner's records are full of cases of men who committed suicide when they finally learned that they could not make easy money by gambling. The only place dice will lead you to is ruination." Judge Deery spoke, too, from a position which gives him unusual opportunity to observe. He knows definitely the conditions of which he was speaking.

The Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange will this week hold its annual banquet, and it may be pardoned if it indulges in a bit of justifiable pride in its accomplishments. The Real Estate exchange has in many ways demonstrated its value to the community. It is first, foremost and always a consistent booster for the city. It has standardized the real estate business locally, brought it to a higher plane than it had heretofore enjoyed and infused tremendously the spirit of optimism and civic pride and progress. Fort Wayne owes much to her real estate men.

California women vote without any dictation and are amply equal to managing their affairs, declares a writer on political conditions in that state. And who believes there would be any occasion to dictate to woman regarding the vote? Will anybody contend that the rank and file of women are not as well qualified to exercise the right of franchise intelligently as are the rank and file of the male voters?

Colonel Roosevelt has come out squarely for nation-wide woman suffrage, declaring his belief that the time has come for a greater and truer nationalism in this country, and that one important step in that direction is to give the woman the right of the ballot. Colonel Roosevelt can get no argument out of The Sentinel on this question. He's right about it.

It is given out at Washington that congress has reached a sort of understanding that it will practically knock off work during the two weeks the national conventions are held at Chicago and St. Louis. But could you seriously expect anybody to keep his mind on statesmanship at such a time as that?

Harmless and docile they look in their serapes and sombreroes, only their beady eyes peering from the mufflings that hide them and make them look piteous and lazy.

But put them on a horse and hand them a rifle—they become bloodthirsty brigands, with hatred of the "gringoes" in their veins and the lust to kill Americans in their hearts.

These are the type of Mexicans that crept silently up to sleeping Columbus, tethered their horses behind a rocky hill and sneaked up the dry ditch under the railroad tracks into the heart of town.

These are the men whose cry of "Vivi Mejico! Viva Villa!" brought terror to Columbus and sent men and women scurrying from their homes to be shot dead in the village streets.

ADVERTISING RELIGION.

(Kansas City Star.)

One big thing Billy Sunday is certainly going to accomplish in Kansas City. For the next few weeks he is going to make religion a first page story. He is going to make it the thing most thought about and talked about. He is going to force it on the attention of tens of thousands of persons who have given it no attention before.

In so far as the spirit of real religion permeates the city it will have its outward effect in making Kansas City a better place to live in—a place where people give attention to a fuller measure of justice, to better sanitation and living conditions, and to getting rid of unwholesome conditions that tend to demoralize the community.

"What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy, and "to walk humbly with thy God?"

FORT WAYNE'S GREATEST BARGAIN STORE.

"BABY CAT" MOTHERS INCUBATOR CHICKS AND DUCKLINGS.

"Baby Cat," a prize Angora, on the ranch of Robert Bungey, near Venice, Cal., is having her paws full, so to speak. A short time ago "Baby Cat" lost her entire family. It is rumored that her kittens were put in a sack with a rock and drowned.

Anyway, after a short period of grief, "Baby Cat" turned her affections to twelve little chicks and two ducklings that had just been liberated from an incubator. At first her maternal misgivings were scorned by the brood of chicks and the ducklings. With natural instinct they feared her. But "Baby Cat" finally succeeded in convincing the fluffy little "peepers" that she was earnest and sincere in her desire to mother them, so the tiny brood permitted itself to be adopted.

Now with all the care of a hen this cat mothers the chicks. She will not eat the food put before her until her family has had its fill. And she will not permit any other feline to come near, nor even her old friends the bird dogs.

At the least sign of danger the chicks and ducklings seek safety with the cat just as they would with a natural mother. At night they cuddle into her long fur and sleep. "Baby Cat" is young and the family of kittens she lost was her first.

Bungey, her owner, who is a well known sportsman, says he expects to see some fun when the chicks reach the wandering age and the ducks go swimming.

Ashtabula, O., May 1.—"I am 37 years old, blonde complexion and hair the same. I will wear a blue serge tailor-made suit, short skirt and white shoes. The skirt will just come to the shoe tops, and white hose will be peeping out. I will be chewing gum and carrying a black bag. Meet me at the postoffice between 4 and 5 o'clock."

With these words, "Mrs. Annie Thompson, widow, general delivery, Chicago, Ill." favored Jedediah Silverton, 53, Ashtabula county farmer, with a tryst which Jedediah fully expected to net him a bride.

The Ashtabulan let his spring planting "go Gallagher" and hied away to the Windy City. One hour before the appointed time, Jedediah was at the trysting place, kicking up his heels and eating lemon drops from a paper bag lest he betray his nervousness.

At 7 p. m. he entered the south Clark street police station and gave vent to his feeling to Lieutenant McCauley as follows:

"I jes' wanted to tell the town marshal that the bunco game is still flourishin.' They all had short skirts and white shoes. I counted 721 of 'em, by ginger. In all my born days I never saw so much stockin'. I've got to say one thing for the Chicago wimmen—they've got mighty slick ankles."

COMMITTEES NAMED FOR TENT MEETINGS

Rev. J. A. Nipper Speaks at ... Men's Christian League.

At a men's mass meeting at the First Baptist church, Sunday afternoon, a large number of committees were named and other arrangements were made for a series of union tent meetings to be held here the latter part of June and the first of July, on the site of the Lyon tabernacle, northwest corner of Ewing and Main streets.

The following committees were named: On place, E. A. K. Hackett, chairman; C. H. Worden, Prof. F. M. Price, S. F. Bowser and James Menefee; on equipment, Charles Easley, chairman; Theodore Mann, Frank Poole, J. O. Brown and E. M. Osborn; publicity, Robert Bradley, chairman; F. Y. Gross, E. H. Clifford, Roy Woodhal and J. W. Bair; finance, Clinton R. Willson, chairman; Robert Bradley, sr., J. B. Mills, F. W. Miles and J. M. Thiebolt; delegations, E. H. Hughes, chairman, to fill his own committee; ushers, W. N. Ballou, Geo. Meiers, Earl Ege, M. J. Bacheldor and Fred Duryea.

The general committee for the meetings is composed of Rev. O. E. Tomes, chairman; Rev. J. A. Nipper, W. N. Ballou and C. J. Hutchinson. Fred Todd is chairman of the committee on arrangements for a flying squadron to be named to announce the meetings in every church, Men's Bible classes and Young People's societies from now on until June.

Rev. Nipper Speaks.

Rev. O. E. Tomes told of the purpose of the union revivals and was followed by Rev. J. A. Nipper, the principal speaker of the afternoon.

Rev. Nipper spoke on "Fort Wayne's Greatest Need." His text was "Jesus Entering Jerusalem," Mark xi:11. He declared that the greatest need of every city is to be in a good spiritual condition.

"When the Men's Christian League was organized it was to do a two-fold work, religious and civic, and we have shown our power along civic lines, and one thing we must not do, and that is to be a lopsided organization; we must do something to show our power along spiritual lines; we must be constructive as well as destructive," he said.

"When Jesus entered Jerusalem, He was that city's greatest need, which is also true of this city," he continued. "If we, as a form of nature, will obey and will make Him the center of attraction, and will make a sacrifice, Jesus will make a successful entry into our city whether the weather is hot or not, as it is up to us to regulate the temperature of this meeting," he said.

The speaker told of two procession records in Luke: one a procession of death, and the other a procession of life, which is in connection with the young man that died within the gates of the city of Nain and told how Jesus represented the procession of life, and the man the procession of death, and that when life came in contact with death, death was made alive, and said that the Men's Christian League was that procession of life, and should go out next June to meet the procession of death, speaking of those that were dead in trespass and sin, and that if they, as a form of nature, would obey and make sacrifice and make Him the center of attraction, could be that procession of life, and by coming in touch with the procession of death, could make those that were dead in trespass and sin alive in Christ.

RURODE'S FASHION LETTER

WORTH READING

NEW YORK has broken forth in the most extraordinary eruption of shoes! Any bright spring matinee day, on Fifth avenue about the luncheon hour is the best vantage point in time and location to observe it—and it demands to be seen! High shoes, low shoes, pumps and spats, white shoes, yellow shoes, beige shoes, brown shoes, tan shoes, black shoes, pale gray and drab shoes—shoes of every conceivable combination and shade of kid, but chiefly shoes of white and light shades.

And it is not a local eruption. It is an all-American showing of rather wide extent, for New York has a sample of every section of the country just now—a city packed, jammed with people from everywhere. For Americans are all in America this year, and flocking North from the Southern resorts. Any day, now, is Fifth avenue's "At Home" day, where you can see the Fifth avenue throng at its smartest, most typical and bewildering best.

Distracting thoughts arise within me when I gaze upon this eruption of shoes and consider, as every woman shopper must, whitherward are we rushing in this gallant charge of extravagantly-clad feet. Because all this smart footgear of the season is costing tremendously. Shoes have gone up in every particular—in importance to a woman's toilet with the fashion in short skirts, in height of cut to meet the short skirts, and in price as the result of the extreme rise in the price of leather.

Speaking of how much it is costing this season for women's clothes, do you realize why you had to pay so much more for your spring suit? Think of the yardage of the smart new skirts! Then do a little sum in arithmetic, multiplying the increased price of dress goods by the increased yardage required for the new styles, and you have the answer!

And, to speak of the styles, according to the custom of dressmakers madame has finally insisted on her waistline, and the custom dressmakers are dressing women of all ages with due regard to the natural curves of the figure, the waistlines being indicated with adorable girdles.

The stylish curve of the season, as shown by the high-class custom made clothes, is admirably illustrated in the new Redfern corset models. I find my own new Redfern delightful, so much more comfortable than the old slip-shod styles, it supports so snugly and nicely, yet gives so readily to every move I make.

This is a season of silks, and although the cold weather has been loath to release any of the latest spring suits to a shivering public yet a proportion of the new taffeta and black satin suits have been seen abroad. The cloth suits made an earlier appearance, and if anything is to be noted not heretofore set down, it is that the flare of the hips in the new plain-tailored models is seen everywhere and is the one most conspicuous difference between last season's spring suits and those of 1916.

Taffeta and soft silks, plaid and printed, appear in the new dress, with much Georgette crepe combined, and the hips are emphasized by much fullness or trimming features. The skirts are very voluminous and puffy, and the quaint pinked ruchings and shirrings and smockings and little rufflings take one back to grandmother's leisurely days when there was time for the setting of many stitches. Today—Tra, la, la! That's what you pay for in those darling little frocks from the Fifth avenue shops—increased cost of material, increased yardage of the new styles, plus the setting of many stitches—labor.

These be parlous days for the shopper!

But there are the loveliest things to be seen in the shops that you actually can't resist; some of the new silks, for instance. The smart, handsome gros grain with satin coin spots as big as a dollar, in plain, smart colors, is the very latest appeal.

And the blouses that are so very perky and stylish and cost more than a frock—some of them—especially the new Russian blouses in silk and the jaunty little coatees! The new stand-away neck effect which Paris thinks so charming and is putting into so many models is not extending to the blouses to any extent, though you see ever so many very extreme ideas along that line in the dresses.

The prettiest idea in neckwear for wear with handsome blouses is straight from Paris and is sold at the jewelry counter. It is a little cravat of velvet, satin or moire, with a band around the neck, the knot and ends of the six-inch four-in-hand beaded with silver or cut steel or decorated with a filigree. And there is a new girdle which is merly a chain of Chinese beads connected with silver links.

Millinery runs to sport hats in gorgeous and conspicuous colors and designs to match the awning-stripe skirts and the silk sweaters—some of it in rose-colored straw hand painted in stripes or flowers, and some of it bright orange and of satin, to select two startling types—or to the most sombre of shiny black tailored hats of Lisere or Milan straw with stiff little bows or rosettes or cockades of ribbon or some bit of feather novelty very nifty and severe. Half of the new hats are big brimmy sailors, sometimes turned up a bit on one side, and the other half are toques and helmets, close shapes that loom right up into the air with a very wide, stiff ribbon fluted or ruffled or plaited into a standing flange of black trimming on one side or all around. The modifications show an increasing use of flowers covering the crown of the hat or little tufts of ostrich stuck askew here and there on the brim of an otherwise severely plain rolled shape of stiff straw.

And the new circular veils, the pattern designed from the center out and with a border, are the final touch of elegance to the millinery. And expensive! The hat is a mere item compared to the veil.

The brain of woman could not have conceived a season ago the infinite variety of uses to which ribbon has been put in the spring fashions. Evening gowns, in many cases, are no more than a few yards of wide ribbon and a few yards of lace combined with three or four ounces of silver sequins. And some of the prettiest blouses and afternoon frocks are literally made of ribbon. But it is the use of ribbon in trimming hats, in neckwear, and in the unconsidered trifles that complete the toilet that there is an amazing ingenuity shown.

Eighteenth century fans and lognons and vaporish vanities are coming to tea at the Plaza via the twentieth century limousines, and shops are showing them in a profusion of exquisite fancies that need fear no duplication in cheaper styles.

The very latest loveliness is colored neckwear—but before it is quite a fashion it has become a notorious popularity!

Yours faithfully,

New York, April 29, 1916 ANNE HEATON CHANNING

Here is a scene in the courtroom at Deming, N. M., when seven of the Villistas who raided Columbus and were captured by United States troops, were sentenced to death by Judge Edward L. Medler for the murder of American citizens.

One of the Mexicans, badly wounded, had to be brought to court on a cot. One limped on a crutch; one's head was bandaged so his face hardly could be seen.

PITTSBURG IS TIED UP BY CAR STRIKE

Pittsburg, May 1.—Thousands of persons were compelled to either walk or ride in automobiles or big drays to work today as a result of the strike of street car men, which began shortly after midnight. Operations were completely suspended on all lines of the Pittsburg Railways companies in Pittsburg and vicinity and the Washington and Charleroi interurban lines, as well as on the Beaver and Washington local lines. President J. D. Callery announced that no attempt to operate cars would be made today.

The Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroads put on an extra local train in order to handle the increased crowds, while all the down town department stores and other business houses sent automobile delivery trucks to various sections of the city to gather up their employes.

The strike order was issued by T. J. Ward, president of the street car men's union, promptly at midnight and shortly after negotiations between the employes and officials of the company had been broken off. Members of the executive board were dispatched to the various car barns and motormen and conductors were instructed to finish their runs and then bring in their cars. No disorder marked the start of the strike and within two hours after the order had been issued traction service had been tied up. In order to be ready should the officials of the company desire to reshme negotiations, members of the union committee remained at the labor temple throughout the night.

The strike affects 3,200 conductors and motormen and about 800 other employes of the company. The men first demanded 30, 35 and 38 cents an hour for respectively the first, second and third year's service, but later yielded to 30, 33 and 36 cents. The company refused to pay more than 32 cents as a maximum wage, two cents above the present rate.

John Dickson, former farm manager for the Indiana School for Feeble-Minded Youth, has been engaged to take charge of the Illinois farm of Thomas Wilson who, according to recent press dispatches, has risen from a mere office boy to the highest salaried executive in the country.

LOYALTY TO FORT WAYNE TO BE SHOWN

Hundreds Will Attend the Pageant Mass Meeting This Evening.

As an evidence of loyalty and a wish to do everything in their power to advance the interests of Fort Wayne, their home town, hundreds of men, women, boys and girls will assemble this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Shrine hall, West Main street and Maiden lane, in response to the general invitation to meet Donald Robertson, the pageant master.

All who are willing to take part on the production are urged to attend.

On this occasion Mr. Robertson will address the entire company concerning the greatness of the coming pageant and point out the way in which the people may have an active and necessary part in making it one of the most memorable events of the kind in the history of municipal pageants.

An Appeal to Loyalty.

Frank E. Stouder, chairman of the pageant committee, asks that all who feel the spirit of home pride welling up within, and who are willing to "boost" Fort Wayne, shall come to the mass meeting tonight. What is needed right now to make the pageant a glorious success is loyalty and hard work. The opportunity to show the one and do the other is now offered, and it is hoped that no one will pass it up. The children, as well as the older people, will be welcomed at the meeting tonight—that is, those who are of such age as to enter into the work with an understanding of its meaning and its responsibilities.

Building the Exposition.

Today Contractor Louis C. Delagrange and a force of workmen will begin the big task of transforming the baseball park and the surrounding territory into a suitable place for the holding of the great Industrial exposition. Mr. Delagrange's work will consist of the removal of long stretches of the present high-board fencing and the rebuilding of others to enclose the enlarged area; the construction of the exhibition booths, platforms, bandstands and other necessary equipment to care for the exhibits and the crowds.

A Mile and a Half of Booths.

Some idea of the magnitude of the task undertaken by the contractor may be gathered from the statement that the twenty-foot booths, if placed end to end, would stretch out to the extent of about eighteen city squares, equivalent to a mile and a half in length. With these handsomely decorated and fitted with live, sprightly exhibits—many of them showing the processes of manufacture of the goods displayed—the exposition will be a magnificent showing of Fort Wayne's place in the world of commerce, education and municipal advancement.

No Cheap Shows.

To the detriment of the welfare of the Industrial exposition, the word seems to have gone forward to the effect that carnival shows are to be a feature of the exposition. Such is exactly the opposite of the truth. The following assertion, which the Indiana Historical Commission is circulating throughout the state, is proof of the falsity of the thought:

"'Remember one thing! The Centennial celebration is no carnival.' This timely admonition from Chairman E. C. Miller, of Allen county, anent the approaching Fort Wayne celebration, should be taken as a keynote throughout the state. In reference to insistent promoters of cheap shows, he says: 'These clamoring would-be invaders are informed that Centennial week will not be marred by the presence of anything of a cheap or tawdry nature.'"

This is the Centennial idea. One twenty-five cent admission ticket takes the spectator into the exposition grounds and there he sees not only this mile-and-a-half of splendid Fort Wayne exhibits, but there is provided a large number of the highest-grade outdoor circus attractions. The association selects these acts themselves. The people who come to present them are paid by the association to put on the entertainment. The entertainments will be selected by representatives who will go directly to the concession people and make their choice after assuring themselves of the excellence of the attractions.

CHAMPION JERSEY IS DEAD.

Franklin, Pa., May 1.—"Passport," champion Jersey milker of the United States owned by former Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, is dead here. Her record was 19,694.8 pounds of milk a year.

TRIBUTE PAID TO DECEASED MEMBERS

Memorial Services Are Held by Local Order of Moose, Sunday.

Fitting tribute was paid Sunday afternoon to deceased members at the annual memorial services held by Fort Wayne lodge, No. 200, Loyal Order of Moose, in the auditorium of the new home at Wayne and Webster streets. Dictator James E. Ford, after opening the lodge in full form turned the meeting over to the degree team, of which James A. Majors is captain. The members of the degree team were seated in a semi-circle in front of the dictator's station and as the names of the deceased members were read by Secretary David C. Stout, members of the team left their seats and approached the altar, dropping carnations upon the holy bible and then took seats in different parts of the lodge room, leaving the chairs vacant. A. M. Groves delivered the address eulogizing the deceased brothers, and Harry H. Hilgemann the general eulogy.

K. of C.'s at Decatur.

Forty-seven candidates were given the three degrees at the joint initiation of candidates from Decatur and Huntington councils at the former place, Sunday. Fort Wayne Knights made the trip on a special interurban car. The second degree was conferred by the Fort Wayne team under the direction of Deputy Grand Knight C. Byron Hayes, and the third degree by District Reputy Stephan A. Callahan and staff, of this city. Members of the order were present from all the surrounding towns.

A party of ten young women who dined at the Wayne hotel on Sunday evening and afterwards entertained themselves at the New Palace theater were Misses Loretta Fletcher, Louise Glusenkamp, Cecilia Oddou, Emma Lade, Cecelia Creahan, Della and Edith Heck, Mamie and Hattie Wild and Bess Stauffer. The young women have been bowling a series of games in the alleys at St. Paul's Lutheran school hall and the losers were hosts.

Miss Florence Lang's recital on a week from tomorrow is interesting many people aside from her personal friends, as they are anxious to see what her long study in Chicago has done for her. Miss Lang is quite confident of her ability as she spent many months during the first of her Chicago lessons learning how to breathe and how to "place" her voice. To teh astonishment of Miss Lang's friends and somewhat to her own, her voice, which had been apparently a pure contralto in timbre and range, developed into a soprano of the dramatic type.

A pretty birthday party on Saturday afternoon was Miss Winona Yohannan's at her home, 1206 Fisher street. There were eighteen girl friends and they had all the popular things for a party such as a cake, ice cream and even more substantial dainties. Games were played and when each guest departed she had a basket of candy that had been given as a favor. The children were Thelma Bailey, Helen Howison, Gladys Lurch, Lucile Myers, Valette Strader, Hazel Velvick, Maria Dill, Burnell Bennett, Lottie Digman, Thelma Long, Ila Menefee, Menetta Smethers, Ruth Shrider, Florence and Eleanor Bruns, Ruth Wagoner and Freda Gordom.

The musicale and masquerade party held on Saturday afternoon in Minuet hall by the Minuet club and students of Prof. Marcels Thompson, was a great success. Two young students who played were Lloyd Grosvenor and Russell Cooper. More advanced piano pupils were Miss Hortense Grimme, who played the C sharp impromptu by Chopin, and a concert etude by MacDowell, and Miss Hilda Dibble, whose numbers were the D flat waltz, by Wieniawski, and an air de ballet by Moszkowski. Leslie Popp, accompanied by F. C. Church, sang. After the musical program Mr. Trier took charge of a dance program that lasted an hour. Games, roses for favors, refreshments were other pleasures of the afternoon.

Miss Helen Guth entertained a number of her friends Saturday evening at her home. Progressive bunco furnished the chief diversion of the company during the evening. At a late hour delicious refreshments were served. Music was furnished by Miss Fathland Samuel and Carl Kierspy. Prizes at progressive bunco were won by Mrs. John Swaidner. Miss Bertha Trautman and Messrs. Fred Einseidel and Edward Beam. Those who participated in the good time were Misses Selma Bleich, Louise West, Esther Degitz, Virginia Rogers, Bertha Trautman, Ida Trautman, Fathland Samuel, Ocely Dellinger, Helen Weikert, Helen Einseidel, Messrs. Sollberger—Stauffer.

A wedding of Saturday, April 29, took place at the home of Mr. Claude Geddys, when Miss Velda Stauffer, daughter of Mr. Daniel Stauffer, who lives near New Haven, and Mr. Fred Sollberger, son of Mr. John Sollberger, a farmer near Woodburn, were married at 6 o'clock. The wedding dinner was served on Sunday at the home of the bride's parents.

TAKES BIRTHDAY CAKE TO SCHOOL AND CELEBRATES WITH CLASS

Robert Gardner, of the Jefferson kindergarten, brought a big cake to school Monday morning and announced that he would have a party for the children in his room. The Sentinel camera man flashlighted the kiddies as they were at the table. In the group are Dorothy Swaidner, Janet Bauer, Mildred Piquinot, Clara Cramer, Arthur Wellman, Sally Niezer, Junior Drayer, Robert Gardner, Victor Yergens, James North, Ruth Grage, Florence Koegel, Nick Tosconi, Gertrude Keberle, Janet Michaelson, Clifford Knepper, Bonnie Miller, Mildred Beyerlein, James Heit, Paul Auman, Lena Johnson, William Lotz, Fred Buhlman, Ted Erick, George Snal, Loren Schranz, Richard O'Dowd, Joseph Gribbens, George Seemeyer, Dolores Langhor, Alberta Horn, Marian Henry, James Wilmoth, Robert Christen, Raymond Chadwick, Emma Averill, George Tomes, Jack Weil, Elroy Ramsey, Mildred Butts, Dorothy Gifford, Jack Kith, Marjory Hobrock and Glen Yagerlahner.

AT KEITH PALACE

A NIGHT IN THE PARK.

With a great fountain throwing a big spray of real water, occupying the center of the stage, the singing skit, "A Night in the Park," at the New Palace is given a scenic investiture that is decidedly pleasing to the eye. A male quartet with the assistance of a girl render a half dozen popular airs, indulge in some comedy pranks and close with a nifty idea in which a girl rolls a huge white ball over the top of the fountain and seemingly is lifted by the power of the water several feet in the air. It is a master stage picture.

Senator Francis Murphy's comical political speech, built along the lines of a Dooley discourse translated into germanized English, is another riot of fun on this bill. Miss Grace Ayres and her midget partner execute a score of difficult and graceful roller skating feats as an opening number. Wilson and Wilson, a team of dusky darkies, are presenting a merry bit of African comedy, entitled "The Bandman and the Band." One of these does a neat turn in his imitation of a camp meeting exhorter. The Ching Wung Wha troupe of Chinese magicians, tumblers and balancers have some mystifying stunts. One of them eats a half dozen burning paper tapers and then swallows a lighted candle and several bundles of cotton, finally pulling reams of paper out of his mouth between exhalations of blue smoke.

then upon the stage with the Henry W. Savage Opera company. Following this she had a long course in stock companies through which she played a great variety of roles.

"I have come to the conclusion," said Miss Hackett recently, "that the secret of success in any walk in life is hard work. With me it has been work, work, work, ever since I began to earn my own living. I have seen girls come and go in the theatrical business. Some of those who came stayed, but they were the ones who were willing to work, work and then work some more. The other sort—those who were looking for an easy way to earn a living—seldom lasted over two seasons; occasionally they would be seen for three and then they would disappear."

"Any Man's Sister" Is a Special Play for the Ladies.

Modern melodrama, as exciting and as full of life and action as that which held the attention of the public some years ago, is coming back again, but not with its old crudeness and baldness. The modern melodrama is thrilling, but it is not impossible. It is truer to life, and its characters are more vividly drawn. A specimen of the new idea in this sphere of amusements will be seen at the Majestic for three days starting Thursday, when "Any Man's Sister" will be offered with Blossom Baird at the head of a select company. This play is in four acts, and the fads and foibles of the present day are shown as in a mirror. There is not a dull or prosaic moment in the four acts, and the story is spiced with excellent humor.

AT THE EMPRESS

"BOSS OF THE RANCH."

Temple Players Today and Tomorrow at Empress Theater.

A typical western melodrama, "The Boss of the Ranch," will be the offering of the Temple players for the first half of the week, and will be seen tonight and at two performances tomorrow at the Empress theater. The troupe will move back to their own stage Wednesday night, but three splendid shows of "The Boss of the Ranch" will be given at the Empress during the two days interim, with matinee and reception tomorrow.

The action of the play takes place on an Arizona ranch with cow boys, Mexicans and frontier characters represented in the cast. Miss Olive Blakeney, as Florence Curtis, the boss of Bar Z ranch, has the leading female role, which she plays admirably. Miss Ethel Hamerick, as Madge, little sister of Frank Marvel, the ranch foreman, has a part especially adapted to her vivacity and winsomeness. Miss Zula Ellesworth, as Arabella Marshall, and Maurice Jenkins, as Doc Rye, a cow puncher, convulse the audiences with their love-making. Fred Ford has been cast for Richard Huntley, a cattle thief operating under the guise of respectability, while Moque, a Mexican, treacherous and a tool of Huntley, is played by Charles K. Franklyn. The scenes portray the front yard and kitchen of the ranch, and are especially staged for the cattle country. The drama is wholesome and of a type of the west that is not overdrawn. It is one of the best played in stock at popular prices and Fort Wayne theatergoers are assured that the Temple players at the Empress today and tomorrow and present a show worth while.

AT THE TEMPLE.

ELMENDORF TRAVELOGUES.

Beginning this afternoon with two performances at 2 and 4 o'clock, the great Elmendorf travelogue pictures, something new and entirely different, will be seen at the Temple theater for two days. The shows tonight and Tuesday night will begin at 7:15 and 9 o'clock, with two matinee performances in the afternoon. By this arrangement all classes of Fort Wayne people, large and small, will be afforded an opportunity to see the most wonderful telephotographs in color and motion pictures ever shown in this city of this character.

The topic selected is "Ceylon," which is really a visit to the other side of the world, or better still, to have the wonders of nature unfolded as though by some magic art on the screen, with the aid of camera and brush.

As an educational factor the Elmendorf hours of travel can only be really appreciated when seen and heard. The attraction comes to Fort Wayne with the enthusiastic endorsements of educators and tourists everywhere, and is the most complete and instructive method of transporting the wonders of the other side of the world in fascinating art. "Travel Without Trouble" is the slogan of the management.

A special school children's matinee has been arranged for this and tomorrow afternoons at 4 o'clock, an hour which will permit of their attendance without interfering with school attendance.

BOSTON MAN NOMINATED.

New York, May 1.—Arthur E. Reimer, of Boston, Mass., was nominated for president of the United States and Caleb Harrison, of Chicago, was nominated for vice president by the socialist labor party, in convention here last night. Both nominations were unanimous.

A resolution was passed urging employes to organize industrially "on the principles of the workers of the International Industrial union and do all in their power to show the fallacy of craft unionism as exemplified by the American Federation of Labor, which was characterized as a "mere watch-your-job-and-boost-your-pay organization."

A platform was adopted asserting that the present system of "economic inequality" is destructive to the life, liberty and happiness of the working classes, and declaring that the means of production "must be owned, operated and controlled by the people in common."

Marie Antionette had a fancy for draping her willowy figure in bunchy and rather ungraceful hip-draperies, which seem to be perfectly good reason why Miss 1916 should have her dancing frocks draped at the hips.

In borrowing fashions from the queen, Mme. Alla Ripley, noted designer, reduced the baggy puff to a graceful fullness—and the best thing about it is that it's adjustable.

When the "fan" is omitted the gown remains a simple marquisette frock with folds of taffeta flowers trimming the full skirt.

Mme. Ripley gained a striking color effect in this gown by using lavender chiffon over lavender taffeta and these are made over a foundation of blue marquisette.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"Success Is Spelled 'Hard Work,'" Says Arleen Hackett.

William Faversham, who will be seen at the Majestic Thursday evening in his new play, "The Hawk," is surrounded by a splendid company, with Miss Arleen Hackett as leading woman. Miss Hackett comes from the Puritans of Cape Cod, went into lyceum work and

Nine little children gathered at the home of Mrs. John Neuman, 450 Colerick street, Saturday afternoon in honor of the ninth birth anniversary of her son, Robert Neuman. Mrs. Neuman was assisted by Mrs. J. J. DeWald and Mrs. Ed Koenig.

SAFETY FIRST TRAIN OFF ON ITS JOURNEY

Washington, May 1.—The government "safety first" special train left today for Philadelphia, the first stopping place, on an educational tour that will take it through all parts of the country. Twelve steel cars carried hundreds of exhibits illustrative of the methods employed by the federal government in saving human life and property both at sea and on land. All of the executive departments who dealt with this work were represented. Estimates of the numbers of killed and injured by accidents each year is placed at 75,000 and over 2,000,000, respectively. Government officials claim that the number of deaths and injuries can be cut in half through safety first methods and the object of the tour is to show this can be done.

POLICE GUARD CHICAGO PLANT.

Deering Harvester Concern Is Surrounded by Officers.

Chicago, May 1.—Police guarded the Deering plant of the International Harvester company today to prevent disorder growing out of the strike of 5,000 workers in the twine factory. The strike has been in progress a week. The company offered the strikers a nine hour day with pay for ten hours but it was refused.

GERMAN LOSSES REPORTED HEAVY

Paris, May 1.—12:01 p. m.—German troops in dense masses made a violent attack last night on positions captured by the French north of Dead Man's hill, on the Verdun front. The attack was defeated by the French, the war office report says. The Germans, the announcement states, suffered enormous losses.

Two simultaneous counter attacks by the Germans on a trench captured yesterday by the French north of Cumieres were repulsed. At hill No. 304, and in the Vaux region there was incessant bombardments. A French aerial squadron bombarded a supply and munitions station south of Thiacourt and a camp near Spincourt

Edward P. Brooks, foreman of the Horton Manufacturing Co., and a prominent Fort Wayne man who lives at 1002 St. Mary's avenue, highly recommends Tanlac, the Master Medicine, because of relief he gained through its use. Mr. Brooks said:

"I suffered from lumbago in my back, shoulder and arms and I also was in a weakened state, my system being run down by an attack of la grippe. I had pains in my shoulders, back and arms and a stiffened feeling also bothered me. I felt tired and unfit for my work most of the time. The la grippe left me in such a weakened state that I felt bad all the time. Sometimes I'd have headaches that lasted through the entire day.

"A fellow-employe recommended Tanlac and I decided to try it. I have taken about a bottle and a half of the medicine now and I feel stronger and better in every way. The lumbago pains in my shoulders, arms and back have entirely disappeared. I do not have headaches nearly as often now as before and they are not so severe.

"Tanlac has brought me out of a weak and run-down condition and, therefore, I want to recommend it."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, sleeplessness and the like and is fine for relieving the after effects of hard coughs, colds, la grippe, pneumonia and the like.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Wayne and Calhoun streets store of the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun, and Broadway and Taylor.—Advertisement.

Nation's Industry to Be Organized on Warlike Basis to Make Country Able to Fight—Women May Even Be Called Upon.

WILL IT COME TO THIS?—HERE'S A WOMAN WORKING IN AN ENGLISH MUNITION FACTORY—AS MANY OF HER SISTERS ARE DOING IN LANDS ACROSS THE SEA, PROVIDING SHOT AND SHELL FOR THE FIGHTERS AT THE FRONT AND TAKING THE POSITIONS OF THE OVERTIRED WORMEN WHILE THEY REST ON SUNDAY OR AT NIGHT. WILL THE WOMEN OF THE UNITED STATES BE CALLED UPON TO SERVE IN THE FACTORIES IF THIS NATION GOES TO WAR?

New York, May 1.—Are you prepared, Mrs. Housewife, to drop your dishes after supper Saturday night and hie to the ammunition shop to put in an eight-hour day before breakfast Sunday—in case Uncle Sam goes to war?

That's just about what it would likely mean—that is what women are doing in Europe. These are the days when—

The hammer is mightier than the sword!

And from this day forth the mobilization of the pick and shovel, of the hammer and anvil, of the melting pot and retort, of the draught and blueprint, will decide wars that weapons merely fight.

Uncle Sam's great naval consulting board of experts has seen the light, and is working on plans for the enlistment of American industry should war's catastrophe fall.

Through Howard E. Coffin, auto builder and chairman of the board's committee on industrial preparedness, the warning goes out to America that America must prepare to win wars at home while her soldiers are fighting them in the field.

"No more need the workmen revolt against being cannon fodder," says Coffin, "for if we are organized industrially as we shall have to be to win a great war, the skilled worker will be too valuable to be sent to the front—the lawyers and merchants and bankers will be 'cannon fodder.'"

At the request of the naval advisory board, President Wilson has written the heads of the five national technical engineer societies—the mining, civil, mechanical, electrical and chemical engineers—asking co-operation of these bodies.

As a result each state now has a board of directors composed of five men, one from each branch of the engineering profession, and under these 48 boards are making an industrial inventory—a secret appraisal of the powers of every manufacturing plant so Uncle Sam may know just where he's potentially at.

The Commercial club of Fort Wayne and every other business organization connected with the chamber of commerce of the United States stands behind this gigantic inventory.

"The country is not 'prepared' unless it is able to support a war as well as to fight it," says Coffin.

"Three concerns make practically all the gauges and inspection tools for this country. Two of them are in the seacoast cities; all in New England. To produce 200,000 shells a day would require in this class of tools alone 17,000,000 to 20,000,000 instruments—and it would take five years to furnish this equipment!

The naval consulting board's plan is:

FIRST—To obtain and keep up to date an accurate census of the country's manufacturing plants.

SECOND—To have these plants equipped with the necessary tools and kept in practice by making a small amount of munitions each year in time of peace.

THIRD—To enlist skilled workers in the government service in the munition factories rather than at the front.

Miscellaneous Assortment of Animals to Accompany the Shriners.

Buffalo, May 1.—The work of getting ready for the annual session of the imperial council of nobles of the Mystic Shrine has progressed to a stage where officers of Ismailia temple of this city which is to act as host are assured that not only will the gathering be one of great magnitude but also its stated events will be moved with smoothness and precision. George K. Staples of this city, general chairman of the convention committee, predicted today that upwards of 100,000 visitors will be attracted by the convention. Most of these will be nobles and their wives and families, coming from the 139 temples of this country, Canada and Mexico.

Everything in connection with the Shrine annual meeting looms big in figures. The attendance will bring a multitude of people together. The uniformed patrols with their bands will make a creditable army, nearly 5,000 uniformed men and almost as many bandsmen. The sums that will be spent by visiting delegations on their special train equipment, traveling expenses and other outlays will run into the millions. Buffalo will disburse a $100,000 entertainment fund. One San Francisco temple is spending $75,000 on a special train journey. The Chicago temple will lease the largest passenger steamer on the Great Lakes for the trip to Buffalo, quarters while here and the return trip. The boat and supplies is to cost it $40,000. Other temples from various parts of North America have equally elaborate plans for the 1916 pilgrimage.

Many patrols will bring mascots with them. One from the desert region of the southwest will have a flock of camels. That from El Paso, Texas, will bring 100 burros. If shriners from El Paso can be prevailed upon to do so they will ride the burros in the big parade of the session, in which, it is estimated, anywhere from 20,000 to 50,000 Shriners will participate. A Calgary temple has secured a buffalo from one of the few remaining herds, which happens to be owned in that locality. It will be presented to the Buffalo zoo when the convention is over. Representatives from the Shrine temple at Honolulu will bring some animal typical of the Hawaiian Islands. They have written that it will be one suitable for the ceremonial sessions of Ismailia temple of Buffalo and will be donated to it, but that it isn't a goat.

The imperial council session will be held July 11, 12 and 13. Most of the hotel space in Buffalo and at Niagara Falls, which is a suburb conveniently reached, has been leased by agents for visiting temples. General Chairman Staples and Potentate John T. Claris of the Buffalo shrine, however, have found that there is always room for one more and are continuing to book accommodations for visitors.

"TIZ" FOR SORE, TIRED FEET--AH!

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen, aching, tender, sweaty feet. No more soreness in corns, callouses, bunions.

No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "Tiz." "Tiz" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. "Tiz" cures your foot trouble so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never, hurt or get sore and swollen. Think of it, no more foot misery, no more agony from corns, callouses or bunions.

Get a 25-cent box at any drug store or department store and get instant relief. Wear smaller shoes. Just once try "Tiz." Get a whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents. Think of it.—Advertisement.

SPENCERVILLE NEWS.

Spencerville, Ind., May 1.—On Thursday evening, April 27, at 6 o'clock, the commodious home of Mrs. Cora Steward was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Mr. Roscoe G. Walter and Miss Jennie L. J. Steward were united in marriage by the Rev. J. C. Valentine, of the Methodist Episcopal church, assisted by Rev. A. K. Mumma, of the English Lutheran church. Promptly at 6 o'clock Miss Zona Horn, from the piano, sounded forth the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march and the wedding party proceeded down the stairway to the west parlor, taking their places under a pink and white canopy. The impressive ring service was used, little Ercil Steward, son of William P. Steward, and nephew of the bride, dressed in white, carrying the ring. Mr. William P. Steward gave the bride away. Miss Hazel Steward, cousin of the bride, was a very charming bridesmaid in pink. Mr. Henry Walter, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride, who is a pretty girl with dark hair, looked most beautiful in a flesh colored gown of crepe de chine, georgette crepe and silver and carried a large bouquet of pink and white roses. After congratulations, an elegant three course supper was served in the dining room to sixty guests. At the bride's table, with its huge white bridal cake and radiating pink ribbons, were seated, besides the bridal party, Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Valentine and Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Mumma. When the bride threw her bouquet Miss Hazel Steward was the fortunate young lady. The groom, who has for several years been a successful teacher in the Harlan school, is now manager of the Steward oil interests of Laporte, Ind., where he has a bungalow waiting for his bride. The bride has for six years taught the primary grades of the Spencerville school with marked efficiency. The bride was a member of the M. E. church and Sunday school and the groom was the superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday school and a member of the Lutheran church.

NEVER TOUCHED IRVIN.

Chicago Boy of 9 Qualifies for Charmed Life Class.

Chicago, May 1.—When Irvin Bunke, 9, 92 Center street, departs this life it probably will be because nine automobiles and twelve freight trains ran over him and he was hit by lightning. Irvin was on his way home when he fell in front of a Halsted street car. Scores of pedestrians and persons waiting for cars saw the car pass over the boy's body. While the motorman was wringing his hands and the crowd was still gasping and waiting for the fire department, ambulance corps, and patrol wagon to come and lift the car off the mangled remains of the boy a couple of men crawled under the car and pulled Irvin out. Except for a slight bump on his head he was O. K.

Excitement and interest without parallel continue to feature the grand automobile campaign of The Fort Wayne Sentinel, and as each day brings us nearer and nearer the close, the excitement increases in proportion. Throughout the city of Fort Wayne and surrounding territory earnest and ambitious young women enrolled as candidates are eagerly pursuing votes and subscriptions, which, added to their total votes, will bring them still closer to victory. Victory—which means the possession of one of the handsome automobiles and other handsome prizes which will be awarded by this paper to those who have shown themselves entitled to them. Every prize is being eagerly sought by some candidate. To many, of course, the prospect of winning one of the four luxurious automobiles is the big thing of their lives, and they are not going to allow a single thing that will add to their chances of winning it to be overlooked.

With others, it is the $100 diamond ring. These handsome awards have their own circle of admirers, and these young women have fully determined that nothing but one of these beautiful rings will make them happy. Handsome stones, specially mounted in the Tiffany settings, they are prizes worth every bit of effort that will be put forth in their securing—worth far more effort than could possibly be exerted in winning them. These beautiful rings have been purchased and are now on display in well known local jewelry stores, where they can be seen by the candidates and their friends.

Beautiful are the $75 upright phonographs that will add so much to the sum total of their happiness, and these instruments surely will mean unlimited pleasure and enjoyment to those who win them. No home is complete without a phonograph, and when such a prize as those we are going to award is offered for a little pleasant effort on your part you should allow no stone to remain unturned that will make you more certain of winning one. In addition to the above named prizes, a ten per cent commission will be paid to non-winners on all new subscription money turned in by themselves.

Every candidate entered has four chances to win one of the handsome automobiles—the Paige "Fairfield Six" 1916 Model touring car, the Overland "Six" 1916 Model touring car, the Saxon "Six" 1916 Model and the Pullman 1916 Model. The four candidates polling the highest number of votes, regardless of district, will be awarded the four automobiles.

But seven weeks yet remain of the contest, and every moment is rapidly growing in importance. Before long it will be too late to do the effective work. If you really desire and appreciate one of these awards, NOW IS THE TIME TO SHOW YOUR EARNESTNESS! Canvass your section thoroughly and do not allow a single subscription to escape you. It might be just the one you neglect to secure now that will turn your hopes of victory into defeat, but by making each minute of your work bring you its full value of votes you will make certain you have done everything possible to cause victory to perch upon your banner.

A very important thing for every candidate to remember now is the special offer. To each and every candidate who secures and turns in $25 in new subscription between the dates of April 25 and May 10 a SPECIAL EXTRA BALLOT OF 100,000 VOTES will be given, in addition to the votes they will secure on the subscriptions themselves. Extra vote ballots will be issued after the offer closes and sent to the candidates by mail direct and may be voted at any time during the campaign.

CAMPAIGN GINGER.

Hustle, plus votes, equals a Sentinel automobile. It adds pleasure, divides time, subtracts commonplaces of life and multiplies your friends.

Have you noticed how many votes a year's subscription will bring?

Use the "First Subscription Coupon" when you get your first subscriber. It is good for 15,000 extra votes.

"Why so many automobiles?" asked a fair candidate yesterday. "I can't for the life of me decide which one I wanted most."

People help those who help themselves.

The Contest Department telephone number is 173. When in doubt ring us up.

It is easier to ask questions than to correct mistakes.

"Where do you live?" was asked a business man the other day.

B. M., (whose daughter is a Sentinel candidate) absent mindedly, "In District Four."

The date on the free coupon changes each day. Be sure they are in before they expire.

Mrs. Pauline E. Barfield, who is helping Uncle Sam find jobs for women and girl workers. She is at the head of a newly created bureau in San Francisco, dealing entirely with feminine unemployed, one phase of the proposed reorganization throughout the country of the Federal Free Employment Bureau by Commissioner-General of Immigration Caminetti.

Mrs. Barfield has charge of the employment of women through the bureau in a zone covering the northern district of California. She has been in federal service six years and was formerly a clerk in the department of commerce at Washington.

The establishment of similar bureaus in 17 varge cities of the United States is indicated by general instructions from Commissioner Caminetti. It is a move on the part of the government to make the lot of working women a little easier and freer from the designs of unscrupulous employment agents.

WILL MEAN IMMENSE SAVING.

Discovery of Much Importance to Steel Manufacturers.

Pittsburg, May 1.—A process for extracting ferro alloys of manganese and silica from slag which it is claimed will resul tin an immense saving to steel manufacturers has been discovered by George A. Hayes, Zwickley, Pa., and George D. Lain, of Elmira, N. Y., students at the Carnegie Institute of technicology. Ferro manganese and silica are essential elements in the manufacture of steel but since the start of the European war both have greatly advanced in price, the former from $75 to $400 a ton.

WILL LAST SIX MONTHS.

Newark, N. J., Begins Celebration of 250th Anniversary.

Newark, N. J., May 1.—Six months' celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of this city by Robert Treat in 1666 began today with the ringing of bells, blasts from all the whistles in the city, the firing of guns and a military parade. Formal ceremonies with addresses by the governor and mayor will be held this afternoon, and a musical festival will begin tonight. Arrangements have been made for thirty-five parades to be held before October in connection with various conventions.

WILL CONTINUE TUESDAY.

The bazar given under the auspices of the committee of ladies from the various German societies at the Turner hall will continue over Tuesday. The money and other donations are for the benefit of the German and Austrian war sufferers and the response has been most generous. Nearly two thousand visitors attended the bazar on Sunday afternoon and evening. Over one hundred were the guests of the bazar committee for dinner and over five hundred ate supper at the Turner hall, nearly three hundred being turned away owing to lack of space.

It was again necessary to operate the Pennsylvania freight house Sunday. The preceding Sunday the warehouse was closed, but for the nine Sundays before that one it was in operation.

Inventor Offers Services Free to All Unable to Pay

Guido. Bienio, inventor, manufacturer, chemist, gold medal winner for fire-proofing processes; who made the San Francisco fair safe from flames; who says that California has untold deposits of minerals of incalculable value, offers to test and analyze ores for any man unable to pay an assayer's fee.

"I want to see the great deposits of minerals, which lie in large bodies in the southeastern part of California especially, developed and put to commercial use. I want to see new industries built up and the field for labor broadened. I want to see factories established, men at work, happy homes. I am more than willing to do my share."

Guido Bienio is a man of international reputation, having won highest award at every world's exposition for his method of fire-proofing. He is a contributor to magazines and a naturalized citizen who believes firmly in "America first—and last."

FEMININE FRILLS—IMPORTANT
Concerning the Accessories of Fashion for Summer, 1916.

What is it that gives one costume the subtle air of being complete to the last turn?

And what does that other lack that leaves it cold to the observer's eye?

Just these delightful feminine frills and fantasies which we can call it without—but which are the "breath of life" to the woman who knows ... they weave smartness, illusion, mystery, if you like, into the simplest or most elaborate of costumes.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

BOWSER EMPLOYES GET HANDSOME INCREASE

Fifty Hours Weekly Work Schedule and Increase of 7½ Per Cent.

An increase in wages of 7½ per cent recently granted the employes of the Bowser Oil Tank works will become effective today, simultaneously with the inauguration of a fifty hour per week schedule decided upon following a vote taken among the employes of the concern.

The Bowser company have a co-operative plan among their help, whereby each month every shop employe of the company receives a dividend according to the total efficiency rendered in work well and intelligently done. This dividend accrues from this good service which has served to greatly reduce the number of complaints from the purchaser of the Bowser goods, which saves the company a great deal of annoyance and expense. This dividend is not a part of the salary, but an addition to it.

Since this new plan has been adopted the employes have a congress, senate and cabinet, after the fashion of the United States government, whereby all of the employes, from the man who pushes the wheelbarrow to the factory manager has a say through the vote of his brother workman, who is his representative or congressman, as to what he wants and does not want.

The congress is composed of 42 representatives, and the senate has 42 members. The cabinet is composed of the executive officers of the company.

Each of these bodies have a meeting once a week, and are working out some splendid things for the betterment of their conditions, having, as they have, the hearty co-operation of the firm they can bring about some important results. One of the things recently started by them, in addition to a sick and accident benefit fund, which they now have, is a $1,000 insurance for each employe, and an old age pension fund, which has the hearty endorsement of the Bowser company, who have officially informed this body that as soon as they have their plans perfected and are ready for business, that S. F. Bowser & Company would contribute $10,000 to their treasurer to start off with, thus putting the insurance and old age plan in full swing from the very start.

This is looked upon as a great encouragement to the employes in getting a home, and after it is partly paid for, should anything overtake the husband, the insurance will enable his wife to secure the home to herself, and all of her husband's hard earnings and endeavors in this direction will not be lost, thus the employes greatly appreciate this move, and the hearty co-operation that it is receiving from the firm. And other things along this same line will be worked out that will be beneficial to all the employes.

The Bowser company has been in operation for 31 years this spring, and no firm in the state of Indiana has furnished their employes with steadier work than has the Bowser company, and but few firms have the reputation of treating their help as well as the Bowser company, and with it they pay wages that will compare favorably with any concern in this part of the country. Therefore, any building up that the men may do along any line of betterment is upon an enduring foundation and will be an effort to their own advantage, and will not be hindered by running short of work, reduction of force, laying off, and so on, as the Bowser company in the future expects, if anything, to be more aggressive than they ever have been heretofore.

PENNSY PENSION LIST.

Receives Fifty-three Recruits During Month of April.

"Information," the news pamphlet issued by the publication department of the Pennsylvania, under date of April 29, contained a fine picture of Albert G. Estry, the retired Western division passenger conductor, and a brief record of his remarkable record. "Information" also stated that during the month of April thirty-nine old employes east of Pittsburg and thirteen on the lines west were placed on the "honor roll," as the pension list is called. Mr. Estry was the only one from the Western division. Six of the pensioners worked more than a half century each, their combined services footing up more than 305 years. There are now on the roll of honor of the Pennsylvania 4,567 men and women. Since January, 1900, when the system was established, more than $12,600,000 were paid to pensioners.

AN OLD-TIME PAPER.

Engine Performance Sheet of Thirty-Eight Years Ago.

A relic of old times on the Pennsylvania is an engine performance sheet during the month of March, 1860, received at the office of T. W. Demarest, superintendent of motive power, this morning. The sheet told of the performance of engine 196, which was probably one of the best of her day, which durin gthe month consumed 8,700 cords of wood in her travels over the line between Crestline and Chicago. On the margin of the sheet were the names of all of the engineers on the road at that time. The list contained the names of a number of well known engineers who have been dead some years. Other names were of men now living, but on the retired list.

GEORGE FEUCHTER RESIGNS.

George Feuchter, who was serving his third term as president of the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen union, resigned at the last meeting, owing to the press of business which would not admit of the attention the office demanded. H. F. Schwartz, the past president, was elected as Mr. Feuchter's successor.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Smith were guests of relatives at Green Springs, O., yesterday. Mr. Smith is chief clerk to Nickel Plate Supt. W. N. Williams.

Labor union people anticipate a big meeting here May 30, when Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, will be present and deliver an address. Plans are also under way to have another prominent labor leader present at the meeting.

REMEMBERED RETIRING FOREMAN

As he was about to leave the shops for his home Saturday, Fred S. Zurbick was surrounded by the men at the east car shops, while one of their number speaking in behalf of all presented him with a beautiful stick pin and an umbrella. Today Mr. Zurbick assumed the duties of foreman of the refrigerator department of the Pennsylvania shops at Chicago, a nice promotion which carried with it a handsome increase of salary. Mr. Zurbick was employed at the east car shops ten years, the past three in the capacity of assistant foreman. He is regarded a most capable employe and is popular with the men with whom he is associated.

TRAVEL TO LAKE BEGINS.

Over 100 people, mostly fishermen, went to Rome City yesterday to spend the day on the lake, the number being the largest of the season so far. Many went to the lakes over the N. Y. C. line also, but travel to those resorts does not begin properly until next Sunday, when a new time card becomes effective. Under it the train now leaving the city for the north at 8 o'clock daily except Sunday, will become daily and will leave Sunday morning at 5 o'clock. Tickets for this traffic will be to Pleasant Lake, Angola, Fremont and Ray, near which stations are located the lakes.

NICKEL PLATE PROMOTIONS.

Four Nickel Plate men are affected by resignations and promotions which became effective Monday. The promotions are brought about by the resignation of E. B. Pearsons, chief clerk of General Passenger Agent J. Y. Callahan, Cleveland. Pearsons is going into business for himself. C. A. Beck, district passenger agent at Minneapolis, Minn., has been given Mr. Pearson's place. A. W. Saunders, traveling passenger agent at Buffalo, has been appointed to fill the Minneapolis vacancy. J. W. Arnold, Cleveland, ticket agent, will be given the Buffalo position.

PAYMASTER MILLER IS DEAD.

W. H. Miller, general paymaster of the Wabash, died in a hospital in St. Louis at 5:50 o'clock Sunday morning, following an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Miller was to have been married today and he went to St. Louis for that purpose. He was only recently made general paymaster of the road, having for years been the paymaster on the Western division.

RAISED RIVES' SALARY.

General Chairman W. J. Rives, of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Wabash system, has received a very substantial increase in salary. Hereafter he will receive annually $3,600; he formerly got $2,400. Business of his office brings Mr. Rives here occasionally and he is quite well known to Wabash train employes in the city.

GOES TO THE OVERLAND.

William F. Niebergall will resign a position at the General Electric works this week and take employment with the Overland automobile works, to be assigned to the purchasing department. Mr. Niebergall has been employed as an assembler at the Electric works several years.

"SKIP" WRIGHT VERY SICK.

J. E. Wright, machinist at the Pennsylvania round house for a number of years, suffered a slight stroke of paralysis Friday night and has been unable to leave his room since. "Skip," as the boys at the round house call Mr. Wright, had charge of the turntable at the round house for several years.

Carl Gerke, clerk in the Pennsy machine shop office, spent the week-end in Findlay, Ohio, with relatives. His sister, who has been there a week, returned last night with him.

E. Winicker, who has been employed at the Pennsylvania machine shop since last fall, resigned today. He is a musician and will play in the parks at New York during the summer months.

Two of the prairie type of freight engines on the Wabash are being converted into superheaters for passenger service and when returned to the road they will pull passenger trains between Peru and Decatur.

Chief Clerk R. J. Bowman, of Supt. W. F. Patterson's office, at the Nickel Plate, joined his wife at Fostoria Saturday night and brought her home last night. Mrs. Bowman was visiting in that city a few days.

Passenger Brakeman R. F. Koons, of the G. R. & I., with headquarters in Grand Rapids, is sick at the home of his brother in Fort Wayne. He was taken sick on the train and had to give up the run when he reached Fort Wayne.

Col. R. G. Thompson, colonization agent of the Canadian Pacific, who is at Hope hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown, is slowly improving, his physician states. Colonel Thompson was taken ill while on a visit here.

Word from Logansport received by Secretary A. J. Cash, of the Y. M. C. A., is to the effect that Myrl Vance, assistant secretary, who went there to recuperate after an operation for appendicitis, is doing well and will soon be able to resume his duties.

Vice President and General Manager C. T. Strawbridge, of the Bass Foundry and Machine company, is in New York this week on business for the company. Mrs. Strawbridge accompanied her husband and will be the guest of friends during the week.

Eastbound Pennsylvania freight train 9937 struck and killed Mrs. Sarah Higgins, of Wanatah, on the tracks in that city Saturday. She was walking on the tracks between streets and failed to heed the warning whistle of the engineer. The train was in charge of Conductor M. Thomas and Engineer S. O. Middleton.

Friday a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Nestel at the St. Joseph hospital. The proud father is a switchman in the Wabash yards. Mr. and Mrs. William F. Poyser, the former the foreman of the carpenter department of the Wabash shops, are the grandparents of the little one and take as much pride in her as do the parents.

The Decatur, Ill., papers Sunday published the rumor that Jesse F. Patterson, superintendent of the Peoria division nof the Vandalia, with headquarters in Decatur, would be promoted and transferred to the Michigan division, with headquarters at Logansport, succeeding the late Superintendent Campbell. The rumor could not be verified here.

FALLS DEAD WHILE OVER THE WASH TUB

"Will you please come over to my house? My mamma is lying on the floor and won't talk to me."

The child was out of breath and excited and Alice Harkenrider knew something was wrong. She hurried over to the home of John Landstofer, two miles east of Sheldon, and found Mrs. Landstofer, 35, cold in death. Mrs. Landstofer was doing her family washing when stricken. Her five-year-old daughter was the only person in the house at the time. The child saw her mother fall to the floor and tried to get her mother to talk to her. When she wouldn't she rushed from the house to the nearest neighbor. She was dead when found by Miss Harkenrider about 11:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Coroner J. E. McArdle and Deputy R. B. Garmire conducted an inquest Monday afternoon and found death had been due to organic heart trouble.

BULLETIN.

Berlin, May 1.—(Via London.)—At least another day's deliberation at army headquarters and perhaps more, may be expected before the German answer to the American note is decided on. This is deduced from the fact that Ambassador Gerard telegraphed last night it was uncertain when he would be able to return to Berlin. Mr. Gerard is the guest of Emperor William.

THE DEATHS.

JOHNSON.

Mrs. Douglas Jane Johnson, widow of the late Isaac Johnson, died Sunday evening at her home, 209 Mechanic street, following an illness of over a year due to Bright's disease and heart trouble. Mrs. Johnson was born in Scotland near the old town of Kelso, but came to America in 1854 and directly to Fort Wayne. Later she moved to Wells county with her parents, where she was united in marriage to Mr. Johnson. The same year she moved to Fort Wayne, where she had resided ever since.

THREE WIVES AND A LONE HUSBAND

All Complain of Unhappy Lives and Ask for Freedom.

Blanch Berry says James Alfred Berry treated her cruelly, did not support her properly, often struck her and falsely accused her of infidelity. They were married in December, 1911, and separated last November. She wants her maiden name, Mooning, restored. Ryan, Ryan & Aldrich are her attorneys.

Carrie Connor says she was married to Alden Morton Connor May 19, 1915, and was deserted by him the 10th of July following. She says he nagged and struck her. She does not know where he is. Ryan, Ryan & Aldrich appear for her in the superior court.

May Kimberling complains of Nelson Kimberling and says that he was cruel and did not support her properly, compelling her to work. They were married in May, 1911, and he left her last August. She wants her maiden name, Miller restored. Ryan, Ryan & Aldrich appear for the plaintiff.

Neglected Him While He Was Ill.

Edward Tombough has begun action in the superior court against Dorcas Tombough for divorce, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment and abandonment. They were married December 26, 1911, and separated June 26, 1915, on which latter date the plaintiff says his wife left him. Just before that he sets out, he was disabled by an injury and while helpless his wife refused to cook his meals for him or to help him. She had previously neglected her household duties, would not cook for him and absented herself from home without his knowledge and consent. He asks the custody of a daughter three years old. Ryan, Ryan & Aldrich are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Notes of the Courts.

The Westfield Manufacturing company has begun suit in the superior court against Henry G. and Jacob J. Schlink to collect $300 on account. Breen & Morris appear for the plaintiff.

Rosa Ripple files a petition in the superior court against Grace D. Griswold and C. A. Rigdon to set aside a judgment by default, alleging she had no notice of the pendancy of the suit and that she did not know that her signature had committed her to the obligation upon which judgment was taken. A. W. Parry appears for the petitioner.

William L. Nevin & Company have brought suit in the superior court against N. Max, the Cincinnati Cloak & Suit company, William D. Gruber, one Livingstone and Copeland & Company to collect $800 alleged to be due as commissions for conducting the bankrupt sale for the Copeland Company in Fort Wayne. Colerick & Hogan appear for the plaintiffs.

The will of the late Henry Hoffman, just filed for probate, leaves the entire estate of the decedent to his widow for life, to be divided at her death equally among their children.

A. C. McCoy, a public accountant with offices in the Shoaff building, has been appointed trustee in the suit of James P. Karr, vs. John D. Rauch. The appointment was made in the Adams circuit court, where the suit is pending on a change of venue from Allen county.

LIQUOR LICENSES GRANTED.

For the first time in several months nothing out of the ordinary developed in the court of the county commissioners when that body met Monday to consider applications for liquor licenses. Thirteen retail licenses and two wholesale licenses were renewed, two transfers were granted and one application for transfer was dismissed by the applicant. The following is the list:

FUNERAL SERVICES TUESDAY.

Remains of Thomas L. Brunson Reach City from Kentucky.

The remains of Thomas L. Brunson, who died Saturday at his home in Somerset, Ky., arrived in this city Monday and were taken to the home of his niece, Mrs. Leo Bohne, 1707 California avenue, where funeral services will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services will be in charge of the Masons and Rev. S. E. Boyer will officiate. Interment at Lindenwood.

The deceased was well known in Fort Wayne. He was a civil war veteran and a member of the K. of P. and Masons. He is survived by two sons and a daughter, Charles, of Decatur, Ill.; Nathan and Ellen, of Somerset, Ky. A sister, Mrs. Cassie Sweet, of this city, also survives him.

ELEVATION PLANS ARE DUE TUESDAY

The board of works expects that the revised plans for track elevation at Lafayette and Hanna streets will be submitted by the officials of the Pennsylvania railroad Tuesday, that being the end of the fifteen days from April 17, when the road acquiesced in the extension of time given by the board. A. O. Cunningham, chief engineer of the Wabash railroad, called on the board Monday, but imparted no information relative to his railroad's plans for elevation at the same streets.

CLEAN-UP ESSAYS COME IN.

It was expected at the office of the city health department that before Monday night not less than one hundred compositions would be submitted by school children in the competition for the prizes offered by Mrs. Josephine Nesbitt for the best essays on the clean-up campaign she is conducting in Fort Wayne. All the compositions must be submitted by Monday night and must give the best reasons for clean yards and alleys and beautified premises. A committee of newspaper men will be asked to judge the compositions and make the awards. A total of $5 dollars will be divided among the writers of the six best compositions.

PARK BOARD HEARING.

The principal business before the park board, Monday afternoon, was a hearing on the resolution for building sidewalks and grading the park strips on Rudisill boulevard from South Wayne avenue to Broadway. It was not though before the session began that there would be much objection to the improvement. The park board will accept an invitation from the Fort Wayne Shop Baseball league to ride in the big parade that will inaugurate the Shop league season next Saturday afternoon.

PLANTED IN 1842.

A pear tree planted by Johnny Appleseed, to whose memory a monument will be erected Friday in Swinney park by the Indiana Horticultural society, is still standing in the St. Joseph hospital yard and bears fruit every year.

According to Mrs. Endora Boyles, 813 West Main street, the tree was planted in 1842, at which time the property belonged to Mrs. Boyles' father, the late L. J. Ferry, which has since been acquired by the St. Joseph hospital.

SPECIAL CAR TO KOKOMO.

DEATH NOW CLAIMS WIDOW OF SUICIDE

Mrs. Fannie Seaton, whose husband, caretaker at the T. F. Thieme suburban home, committed suicide two weeks ago, died in St. Vincent's hospital, New York city, Sunday night. Mrs. Seaton, who was 52 years of age, had been a resident of Fort Wayne two years and was a fine woman who made many friends here. She was a member of the Baptist church.

It is presumed to be the critical illness of his wife that led the husband to commit suicide.

IN THE CHURCHES

Solemn services marked the opening of the May devotions in four of the Catholic churches of the city Sunday. These services were held in St. Mary's, St. Paul's, Precious Blood and St. Peter's churches. The order of the services was the procession of little boys and girls, singing of the Litany of the Blessed Virgin and May day hymns in her honor, the recitation of the rosary and the act of consecration to the Mother of Jesus and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Similar services will be held at the Cathedral next Sunday evening, beginning at 7:45 o'clock. May devotions at St. Patrick's church will be held every morning after the 8 o'clock mass. At St. Hyacinth's church devotions will be held each morning during the month after the 8 o'clock mass and on Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock.

Dressers Delight the Eye and Purse

What woman is there in Fort Wayne who doesn't specify to her husband that her dresser must not only provide a fund of conveniences, but must be beautiful as well. We know that and have met those requirements to a nicety in our new spring stock. Massive beauties every one, in any wood and finish your heart could desire. Scores of models of all kinds in plain, standard patterns to harmonize with any other pieces; and many in the popular period styles that prevail in every up-to-date modern home. Look at these prices; come in and make your selection.

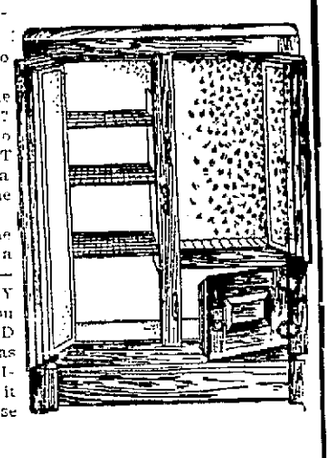
Why You Should Not Think Of Keeping House Without a Fox Refrigerator

HOW MUCH does your husband earn?

HOW MUCH can he afford to give you to keep house?

CAN YOU AFFORD to waste a part of his hard earned cash? NO! of course not. Neither do you want to. BUT YOU CAN'T HELP IT if you haven't a FOX REFRIGERATOR in the house.

What you CAN SAVE by the use of a Fox Refrigerator is a BIG REASON for having one—BUT surely you would ENJOY YOUR MEALS more when you know that ALL THE FOOD which is spread before you has been taken care of in a SANITARY MANNER and that it has NO TAINT of disease brought by flies.



This top icer with white enamel food compartment and ice capacity of 75 lbs., is a splendid value for 12.15

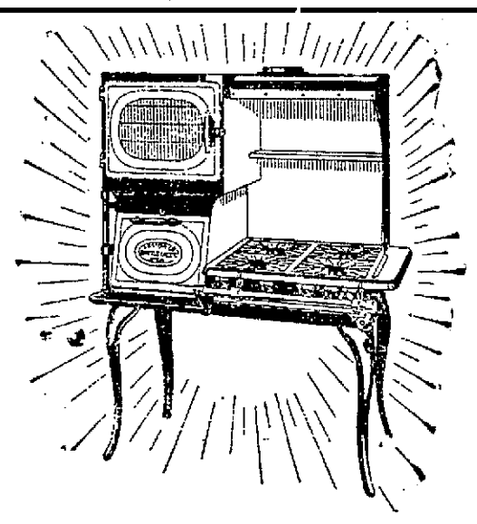
Chiffoniers that Please and Prettify

"Man wants but little here below," but he wants that little to be handy when he wants it and right where he expects to find it. That's the reason no bed room is complete without a chiffonier to care for the conveniences of the man around the house. Many women like them too for the additional room they provide for her wearables. But the chiffonier is essentially a man's piece of furniture. We have the man's viewpoint and have met it to the best of the capacity of the furniture market in chiffoniers. All sizes; all degrees of beauty; all woods; all finishes; all prices.



The A-B Gas Range Never Needs "Blacking"

The ordinary gas range looks nice while new, then the temporary finish wears off and it means a lot of hard, nasty work to black and polish the range. The A-B Gas Range has a rust-proof, permanent enamel finish that does not wear off, it looks like "new" all the time. If the stove becomes dirty simply wash it off like you would a china dish. The nickel is made with the special A-B "Always Bright" finish. This is just another of the many excellent points that make the A-B the favorite gas range. Come and inspect the entire line.

A Four-Burner Model Chosen As Our Gas Range Leader for This Season

Also very desirable for a summer cottage or home. Has four burners and oven. Just like picture and will give eminent satisfaction in every detail of service, and fuel saving. It probably contains more real gas stove value than any other we have offered at the same price. It will please any inspection you make of it.

Be Ready for the First "Warm Spell" With FOX Porch Furniture

A cool appearance is equal to a drop in temperature. Nothing is so helpful to the home in summer as furniture which has the appearance and the qualities of coolness—restfulness and comfort. The furniture of this kind which we have bought for your convenience in shopping this summer, is all of the type that will create a cool and comfortable atmosphere on your porch, in your sun parlor or at the resort cottage. Equally appealing are our prices. Now ready for you.

Wall Paper New---Exclusive---Distinctive

It is but natural that we should have the finest, most appealing and selective line of wall paper in the city and for many miles around. We furnish the home complete and are called upon daily for more home furnishing suggestions than most stores outside of the very much larger cities. We must have the wall paper to make our decorative and furnishing schemes complete. Our spring array of wall decorations is the most elaborate we have ever exhibited for your pleasure and economy. SHOP LEAGUE RUSHES PLANS FOR OPENING

SATURDAY SEES START OF FORT WAYNE INDUSTRIAL BASEBALL LEAGUE SEASON

The shop league stars on its last week or preliminary work today and Saturday afternoon starts the season with a great parade and celebration. The leaguers are holding daily meetings and are preparing to launch the season with a whoop that will be heard in every corner of the city.

The umpires and score keepers get together Tuesday evening and the managers meet Thursday night, each team will hold either one or two meetings and Mart Cleary and Secretary Ora Goff are holding daily sessions getting into shape for the season.

The Electric works and Dudio play Saturday at Foster park, the Western Gas and Bowsers at Weisser park and the Pennsy and Turners at Lawton park. A big automobile parade will precede the games.

JOSEF CHRISTIAENS AT WHEEL OF SUNBEAM RACER, EQUIPPED WITH AVIATION MOTORS.

Indianapolis, May 1.—Josef Christiaens has sailed from London with an English-made Sunbeam car to compete in the sixth international sweepstakes race of 300 miles at Indianapolis May 30. No end of red tape had to be discarded in order to get the British military authorities to permit this driver and car to come to the states.

Christiaens has been in the military service of the entent allies even since the war started. He is a Belgian and drove to sixth place here two years ago.

There is unusual interest attached to his car by engineers in all of the American automobile factories. It is known that progress in aviation motors has developed with greater strides during the war, due to the demand of expediency than would have come about in ten years with ordinary commercial stimulants.

The motor in this Sunbeam car, it is said, incorporates the latest that has been learned in construction of aviation motors. This type of motor, because of its lightness and other constructional features is considered best for racing purposes and American automobile engineers believe future sensational changes in American-made cars will be based on what the war has done to improve aviation motors.

The first chance that the American engineers have had to benefit by these improvements will be the opportunity to see, study and watch Christiaen's car at the Indianapolis race.

Christiaens has fought in the trenches, but later was in the aviation corps, and has won many medals for bravery.

In the finals in The Sentinel horseshoe pitching tourney Louis Dustman and Walter C. Hartwick finally eliminated all other players and then Dustman defeated Hartwick 21-16 and 21-10.

In the doubles the Bowman Brothers defeated Wilkie and Miller in the finals after the two pair had eliminated all others running. It is interesting to note that both first prize winners, Dustman and the Bowman brothers, are city men, and that Hartwick, who won second in the singles, is also a city man. Wilkie and Miller held up the country's end as the only country pitchers to finish in the money.

"Chinese Typhoon" Is Jimmy Howe

Portland, Ore., May 1.—From the hop fields of eastern Washington has come a little Chinese typhoon.

His name is Jimmy Howe.

Jimmy is champion Chinese bantamweight of the world, and is regarded as the fastest of the oriental boxers who have recently gravitated to the ring.

A stolid little fellow and a demon for punishment, Jimmy seems to have been born to wear the mitts. In the hop fields of Pasco, where he grew up, the youngster used to vary the monotony of work by indulging in shadow bouts, much to the amusement of his staid elders.

He had witnessed a boxing exhibition or two at Walla Walla, and from then on he cherished but one ambition.

Charlie Jost, veteran heavyweight of the northwest, gave him his chance. He had noticed Jimmy shadow boxing in his excitement over a fast mill, and took the Chinese bantam in tow.

His proud old mother, living at Pasco, Wash., and reputed to be worth close to a million, is very indulgent with her Jimmy, for the boy always carries a bank roll large enough to choke an elephant.

Recently "Fighting Billy" Murray, the famous California middleweight, has taken Howe as his protege and is teaching him a few new tricks.

The "typhoon" is 19 years old, and has the aggressiveness of a cornered wildcat.

HIS MEMORY COMES BACK.

New Orleans, May 1.—A story of loss of memory and identity and of wanderings from place to place for two weeks until he found himself here, was told by Earl E. Devlin, 28, who said he was a son of a millionaire automobile manufacturer of Detroit. He said that two weeks ago he felt an inexplicable desire to travel. He knew he boarded a train at Detroit, but from that time until he recovered his memory here he said his mind virtually was blank. Newspaper accounts of his disappearance brought back his memory, he said.

NOTHING DOING ON "FRATS."

Announcement was made several days ago that a high school fraternity was to be reorganized soon but Prof. Justin N. Study states that the school board will not allow it since all college fraternities and educators think of high school fraternities as a detriment to the community and to the members themselves. The state law also does not allow it.

Mart Cleary has announced his shop league officials and it is interesting to note that several old time leaguers are among those present. Wedler, Oscar Griebel and John Dornick have been boosters since the first meeting of the organization called six years ago. The umpires are Frankie Mason, John Dornick and Art Slade, and the scorers Griebel, Lutz, McGinnis and Wedler.

The Bowser team defeated Concordia 5 and 0 Saturday afternoon in a match marked by consistent Bowser slugging.

Miss Margaret Curtis, three times winner of the national golf championship, is now in France assisting in the work of the associated charities in alleviating the suffering of war refugees in the French capital. Although she has little spare time, Miss Curtis hopes to play golf occasionally, and her sister Harriot, also a former national champion, has forwarded a set of golf clubs to her headquarters in Paris.

Portchester, N. Y., boasts the youngest girl bowler in the United States in Beatrice Sherwood, 7 years of age, who almost daily appears on the alleys taking part in matches with her father. Will Dig Up Body of Girl to Look for Money in Wooden Leg.

St. Louis, Mo., May 1.—Charles Koerner of Detroit, will have the body of Miss Elizabeth Hauck exhumed at Alton to look for money which he thinks she may have concealed in her wooden leg. When she died Sept. 15, $700 was found in her clothing. Koerner, who is her guardian, thinks she had more money.

Miss Hauck was 35 and was formerly in the millinery business here, which was started with part of the $3,000 she received from a railroad company for the loss of her leg twenty years ago.

The Joy Of Forgiveness

By Elsie Endicott

AUNT MARY! Aunt Mary! the slapsorts have come—I mean the shortsnaps. O, dear," she laughed gayly, "what am I saying. I mean the—"

"Helen, come in. Sit down, think over carefully what you intend to say before beginning a remark. You are trying to tell me that the snap-shots which you took of the house and garden have arrived from the photographers?"

"Yes, yes, and they're ripping, Aunt Mary!"

"Do you mean they are torn, Helen?"

Angry tears rushed into the girl's eyes. "You know I don't mean any such a thing," she stammered. "You're only being hateful and sarcastic—and I—"

"Helen, you are not to address me in such a manner. You forget yourself. You are too excitable, too boisterous, you laugh too much, talk too much. You irritate men constantly. Try and cultivate moderation, quietness."

"But, Aunt Mary, I don't want to be always quiet and never to laugh like—" She bit her lips suddenly but her little chin shot out defiantly.

"Helen, you are alarmingly nervous this morning. I see now that I made a great mistake in permitting you to attend the little party last evening; it was unwse of me in the extreme." Her dark blue eyes which were meant to be sweet and gentle, grew cold, her lips set sternly. "During the remainder of your visit," she went on, "I shall not permit you to remain up later than 8 o'clock each night. I see that I shall have to discipline you as I should a child, since you persist in behaving as such."

The girl's face went white. Her eyes blazed. She turned abruptly to the window and gazed out unseeingly.

Her eyes smarted with suppressed tears. Her little hands clenched themselves upon her breast. She was fighting—fighting hard for control; not for worlds would she have broken down then before her aunt.

All the beauty of the day suddenly faded.

So happy she had been, so eager. Now she felt chilled, depressed.

Turning, she went over to her aunt. "You can look at the old slap-snorts alone, I—" she stopped, horrified, aghast!

"It is emphatically as I said," her voice cut. "You need sleep! Go to bed at once!"

For one bewildered moment Helen stood there. Then her face cleared, her little shoulders straightened themselves. With head erect she walked slowly toward the door.

On the threshold she turned. Her aunt's eyes were upon her. She looked straight into them with a clear, merry comprehensive look which had in it an element of deep, understanding pity.

Two afternoons later came a caller.

Fifteen years had elapsed since John Reed's last visit to his old home town. During that time success had come to him, but happiness not.

Always his heart wandered back to the little town and Mary. She had been so sweet, so gentle. He had loved her so. Never had he understood what had come between them.

If he had only known it, much less had Mary understood.

Simply another case of the meddlesome third person.

The ache in his own heart has made him wonderfully sympathetic: had broadened and sweetened him.

On the day of his arrival in the little town he went determinedly to call on Mary. He loved her still.

The door of the house stood open. From within came voices.

A bit of mischief left over from his boyhood suddenly came to life. Going in quietly he tiptoed along the hall toward the room which had lived in his memory all the years.

Suddenly he stopped, balancing himself against the wall. Someone was speaking. The voice was astonishingly hard and cold. He shivered!

"You are a most unpleasant child! Like a rough, boisterous boy you run through my house whistling, singing loudly! Now you have awakened me! You are hopeless! Never have I met such an absolutely irritating, disagreeable child! I cannot understand why your mother sent you here to me—it was an imposition—an—an incomprehensible thing for her to do.

"Mother thought you were lonely," the girlish voice faltered. "She said—she and dad—that you had no one but us to love you. They—they thought you might love me. I—I tried—I" the sweet voice broke pitifully.

He felt no slightest compunction over his peculiar position—listening there. Rather he felt compelled to stay—something held him.

For a moment only did the sound of sobbing come from the room. Then—

"Oh," came a broken, heart-stirred voice. "What a wicked, wicked woman I have been. Little girl, I do love you. You crept into my heart the day you came. But I—I wouldn't let you stay," the voice faltered—then went on. "I saw in you myself as—as I was years ago; it hurt—my heart hardened—grew bitter. I've hated other people's sunny faces—their happiness. I let the wicked hate come into my life. But I loved him so, child—and he went away—and all the world went black—black—black!"

"I've wanted to be hard and cold—I've longed to hurt. But O, I'm so sorry now—so sorry! Her voice ceased with a little choking sound.

For a moment the man knelt there. Then the woman raised her face from the pillow.

"Mary, Mary, beloved!" In his voice was all the power and wonder of 15 years' faithful love.

Then his arms went around her—with one hand he gently drew the wet face against his own—with the other he smoothed back the soft hair from her forehead in the old, dear way.

She looked into his eyes bravely. "John," she said, her voice sweet and gentle. "Heaven has forgiven me. Heaven is good!"

SAYS WE BECOME CRANKS ON HOT WATER DRINKING

Hopes every man and woman adopts this splendid morning habit.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice the drinking of phosphated hot water before breakfast, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons in the bowels which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and refreshing effect upon the system.—Advertisement.

STOCK YARDS KNOWS ALICE MASARYK WELL

Will Deeply Mourn if Bohemian Girl is Executed for Treason.

Chicago, Ill., May 1.—If they kill Alice Masaryk, as they're threatening to do, in Austria, for "treason," there will be widespread mourning in one of the most thickly populated districts in Chicago.

For around West Forty-seventh street in the stockyards district, where Miss Masaryk resided at the University settlement while preparing to write her history of Bohemia, the girl from Prague is remembered and loved by hundreds of lowly immigrant women—Poles, Lithuanians, Slovaks, as well as the Czechs from her native land.

Women all over America are signing petitions for Miss Masaryk's release.

"Miss Masaryk's personality was impressive," says Miss Mary E. McDowell, head of the settlement. "She was so simply and genuinely democratic, at home with the Slavic neighbors, the unskilled workers in the packing industries. She listened to their troubles, and they all talked freely with this beautiful, sympathetic girl. She came to America to know at first hand the Slavic immigrant.

"She was as a little child with the children. She organized a 'cleaner club,' and with rake in hand went into the alleys. In the evening she would perhaps make a public address on Bohemian history or literature. She organized a club of young Bohemian women for the purpose of keeping alive the highest ideals of the Bohemian nation.

"Miss Masaryk was philosophical and constructive in her thinking.

"She was a force for peace and good order during the stockyards strike of 1905, and helped influence the strikers toward peaceful holding out for better wages and conditions.

"Miss Masaryk had a typical Slavic face that lightened to brilliancy when she was speaking. She was called beautiful by those who loved her and and her ideas."

WORE WHITE DRESS FOR LUCK.

Columbus, Ind., May 1.—Mrs. Sarah L. Haler, age forty-nine, of Indianapolis, believed her second marriage would be luckier if she were married in a white dress. For that reason E. H. Kinney, local justice of the peace, had to provide a dressing room. It was the first time in his experience as a "marrying squire" that a prospective bride had demanded a place to change her clothing after she appeared for the ceremony.

Mrs. Haler and Charles White, an Indianapolis machinist, one year older than his bride, came here from Indianapolis to get married. The marriage license application blank showed that each had been married once before. Mrs. Haler said she lived in Indianapolis but when she was informed she had to be a resident of Bartholomew county to get a marriage license here she readily consented to move. Then she made oath that she lived in Columbus and there was no further hitch about issuing the license.

(This is the second story of a "Swat the Fly" series in which Dr. Jean Dawson, America's champion woman fly fighter, will tell Sentinel readers how to rid the city of the greatest of all disease carriers and greatly reduce sickness in fly season.—Editor.)

By Dr. Jean Dawson.

America's Most Famous Woman Fly Fighter.

Flies kill little babies, therefore it is the mother's duty to kill the fly first.

It has been found that infants' diseases and deaths, formerly thought due to other causes, are due to the common housefly. The baby, it's food and the utensils used in preparing it, should be carefully protected from flies.

Many mothers have stood and laughed at a fly's antics as it crawled over the face of a sleeping baby. They did not know the feet of the insect were scrawling the word "Death."

If you have not been able to rid your home of flies, then do sentry duty over your baby as it sits in its high chair

Ten chances to one such a fly has been promenading on a manure pile or on a heap of uncovered garbage, and its hairy legs and feet are swarming with disease germs.

If the fly manages to walk over baby's food or fall headlong into baby's glass of milk these germs are then swallowed by the child.

A fly can also transmit these germs to your child's food in its excrement, commonly called "Fly Specks," for disease germs pass unchanged through the fly's alimentary canal.

In other words, both the interior and exterior of the fly is charged with deadly disease germs.

As many as 550,000,000 germs have been found on one fly caught in a filthy district.

In fly season the deaths of infants from diarrhoeal diseases rise accordingly. Tests have shown that a rate of 28 children's deaths in January, when there are few flies, will jump to more than 175 deaths in July and August when flies are numerous and swarming from filth to the baby's food.

These deaths generally are reported as caused from "summer complaint." It were better if called by its true name—Fly Complaint.

A Symbol of Health.

The Pythagorians of Ancient Greece ate simple food, practiced temperance and purity. As a badge they used the five pointed star, which they regarded as a symbol of health. A red five pointed star appears on each package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and still fulfils its ancient mission as a symbol of health. If you are troubled with indigestion, biliousness or constipation, get a package of these tablets from your druggist. You will be surprised at the quick relief which they afford. South Bend, Ind., May 1.—People of Indianapolis who have been complaining of the inability of the police of that city to catch robbers may get a pointer from an advertisement printed in a local newspaper by J. E. White, of this city. Mr. White, incensed over the robbery of his house last Tuesday night, and the fact that thieves have recently been released on suspended sentences, publishes the following:

WANTED—Reliable man to guard my residence at 1048 Woodward ave., between the hours of 7 and 11 p. m., for balance of this week and first of next. Home was robbed Tuesday evening, presumably by same gang of boy robbers that was released by our kindly city police court recently. If second attempt to break in is made and watchman ascertains robbers are from families with political influence, all that will be required will be to shoo them away, as affidavit for arrest would probably be useless. MOTION PICTURE PRODUCERS BEGIN FIGHT AGAINST ARBITRARY CENSORS

Some Companies Use the Screen in Appeal Against the Boards that Cut Films Which Are O.K.'d Elsewhere

THE question of censorship each day becomes more serious to the motion-picture producers. That it has reached the point where something will have to be done—either the establishment of a federal board and the elimination of the state censors—is evidenced by the bitter fight many of the producing companies are making.

Not infrequently in the motion-picture theaters will occur a scene in which the father or husband, rescued from death, will clasp his baby daughter, or his wife or his sister in his arms. Then will flash upon the scene the following bit of sarcasm:

Permitted by the Censors

And the falutest suggestion of a kiss, which immediately fades into darkness, will be shown. So quickly is the kiss made, and so artfully has the producer brought home to the public the ridiculous prudery of some censors by immediately covering up the most innocent of kisses with a blank, black space, that one cannot but help feel the anger which the producer harbored while doing it.

"Free speech, free press and a free stage have always been ideals of the American people. Then why not a free screen? Our constitution's most sacred guarantee is freedom of expression. When censorship or any form of it is legalized here, then will begin the end of our democracy."

The Balboa Company says further: "This statement is intended to present the whole censorship controversy to motion-picture spectators in its true light. If it is established the spectators will suffer more than the producers. Hence, the associated picture makers have decided to put the issue squarely to the people in this manner. It is for them to say if they want their amusements censored or not."

Censorship is one of the most aggravating influences the builders of a great industry ever had to deal with. The question of submitting every film made to the opinion of a small body of men and women, to be judged and measured by the personal opinions of these few individuals, has arisen like a specter on the horizon of one of the largest and most beneficent industries the world has ever seen.

It is already seriously hampering the broad and democratic development of the art, and producers declare if the question is not put aside or solved in a sensible manner, there is grave danger that film making will be crippled; indeed, many producers claim that actual ruination is staring them in the face.

If a hundred photo plays were taken at random and compared with a hundred regular stage plays, or a hundred vaudeville acts, the balance will be found to be decidedly in favor of the photo play, when morality and good taste are considered.

Most of the operas are based on crime and immorality, and people of culture and refinement all over the world consider grand opera the highest form of entertainment. Many of the stage successes of today are far below the moral standard of the worst picture plays made, but not a thing is said about censoring them.

Censors of moving pictures have barred that old standby, Ten Nights in a Barroom, because of the number of gin mill scenes, yet this play has been presented thousands of times on the regular stage and by temperance societies and in churches. The censors of Kansas will not allow the Birth of a Nation, which is adapted from The Clansman, a speaking stage play, to be shown in the state.

Is it worse to look upon the pictured scenes of a play than to have the same thing set up and acted out with the addition of the performers' voices to make it doubly harmful, if there is any harm?

Many states have enacted drastic censorship laws for motion pictures, and, in addition to this, are many local boards and a great host of self-appointed keepers of the public morals working without official sanction. Few of these people ever agree on what should be and what should not be eliminated from pictures. What the Censor Board of one city or town will pass unchallenged will be viewed with horror by the next board that applies its rules to the picture.

One of the paid censors of Ohio expressed her delight in the comedy police pictures, and the police official on whose shoulders rested the weighty duty of deciding what should be shown in the picture-show houses of Chicago suppressed all pictures where a comedy policeman was shown in a ridiculous position, although the characters of the officers of the law were so plainly burlesqued that no one could see anything that would tend to ridicule uniformed authority.

The operation of the Censorship Board subject all films to inspection, the good and the bad are all judged, and always for a fee, and the innocent are assessed just as much for being declared good as the guilty are charged for being declared wicked.

The ruling of one board is seldom accepted by another. It is said that the censors in Pennsylvania objected to a news picture of a statue being moved, because the workmen placed a rope around the bronze to swing it to its new position—under the censorship laws that prohibit scenes in pictures of hangings.

Many of the film makers themselves are in favor of logical censorship. Indeed, they have themselves maintained the National Board of Censorship for years, for the purpose of creating a standard and keeping bad pictures out of the market.

Most of the producers consider this sufficient. Others, believing that censorship of some sort is inevitable, favor a board under the control of the Federal Government, with the belief that this would subject the films to but one examination, and eliminate the many state and local boards, which cause great delay and expense.

The majority of producers are opposed to censorship of any kind, and claim that the public should be its own judge. Just the same as it is its own judge as to the kind of books they read.

Below are the opinions of two men who speak with authority—one a producer, and the other a critic and authority on pictures. W. Stephen Bush, editor of the Moving Picture World, who is opposed to any censorship, says:

"Giving all due credit to the right motives of those who are advocating and even clamoring for censorship of moving pictures, one only has to discuss the question with a very few to discover that underneath it all there is not a little of the self-righteous spirit. A little further consideration will develop the fact that the ideas and convictions of no two individuals on all subjects will ever be found to coincide.

"All our educators today are devoting more and still more time and attention to the development of the individual and are realizing that the best system is the one that adapts itself most fully to the peculiar mentality of each unit in the class.

"By what line of argument can it be shown that the development of the enormous moving picture industry should be placed in the hands of a few officially appointed censors, to be measured by their individual yardstick? Who is there in this country or in any other country that is sufficiently free from prejudices and personal likes and dislikes, whose mental and spiritual outlook is so broad and infinite—whose artistic and moral sense is sufficiently developed, to be made the sponsor for the individual tastes of one hundred million American people, and if there were such an individual, would the proper amusement standards of the people of this country be more likely to develop without the exercise of their own individual selection and approval of what they considered helpful, and condemnation of the harmful?

"The only conclusion that we can arrive at on the question is that legalized censorship of any kind is likely to be productive of greater evils than it seeks to overcome.

"We note with great satisfaction that the press is beginning to grasp the danger of censorship as far as its own welfare is concerned. We have always pointed out that censorship of motion pictures is an entering wedge for the curtailment of the freedom of expression in general."

The following is an interview with J. A. Berst, vice president and general manager of the Pathe Exchanges, Inc. Berst is a pioneer in film production and declares for federal censorship.

"The motion picture companies today need a Federal Board of Censorship to protect themselves," Berst declares. "If we don't decide on a Federal Board, local state boards will mushroom over night to throttle the industry.

"It is not my opinion that the producers need censorship to prevent them from making pictures that would offend public decency or that would tend to corrupt the morals of the young, although, it is true that there are some few unscrupulous men in the business who would stoop to the lowest depths to produce pictures not fit to be shown to any audience because of the lure of quick riches. All of the reputable, responsible producing companies today are conscientiously trying to make the kind of pictures the public wants—and the public will never tolerate indecency. True, mistakes are made, but generally they are honest ones.

"If Congress will pass a bill for a Federal Board of Censorship, it will sound the death knell of the local state boards. Some of these boards will continue for a time, but eventually they will have to go.

"The reason that no progress is being made in the present fight in the case of the State Censorships is that neither the public nor the exhibitors are vitally interested. The public doesn't look upon motion pictures as a necessity. They go to them for amusement, but if all the motion picture theaters were closed, there would be no revolution in the United States. The exhibitors are in sympathy with the fight against the Censorship, but they are not interested enough to cooperate with the manufacturers to the extent necessary to accomplish anything."

"Prove them cruel words to me
And though it breaks my heart,
No more the haunts of men I'll see.
No more the city's mart,
Back into the jungle's wild
"I'll play a hermit's part."
Dubart folds note with gleeful glance,
Slaps self for joy on riding pants.

Subtitle:

DUBART TELLS JACK THE PROOFS THEY SEEK
ARE WHERE THE OLD MILL DAMS THE CREEK.

Scene 16.

THE old mill—evening light—
Dubart and Jack ride in—alight;
Then with many a tug and groan,
They pull the mill down, stone by stone.

Scene 17.

BROKER'S office (same as four),
Pudgkins' body on the floor.
Mabel enters—stops at door,
Sees the body—faints some more.
Dubart enters—(stealthy tread),
(Shows no reverence for dead).
With key he took from sexton's pocket,
He opens desk—steals Mabel's locket.

Scene 18.

CRIPPLED blind man led by pup.
Enters scene with outstretched cup.
Enter Mortimer Dubart,
Stabs the blind man to the heart.
(Gives the camera fiendish grin),
As he searches cup of tin.
Stows the pennies in his purse,
Exits with a savage curse.

Scene 19.

IT IS midnight at the mill.
Jack is working with a will.
Mabel enters—(looking sad)
Mourning for her poisoned dad.
Dubart enters—walking fast,
(On screen), "I have the proofs at last."
(Faces camera with a curse).
Takes the pennies from his purse.
Jack, with firm and manly grace.
Snaps his thumbs in Dubart's face—
Strides to Mabel's side—and there—
Puts his hand on her fair hair.
Dubart sees they've called his bluff—
Exits—(doing villain stuff).

Mabel's head on Jack's broad shoulder.

End of Reel Three.

"Mabel's head on Jack's broad shoulder."

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, May 1.—Wheat ran up rapidly in value today, influenced chiefly by wet weather northwest making certain a further decrease in the extent of spring crop seeding.

Opening quotations, which were ¼c off to ⅞c up, with May at $1.14½ to $1.16¾, and July at $1.15½ to $1.17, were followed by a raise that averaged on a little under the initial top level.

Corn hardened with wheat. After opening ¼c to ½c higher, the market scored some additional gain.

Oats shared in the firmness of other cereals.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, May 1.—Labor troubles probably contributed to the irregular trend of prices on the resumption of trading, although gains far exceeded declines, both as to number and extent. Mercantile Marines were again the central features, the preferred and common soon rising to new records of 93¾ and 26⅞ respectively. U. S. Steel and some specialties and such rails as Reading and Erie were highet by fractions to a point. Baldwin Locomotive was the only heavy feature, yielding a point with minor recessions in Mexican Petroleum and a few less conspicuous stocks.
Baldwin speedily made up its loss, likewise Mexicans, but the movement in other quarters of the list became more consuming. Distillers' Securities losing almost three points, with heaviness in Industrial Alcohol. Demand for Marines abated perceptibly, though subject to continuous profit taking, these issues yielded but little. Trading quickened later, the entire list responding to an inquiry for distinctive war shares, chiefly Crucible, Studebaker and other industrials of the same class, with gains of one to three points. Rails were only moderately active but higher. Bonds were steady.
A few high priced specialties rose substantially in the final hour and rails also hardened. The closing was strong.

WEATHE RCONDITIONS.

An area of low pressure covers the lower lake region, with loops extending southwestward to Texas. Another low overlies the northwestern sections, and a high area covers the eastern slope of the Rockies, with another high over the great basin. Precipitation has resulted from this pressure distribution over a belt from the lake region southwestward to Texas and New Mexico, and unusually cold weather in portions of the Rocky mountain region, plain states and upper lake region, with frosts along the eastern slope and in northwestern districts.

ASKS FEDERAL AID TO RELEASE PRISONERS

Bellingam, Wash., May 1.—County authorities here were to seek the assistance of the United States marshal to obtain the release of Capt. A. Costilanovich and seven other Austrian fishermen made prisoners in Hale's Pass yesterday by Lummi Indians and taken captive to the Indian reserevation on Lummi island here. The sheriff of Whatcom county was asked to rescue the fishermen who surrendered when surrounded by a band of Indians armed with rifles, but said he could do nothing as the reservation was outside of state jurisdiction. It was believed the Indians would promptly give up their captives if confronted by a federal official. The trouble yesterday was the culmination of a long series of disputes between the Lummi Indians and the state authorities and white fishermen over the Indians' claim to exclusive fishing rights in Hale's Pass.

DEWEY CELEBRATES MANILA DAY AT DESK

Washington, May 1.—Admiral Dewey today is celebrating the 18th anniversary of the battle of Manila bay. No plans had been made for any celebration so far as the hero of the day personally was concerned. As president of the navy general board Admiral Dewey was at his desk as usual today giving personal attention to the duties of his office. A short drive followed by a family dinner and early retirement was to round out the day.

PLANTING AT LINCOLN SCHOOL.

Grass, flowers and shrubbery were planted Monday on the grounds surrounding the new Lincoln school building in Washington township. The work was done under the supervision and direction of Prof. Sauers, a landscape artist from Purdue university. The grounds were graded and put in shape by a delegation of farmers of Washington township last Friday.

BLAMES DRINK, BUT IT IS POOR DEFENSE

James Collins, charged with disorderly conduct, told Judge H. Wayeland Kerr in the city court, Monday morning, that he was drunk and could remember nothing of what happened, Saturday night, just prior to his arrest. Others had minds that were clearer and related to the court how Collins had beaten a woman, dragged her about on Pearl street and Maiden Lane, made her shriek and led bystanders to believe he was committing murder. So busy was James with his diversion that he never took note that he and the woman came near being ground to bits under the wheels of a freight car that was trying to get into the interurban freight terminal on Pearl street. The crew of the freight car and others took James into the station and held him while a young man ran out and brought in Officer Fred Smith. Collins, and the woman, who gave her name as Emma Johnson, were both charged with disorderly conduct. The case against the woman was dismissed and she was not asked to testify. Collins said he and the woman had been drinking Saturday afternoon and evening in a down town cafe and that he got crazed with drink and did not know what happened. His companion was bleeding from wounds in her head and face when Collins was pulled away from her. Collins begged hard for leniency and blamed everything to drink. He solemnly promised the court never to put his lips to liquor again if shown mercy. The court was so touched by the plea that all it did was to fine Collins $50 and costs and add thirty days at the state penal farm, which will hold him for three months unless he pays his fine.

Mess of Roysterers Fined.

Nina Brown's domicile, 1731 Hanna street, was the scene of a polite social function that was participated in by herself and five gentlemen of the smart set of that region, Saturday night. After the police had landed the week-end party at headquarters in the patrol wagon and taken inventory it was found that Nina and the following among those present had been caught in the net: Messrs. Joseph Smith, alias Tom Demoff, a trans-Balkan refugee of taciturn disposition; "Brick" Crawford, barfly and saloon roustabout of bad repute and mangy appearance; John Wolf, who happened in by accident; John Mud, who evidently got the inspiration for his nom de jure from association with "Brick" Crawford, and Tom Jones, a Weisser Park avenue inhabitant, who showed some indications of personal respectability, but not enough to leaven the whole party. The bunch had been staging a beer party and making a loud noise, whereupon a police squad consisting of Sergeant Dave Blum and Officers Barr and Ueber made an invasion. Nina Brown has been complained of much recently to the police as having numerous men calling at her place. The case against Tom Jones was dismissed and the other five were fined $10 and costs. In posting her cash bond of $50, Saturday night, Nina produced a roll big enough to liquidate the public debt, but it was just a flash. Nina had fifty one-dollar bills—which itself was considered to cast suspicion. The woman is the same who in juvenile court some weeks ago was shown to have been giving her own children intoxicants. She is divorced from the father of the little ones and is remarried. Her present husband is absent. Many foreigners are said by the police to visit her place.

Other City Court Cases.

Joseph Tuosky, who keeps a small store and poolroom on Fairfield avenue, was charged with keeping a gambling device. Officer Bischoff, a new policeman whose uniform has not arrived, dropped into the place clad only in plain clothes and played a slot machine. After winning 20 cents he pinched the proprietor. The case was continued for hearing until later in the week.

Tom O'Hern, a chronic souse, pleaded guilty to intoxication with five previous convictions and drew $50 and costs and thirty days at the state farm, all of which will keep him there three months.

Tom Granger, but recently arrived in town, was making trouble on the street Sunday, refused to heed Officer Krabill's counsel to keep quiet and was arrested. He was fined $10 and costs.

Ralph Bayless was tried for disorderly conduct and his wife testified that he came home Saturday night under the influence of drink and abused her. She said also that he had not been supporting herself and children. The case was continued for judgment until Tuesday and Bayless went to jail. The Bayless home is near the north limits of the city on the Lima road.

Drunks were disposed of in this wise: Gust Leischel, George Green, Oliver Moffat, Charles Richmond, Steve Hannan and Charles O'Brien, turned loose; Frank Smith, $5 and costs; Andrew Ireland, $1 and costs.

Ethel Beck was charged in an affidavit with using profane language in the hearing of others. The case was continued until Thursday.

Albert Wilson was arrested on a charge of receiving stolen goods, the manner being the purchase of junk from some boys. The case will be heard later in the week.

Fred Dammeyer, a bartender in the saloon of Walter Baals, 1413 Hanna street, was tried on a charge of selling liquor to John Krauter, a 16-year old boy, and at the conclusion of the testimony the case was taken under advisement until Wednesday.

Frank Tressler was fined $10 and costs for speeding his automobile on Harrison street at 1 o'clock last Saturday morning, at the same time Harry Brunner was burning up the pavement. Brunner was arrested at the time by Officer Jack Lynch, but Tressler got away.

NOTES OF THE POLICE.

George Hecke, 438 East Washington street, reports to the police that a pocketbook containing $40 was missing from his pocket after a brief conversation with a negress Saturday night, near Clinton and Montgomery streets. He believes the wench, who had accosted him, got her hand in his pocket.

The horse and buggy that was stolen from James Kennerk, a farmer residing near Hoagland, while the rig was hitched on Superior street, was found early Sunday morning by the police and taken to a feed barn. It was found standing on the street.

Say it again, "Hol-Tayto-Loaf" Bread.
